JUST WHO ARE SCHOOL ELECTORS UNDER THE LAW

Conflicting Statutes are Cause for Discussion and Divergent Opinions—Court to Decide

Assistant Attorney General George W. Ayres inclines to the opinion, in the absence of a court decision, that women as well as men must own taxable property or have children of school age to be entitled to vote at school elections.

"You inquire whether section 1893 or section 6271 of the Compiled Statutes of Nebraska, 1922 edition governs in regard to the qualifications of voters at school elections.

"In answer to the question which you propound, I will say that this department has heretofore held in a comparatively recent opinion that the provisions of section 1893, which follows in substance the constitutional provision regarding the qualifications of electors, governs in school elections regardless of the special law upon that subject.

"I may add that the writer is inclined to the other opinion, that is, that section 6271, being a special section applicable to school districts, prevails so far as the qualifications of voters in school elections are concerned over the more general provision of the statute found in section 1893.

"In the case of State vs. Cones, 15 Neb., 444, when under the constitutional provision and the general election law only males were entitled to vote, it was held:

EARL OF CARNARVON DIES OF PNEUMONIA

Man Who Unearthed Tomb of Old King Tut Contracts Blood Poison from Insect Bite

Cairo, Egypt, April 5.—The earl of Carnarvon died peacefully at 2 o'clock this morning. He was conscious almost to the end. His death was due to blood poisoning through the bite of an insect with the later development of pneumonia.

Death occurred at the Continental hotel in Cairo early this morning. The physician's certificate giving the exact cause of death has not been made public up to the present, but the latest reports indicate that death was due to lobar pneumonia in both lungs complicated with pleurisy.

The fifth earl of Carnarvon is survived by a son and a daughter, besides his widow. Lord Carnarvon was reputed to have spent more than $100,000 maintaining the expedition which finally uncovered the pharaoh's tomb last fall after seven years of fruitless excavation.

HORACE BOIES, EX-GOVERNOR OF IOWA, IS DEAD

Only Democratic Governor of Iowa Since 1856, Dies at Age of 95 Years in California

Horace Boies, governor of Iowa from 1890 to 1894, died at his home at Long Beach, Cal., at 10 o'clock Wednesday night, according to word received from there.

Mr. Boies was 95 years old. He was the only democratic governor Iowa has ever had since the organization of the republican party.

His son, Judge H. B. Boies of Waterloo, and his daughter, Mrs. Nellie Carson, Helmet, Cal., were at his bedside. Governor Boies suffered a slight stroke of paralysis a few weeks ago and has been in failing health for several months.

Mr. Boies was born in Aurora, Erie county, N. Y., December 7, 1827. He attended district school there and went to Wisconsin territory in 1844. Arriving at Racine he voyaged about the lake, then returning to New York.

For six years he worked on farms, attending school in the winter. He studied law in Erie county and was admitted to the bar in 1849. He practiced near Buffalo from 1849 until 1857. He was elected to the New York general assembly in 1858 as a whig.

In 1867 he moved to Waterloo, Ia., and continued his practice of law. Not long after he arrived there he became estranged from the republican party, opposing vigorously that party's view on the tariff and its prohibition policy.

He then affiliated himself with the democratic party and served two terms as governor of Iowa, from 1890 until 1894. He was the only democratic governor of the state after the republican party was organized. He was defeated for a third term.

Boies was second in balloting for president at the democratic national convention in 1896 and severed active political affiliations with the democratic party after having been a candidate for congress from the Third Iowa district in 1902.

While Governor Boies was an ardent worker in behalf of the prohibition license law, declaring in his inaugural address that "Iowa must take the liquor traffic from the hands of irresponsible and immoral persons."

Local option, urged by him, was defeated in both the senate and house. Mr. Boies for forty years was a leader in his profession, his power as a leader placing him in the front rank of Iowa attorneys.

He was offered the post of secretary of agriculture by President Cleveland in his second term but declined. He early acquired large holdings of farm land in Grundy county and at his death still held title to a considerable tract. He had lived in California for the past nine years. He was a partner of H. B. Allen who left funds with which to build a hospital in Waterloo as a memorial to his wife.

STATE BONUS BILL DIES IN SENATE; SCHOOL LAW NEXT

Attempt to Set Date for Final Adjudgment Fails—Inheritance Tax Measure is Killed.

Lincoln, April 4.—The Nebraska state bonus bill, supported by different veterans' organizations, proposing a $10,000,000 fund to pay service men 50 cents a day during the time of service in the world war, died in the senate.

An adverse committee report favoring its postponement, which was adopted in the senate with scarcely any discussion, spells the end for chance for legislative action in submitting the bonus issue to popular vote.

Senator Fries voiced the only objection to the committee report indefinitely postponing the bill. "This proposition should go to the people for settlement," he declared.

Purely Federal Action C. B. Anderson, chairman of the committee, issued a formal written statement setting forth the views of the committee. The members of the committee consider the bonus proposal or adjusted compensation purely a matter for federal action, the statement set forth.

A new bill to rearrange the course of study in rural schools, Reed's measure, which provides that the subjects now taught in the first eight grades be spread over a nine-year term, was made a subject of business for tomorrow morning. Reed sponsors the bill on the ground that only a small percentage of the rural students complete their course of study. A number of other very revolutionary changes are proposed in the bill.

Members of the senate received an invitation today from Governor and Mrs. Bryan inviting them to a reception at the executive mansion next Monday.

ADJOURNMENT PLANS HALTED

The first discussion of final adjournment came today when Senator Allen moved a committee be appointed to confer with a like committee from the house on the subject of adjournment—not to be later than April 20. Senator Cooper led the fight against the adoption of the motion and the introducer finally withdrew, when it was apparent that the majority of the members did not share Allen's sentiments.

LEGISLATIVE HIGH SPOTS

The house finished with H. R. 720, maintenance appropriation bill, and advanced the measure to third reading "under the rules of the house." The rules suggested by Speaker Mathers and adopted with but four dissenting votes provide that such portion of the committee of the whole report as applies to items requiring but fifty-one votes to be considered in lump. Items requiring sixty votes because of the fact that they contain matter or carry increases not contained in the governor's budget, to be voted upon separately.

On motion of Hughes of Sarpy, the house postponed the business of voting on acceptance of the report and it is to be the special order of business at 2 p. m. Tuesday. The reason for postponement was light attendance. Representative Thatcher inserted an amendment cutting out school inspection. An attempt to reappropriate fees for support of the department of fire prevention failed.

Governor Bryan introduced two bills by request. One is for the purpose of correcting a statutory inconsistency in the way of the bill creating a municipal court in Lincoln. The other removes a restriction in way of successful operation of the federal intermediate credit bank of Omaha.

The house will convene at 9 a. m. Saturday.

F. 315 to third reading, bills which leave the code intact but give the governor power to appoint code secretaries or take executive state officers. The senate bill to validate state and national bank taxes of 1922 passed with one vote against it. Rickard's bill to reduce car load freight rates 15 per cent was placed on general file over adverse recommendation of committee on railroads.

Three cent fare bill was killed without protest. Governor Bryan asked for introduction of a bill in the senate to correct S. F. 195, signed by him, so that cities of second class and villages can issue twenty year bonds if work was completed by March 1. Pay bill for uncompleted term of university professors who recently died passed the senate and now goes to the governor. The senate adjourned to meet Monday at 2 p. m.
