DEATH OF FORMER CASS COUNTY LADY

Mrs. Lola Irene Nelson Dies at Home in Sterling, Colorado—Funeral Held at Union Tuesday.

The many old friends in and near Union of the Frank Eaton family were greatly surprised and sorrow stricken to learn Saturday of the death at Sterling, Colorado, of Mrs. Lola Irene Nelson, wife of L. E. Nelson and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Eaton, long time residents of Union.

The deceased lady had been sick only a short time, being taken with a severe attack of the flu following the birth of a little son some ten days ago and has since grown worse until death came to her relief Friday night. She was married seven years ago to L. E. Nelson, who, with one son four years old and the baby, survived her death.

The body was brought to Union and the funeral held Tuesday at the Sciota school house amid the scenes where the deceased lady had grown to womanhood and the Rev. W. A. Taylor, an old friend of the family, conducted the service. The burial was at the Eaton cemetery near the school house where the family of the deceased lady are sleeping in the quiet and beautiful burial grounds on the hills overlooking the pleasant valley of the Missouri and their old home in the Sciota valley.

Mrs. Nelson was a granddaughter of Uncle Eli Eaton, one of the pioneer residents of the southern portion of Cass county.

BAD CHECK ARTIST CAUGHT AT CHICAGO

Young Man Giving Name of Lee White, Who "Miked" Merchants Here, Captured.

Last Saturday afternoon a large number of the business houses of the city were visited by a young man who gave the name of Lee White. He pointed out that banks today are prepared to take care of concerns with a 30-day, 60-day or 90-day turnover, but that the farmer needs at least a yearly turnover plan in his financial banking.

Mr. Corey said the Intermediate Credits bank would give the farmer credit up to three years. Twelve banks thruout the country, he pointed out, will offer a capital of $60,000,000 to the farmers of the United States and have the power to issue debentures of $600,000,000.

Loans will be made directly to two groups—co-operative marketing associations, secured by warehouse receipts, and co-operative livestock associations, secured in usual middle-west manner.

"What the demand for loans will be, I cannot say," he declared, "but if the rural banks call for credit, then the need will have been demonstrated; if not, then the bank will be ready to serve in an emergency."

"From 75 to 80 percent of the harvest thruout the big grain country is marketed within 90 days, and naturally glut the market. New credits bank will give the farmer a chance to market in an orderly process, feeding out his crop as fast as the market can absorb it. The possibilities of this are tremendous."

BRITON RETURNS RUSS NOTE AS INACCEPTABLE London, April 3.—According to information received in London, the British agent at Moscow returned to the soviet government the latter's note justifying the sentence imposed upon the priests and alluding to India. The agent at the same time handed to the soviet authorities a private letter to the effect that he was unable to receive the note in its present form because it impugned the sincerity of an appeal emanating from His Majesty's government, and quoted as facts in support of its charges "irrelevant utterance of an anonymous Irish revolutionary."

PROSPERITY FOR THE FARMERS VISUALIZED

M. L. Corey, New Loan Board Member, Sees Hope in New Rural Credits Legislation.

In a speech made to Omaha business men just before he left for Washington to become a member of the federal loan board, M. L. Corey, attorney federal land bank, asserted that the new federal intermediate credits bank spells prosperity for the farmer, and urged the establishment of licensed warehouses under government supervision as a marketing medium.

"If Omaha prospers and fills its place in the world, it must come to realize that its prosperity depends on the farmer, and that of the agricultural wealth of the country 20 percent is represented in the territory served by the local federal land bank," he said.

Speaking of the new credits bank, he said he had been uncertain how much of a demand there would be for loans, but that since early in March more than 1,000,000 applications for loans had been made.

"It was realized that the farmer did not need credits alone," he continued, referring to the organization of the bank. "He needed also a broadening of his market and a fair price for his products. The law will do for the farmer what the federal reserve bank system has done for banks in the commercial world."

He called attention to the period of depression some months ago in which the federal reserve banks called on the country banks to take up obligations, which call was passed on to producers, who, in order to liquidate, rushed their products to market and glutted it, with resultant chaos.

He pointed out that banks today are prepared to take care of concerns with a 30-day, 60-day or 90-day turnover, but that the farmer needs at least a yearly turnover plan in his financial banking.

Mr. Corey said the Intermediate Credits bank would give the farmer credit up to three years. Twelve banks thruout the country, he pointed out, will offer a capital of $60,000,000 to the farmers of the United States and have the power to issue debentures of $600,000,000.
