Man Who Entered and Robbed Post-office There Yesterday Morning Traced here and Lost.

From Wednesday's Daily
The Wyoming postoffice was entered and robbed early yesterday morning and the man who pulled off the job was traced as far as this city by Detective Buell of Omaha and William Grebe and on reaching here the man was able apparently to secure a ride on into Omaha as no trace could be found of him in any part of the city.

The robber secured entrance to the store where the postoffice is located by removing a large window and took something like $25 in money and a pair of shoes and overalls and made his getaway from the scene of the crime.

Mr. Buell and his assistant, Mr. Grebe, on visiting the scene of the crime located a box containing cigars some articles of clothing and other smaller articles, had been hidden by the robber in a pile of brush near the store, the robber apparently finding them too heavy to carry off.

The robber, who was a young man, and dressed rather roughly, had been met by one of the Hathaway boys on the highway near Union and asked for a ride and was brought as far as three miles from this city where Mr. Hathaway stopped and the man walked on toward Platts-mouth and when reaching here had evidently gotten away in another car into Omaha.

PUTTING THE FARM ON A BUSINESS-LIKE BASIS

The first step to take in putting a farm on a good business basis is to take an annual inventory and from this to make out a credit statement for the banker. The farm inventory is the simplest financial record a farmer can keep. It tells him how much he is worth, above his debts, and a comparison of two successive annual inventories will indicate whether one has got ahead or has run behind for the year, and how much. All this can be learned by the use of less than half a day's labor once a year.

Any man who is borrowing money should make out a credit statement for the bank at least once a year. The banker is entitled to the information which a credit statement will give him. The farmer is entitled to the additional credit which such a statement will usually obtain for him.

Burlington Official States that No Such Move is Contemplated By Railroad Heads.

There has been frequent reports as to some adjustment of the strike situation between the Burlington railroad and its former employees now on strike and which, of course, has been of great interest here in Platts-mouth.

In speaking of the matter Superintendent William Baird of the local Burlington shops stated to the Journal:

"There are reports and rumors that some adjustment is being contemplated with former shop organizations. Mr. Jewell, December 23, telephoned President Hale Holden requesting a conference. He was advised by President Holden that no such conference could be granted as Mr. Holden had nothing to discuss with him now, or at any time in the future. All reports and rumors that any adjustment with the former employees was being considered are false and without foundation."

-Yuletide Greeting-

At this season of the year we are desirous of extending to our many friends and patrons, greetings of the holidays, and to wish that the coming year may bring them abounding health, a prosperity that will last and happiness which shall be full and lasting.

This year has been one in which the business we have done has been very satisfactory. We have been able to furnish merchandise at prices which have enabled all to participate in the excellent merchandise which we have had to offer you. We are appreciative of the splendid trade which has come to us by reason of selling the best the market affords and giving the most courteous service.

While many concerns are advertising that they are going on a cash basis, we will say that the prices at which we are selling goods, with many firms would speak cash.

With the new year start right—come open a trading account with our store. If you want to pay cash, do so, but we have lived here long enough and know you, and know that you are good pay and extend an invitation to open an account with us. We will carry you in your accounts until it is convenient for you to meet the bill.

Start the year right by opening an account with our store—the store which gives the best service, and most for the dollar.
