

RUPTURE EXPERT

COMING TO OMAHA

Dr. Leonard, noted Rupture Specialist, with headquarters at Minneapolis, Minn., will be at the Henshaw Hotel in Omaha for two days only, Tuesday and Wednesday, May 1 and 2, where he will treat all cases of rupture, no matter how long standing.

Dr. Leonard says: "A ruptured patient fitted with an appliance, properly constructed and correctly put on, is as strong as normal and should on no account fail to build up and harden the muscles of the abdomen."

To effect a cure with a truss, rupture must be held at internal ring at all times and avoid all pressure on spermatic cord and pubic bone. Dr. Leonard has specialized in the treatment of rupture for 20 years and positively guarantees to hold your rupture with his patented appliance at all times, regardless of occupation. He does not use elastic belt, springs or leg straps.

This appliance is endorsed by leading physicians.

HOOVER WILL INQUIRE INTO LABOR EFFICIENCY

Washington, April 24.—In an endeavor to solve the economic facts involved in immigration restriction, Secretary Hoover has instituted a commerce department inquiry into efficiency of labor.

In announcing his plan today, Mr. Hoover said that since 1914, when immigration practically ceased, individual productivity of workers in the United States had markedly increased. The fair continuous shortage of labor "put a tremendous impulse behind management for increasing labor efficiency," he said, adding that the investigation was designed to procure exact data on a large scale as to the results.

"Social considerations involved in the immigration problem far outweigh any economic considerations or arguments that might be made for allowing unchecked immigration," Secretary Hoover said. "About 90 per cent of people in the United States, for sound and sufficient social reasons favor immigration restrictions, but its effect on efficiency of industrial operations ought to be determined and that is what the inquiry is aimed at."

A BIG WEEK IN LAWMAKING AHEAD OF LEGISLATURE

Stable Form of Government is to be Evolved—Senate to Reconvene Tuesday Afternoon.

The legislature will reconvene at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon upon what all its members hope will be the last round of a bill that promises to exceed in length any other session. Preparations are being made to end the session Saturday, but the pessimists, and they are many toward the end of the session, do not believe the feat can be accomplished in that time. If the children are not dancing around a beribboned pole and crowning some one queen of the May when the end comes then a lot of self-constituted prophets will be not only without honor in their own land but in far away countries.

Only one prophet now stands out with a shining halo. He is Senator Saunders of Omaha who proclaimed toward the last that he had said from the first that the legislature would not adjourn before the last week in April. It matters not when he said it, his friends say. He said it and it has come to pass. "Thus saith Saunders" has become a proverb. It looks a long way off, the end of the session does, with no stable form of government agreed upon so far as a code bill is concerned, and with no appropriations to run whatever form of government the legislature may happen to agree upon, with republicans claiming they are pledged to maintain the code law wherever it needs strengthening and the democrats pledged by a state platform whose author is not divulged to repeal the code, and with both parties claiming to be in favor of tax reduction.

It closely resembles chaos or cosmos or some other blooming flower when looked at by the uninitiated. Leaders appear to be few and far between and nobody in either house appears to know what to do or how to do it. But it has looked this way before at the close of other legislative sessions and at the last moment order would be restored, agreements would be reached and in an incredibly short time the ship of state would be sent on its way, wobbling a little but going forward, usually with an increased appropriation and higher taxes. It promises to be this way again unless at the last moment the two houses, in themselves an irresistible force bump up against Governor Charles W. Bryan, who is very fascinating to voters if not quite irresistible. Then will come the madhouse or a special session.

Governor's Favorite

Another favorite bill is H. R. 451, by Keck of Polk, marked "by request." Governor Bryan has several times requested the passage of this bill and finally the house pushed it off upon the senate where the judiciary committee, a staid and proper body, put it on the senate's general file last Friday. This bill amends what was known and feared as the Sackett law, a law long since dead from dry rot. It served its purpose for years, long ago when there were such things as saloons in Nebraska, when Omaha and South Omaha and even Lincoln had excise boards or boards known as police commissioners. The Sackett law was tried once upon a board of fire and police commissioners in the lively little town of South Omaha. It was allowed to run its course with the machinery of the state behind it and work as rapidly as possible, with the supreme court to help along, the two fire and police commissioners of that town who were prosecuted under ouster proceedings, old father time was the one who got their official scalps. Their terms of office had expired when order of ouster was issued under the Sackett law.

The senate is not much given to this kind of legislation, but H. R. 451 is right before it without amendment on the general file. It will have to be considered this week. The bill calls for a speedier gait. It provides that during the pendency of charges against officers who do not enforce laws which it is their duty to enforce the governor shall have power to suspend the lax officers from duty and temporarily appoint others in their places. The trial in the supreme court can occupy as much time as the parties care to take.

The Sackett law which is sought to be amended makes this provision apply to the "county attorney or prosecuting officer, sheriff, police judge, police officer or police officer, mayor or other officer." Whether this applies to a county judge, a constitutional officer, is not stated, but a county judge is surely in the class of "other officers."

It is intimated that this bill is particularly directed to some certain county attorney, but the author by request says it is intended to be general. The bill makes no attempt to correct the alleged weakness of the Sackett law which applies to officers whose duty it is to enforce laws. If it is intended to get the official scalp of a county attorney it may fail because the matter of duty to prosecute persons for offenses another statute permits county attorneys to prosecute or not to prosecute whom they please. They have discretionary power to prosecute and the law does not make it their duty to prosecute all persons who ought to be or all persons whom some other person believes ought to be.

