Nehawka the Progressive City
Situating in one of the best portions of the state of Nebraska and a state by the way which is difficult to beat, and having a citizenry all of whom are working for the betterment of the city, as evidenced by the activity of the Community club, and possessing a determination to win for their home town, they are making this one of the best little cities in the state. They have an auditorium, which would be credit to towns having ten times as many inhabitants and are looking to other improvements. They have the Sheldon Manufacturing company which enjoys a business which embraces every state in the union as well as being shipped to many foreign countries as well as also the islands of the sea. With each successive year this little city is making substantial gains and this year they are looking to improvements which will make the place better and one more desirable in which to live. Their consolidated schools are a credit to this country. With water service and paving and a sewer system in the future, this city will maintain her march towards a bigger, better and up-to-date city, and one in which there will be more pleasure in owning a home.

Had an Exciting Time
One day last week while Mrs. Robert Troop was preparing a meal, she heard distinctly a crackling similar to a fire and thinking it was rats, passed by the matter until it became more noticeable and some brown spots appeared on the wall. Then the matter was forced upon her that the house was a fire and she called Mr. Troop who was on his way to the barn, and then the neighbors were telephoned for. They came in less than five minutes and by dint of hard work were able to save the house, but not until they had carried all the goods and effects out.

HOUSE VOTES DOWN TARBUCKLE PROTEST
Lincoln, Jan. 9.—The Nebraska house of representatives today voted down a bill protesting against the return of "Patty" Arbuckle to the screen world.

Representative C. F. Boushousen of Loup City introduced a resolution which, after stating that the proposed return of Arbuckle to film-drama would be "a disgrace," commended those motion picture theatre owners who had refused to show his pictures and protested against the showing in any place, at any time, of Arbuckle screenings.

The resolution, seconded by Representative Grant S. Menard of Wayne, was voted down when members of the house declared "we have plenty of work to do right here that affects Nebraskans more vitally than Patty Arbuckle."

BANK FAILURES HEAVY DRAIN ON GUARANTY FUND

Cost State Financial Institutions $4,000,000 For Two-Year Period—Pay $2,300 Apiece.

Another million and a half dollars for the state guaranty fund, necessary to restore the large sums taken from it to pay depositors of failed banks during the past six months, has been raised by levying special assessments on all of the 965 state banks. This was done under date of December 15, and announcement is now made by Trade and Commerce Secretary Hart that the total amount of the special assessment is $1,949,640.

Altogether, more than $4,000,000 has been set aside by the banks, under orders from the trade and commerce department in five special assessments to replenish the guaranty fund; made during a period of about two years. In the same time, four regular assessments have been made aggregating nearly half a million dollars.

Upwards of five million dollars has been paid in losses since 1918. The guaranty fund at one time contained about $2,800,000 but now in spite of the numerous special assessments the balance stands at $2,417,568. Before the December special assessment and the January 1 regular assessment were made it had fallen to less than a million dollars.

Costing Banks Heavily
In 1922 the special assessments alone—$558,853 in June and $1,494,909 in December—cost the state banks an average of more than $2,000 apiece. The last two regular assessments July 1 and January 1, raised about $230,000 more for the fund and increased the average contribution of each solvent bank to $2,300 for the year, more or less.

One year ago, the guaranty fund balance was $2,298,470. The assessments have exceeded the losses paid by over $100,000 and so the fund now has $2,417,568 on hand as a reserve to meet future demands.

There is some demand among bankers for amendments to the law which would permit money to be taken from the guaranty fund before a bank fails, to be used in conserving its assets. This plan, however, has its opponents, who insist that it would make matters worse instead of better.

Shallenberger Favors Present Law
Congressman-elect A. C. Shallenberger of Alma, who was governor of Nebraska at the time the bank guaranty law was passed in 1909, called on Governor Bryan Saturday morning and expressed himself against tampering with the guaranty law. The governor has recommended to the legislature an investigation into the bank failures which have occurred, with particular reference to what has become of the assets of the suspended institutions.

Average deposits of state banks now operating have increased materially during the past year. Secretary Hart's figures show average deposits of $29,381,079 for the six months preceding December 1, 1922, as against $218,611,148 during the six months before June 1, and $215,899,640 in the similar period prior to December 1, 1921.

GREAT CROWD AT BARBECUE
Oklahoma City, Jan. 9.—A milling, joyous, care-free crowd of more than 100,000 persons saw Gov. J. C. Walton inducted into office today at a public ceremony at the state fair grounds. In a brief address, frequently interrupted by cheering and waving of pistol shots, the new governor told the members of the multitude that they were his guests and had them one and all feel at home and to turn the occasion into one of merrymaking and feasting.

Following the governor's brief speech, the cry went up that the barbecue was ready and at 1 o'clock serving of the feast commenced.

It was a scene such as Oklahoma had never witnessed before. The throng formed in rough lines before the serving stands as barbecue assistants began handing out great chunks of beef, buffalo, bear and reindeer meat. Bread, sliced and piled high like cotton bales began to shrink under the onslaught.

WILL LEAVE FOR CALIFORNIA
Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Pollock are planning on enjoying an extended trip to the Pacific coast and according to their present plans will leave on Sunday evening for Los Angeles, Long Beach and other points on the coast where they will spend the remainder of the winter. According to the plans of the Pollock family they will be in the west until the first part of April.

No. 10—The story is that of a beautiful lad named Narcissus, a son of a water nymph and a river god, who loved to be near the water. He saw his face mirrored in the stream, became vain, and was changed into a beautiful water flower retaining the name of Narcissus. The plant thrives on banks of a stream and the delicate white flower nods its head over to face the water.

There are but two ideas in the story: first the youth who is changed to a flower, and second, the transformation of changing process. A purity and simple tone represents the attractive young boy. To represent the changing process to a second little tune starts but never seems finished, going from one key to another, and another. The piece ends with the same pretty tune heard in the beginning but now it expresses the beauty of the flower.

Ethebert Nevin was an American composer and died at the age of 39. By his death America lost one of its most talented and promising composers.

No. 11—This record is a violin solo by Fritz Kreisler. It is founded upon an old Indian theme. You will remember that Dvorak was a Bohemian and that he spent a few years in this country collecting negro themes upon which he based his New World Symphony. He also spent some time in Iowa among the Indians.

There are two contrasting ideas in this composition, the first, one may imagine, tells of the misfortunes of the fast vanishing race. The second theme appears more joyous which is reminiscent of the happier days of the Red Man. The first mood returns and leaves an impression of the tragic note of the whole composition. The music symbolizes the gradual extinction of the American Indian as does the symbolic phrase "The End of the Trail," by Fraser.

Note that some of the composition is played upon two strings—this is called double stopping.