STATES WON'T ACCEPT RULING ON WAGE LAW

Will Enforce Their Own Statutes on Minimum for Women Though Said Unconstitutional.

The United States supreme court will have to pass again on the constitutionality of minimum wage legislation for women.

This was made certain here today, following the conference of the National Consumer's league in New York late last week, when it was learned that state officials in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Washington and other states are determined to enforce the state minimum wage laws despite the decision of the supreme court.

The states in which minimum wage laws for women are now in force are: Washington, Oregon, California, Colorado, Kansas, North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Arkansas, Massachusetts, Utah and Arizona. Attorney General Herman L. Ekers, of Wisconsin, who has just left Washington, after attending the New York conference, has let it be known that the Wisconsin authorities will continue to apply the Wisconsin state law against employers of women within the boundaries of the state.

It is certain that employers of the state will object to this policy and will ask the state court to set aside the law, on the ground that it was automatically nullified by the state court decision which declared a similar law for the District of Columbia unconstitutional. Attorney General Ekers has stated that if the lower courts sustain the position of the employers, the fight will be carried to the supreme court in an effort to overturn the decision of ten days ago.

It appears likely that Minnesota and other states will join in the action, seeking to maintain their state laws and to confine the recent decision of the court solely to the District of Columbia.

While the legality of minimum wage legislation is being threshed out in the courts, a conference of governors is being planned to discuss the entire subject. Governor Louis F. Hart, of Washington, has issued a call which it is understood has gone to Governor Preuss, of Minnesota, Governor Blaine, of Wisconsin, Governor Sweet, of Colorado, and the chief executives of other states. It is presumed that governors of states in which no minimum wage legislation is now in force, like Nebraska, Illinois, Ohio and Pennsylvania, will be asked to attend to hear the arguments for a model law.

The only states not affected under the recent decision of the supreme court were those whose constitutions gave the legislature specific power to pass minimum wage laws.

It is possible that states like Minnesota, Wisconsin and others may have to amend their state constitutions in order to meet supreme court decision, in the opinion of legal authorities in the department of justice at Washington.

GARDEN BOOKS OBTAINABLE AT THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

Books on flowers and vegetable gardening may be obtained at the public library, and, according to an announcement of the librarian, persons not having a library card can make arrangements to take these books out.

In the reference room can be found a "Cyclopedia of American Agriculture" from which help can be obtained in planting and arranging a garden, the proper time to plant seeds and all other information concerning gardening. Other books on this subject are "Practical Garden Book" by Hunn and Bailey, "Garden Book" by Davis, "Productive Gardening" by Sears, "How to Make a Fruit Garden" by Fletcher.

SOUNDS WARLIKE NOTE FOR FRANCE AGAINST THE TURK

Le Temps Warns the Ottoman Empire Against Troop Movement Along Syrian Border.

Paris, April 23.—A warlike warning is given Turkey by the semi-official newspaper Le Temps in an editorial, discussing the difficulties confronting the Lausanne peace conference, including the French objection to the concessions recently granted an American syndicate by the Turks. It has been practically established, the newspaper says, that the Turks have mobilized several battalions of infantry and some artillery near the border of French Syria. "On the day the French flag is attacked or placed in danger of attack, those who have known the French as tolerant and conciliatory will no longer recognize our country," it declares.

Even if peace is signed at Lausanne it would not be effective if there were such a concentration of troops, the newspaper continues, and one of the guiding principles of the French delegation at Lausanne will be "that there should be no conflict between the French and the Americans."

Britain Investigating

London, April 23.—The foreign office spokesman, Ronald McNeill, told the house of commons in answer to a question today that steps were being taken to ascertain the precise terms of the concession granted by the Turkish government to the American syndicate headed by Rear Admiral Colby Chester, retired, and that until these terms were known it would be impossible to say whether the concession affected British interests in Turkey in any way.

In reply to queries in the house of commons today, Stanley Baldwin, chancellor of the exchequer, emphatically stated that the imperial government had kept in close touch with the governments of the dominions of the Franco-Belgian occupation of the Ruhr.

LEGISLATURE MAY ADJOURN AT END OF PRESENT WEEK

Depends Upon Time Needed for Appropriations Bill—Failure to Agree May Extend Time

Lincoln, April 23.—Senate leaders completed plans today, looking toward a completion of the legislative session by the end of the week.

The finance committee of the upper chamber has practically completed work on the big appropriation bill, and the measure will be ready for introduction when the senate convenes Tuesday afternoon. The appropriations bill is the last measure of importance to be handled by either branch of the legislature.

A number of important changes have been made by the senate finance committee which means that the measure must be taken to conference committee. The matter of adjournment will depend entirely upon the time consumed in ironing out the differences between house and senate on the matter of appropriations.

The report of the committee investigating the state capitol fire was completed and placed on file by Wednesday. There will be nothing connected with the report to delay adjournment of the legislature.

There was talk tonight that the Mather bill might be recalled from the senate miscellaneous committee with amendments and sent to the house. Whatever the final decision is on the form of government there will be adequate appropriations to provide for activities called for in the government form bill passed.

If the house accepts the senate's appropriation bill and an agreement is reached upon the Mather bill it will not take more than four or five days to wind up the session. However, if the house balks, there may be a deadlock for days and perhaps weeks.

10,000 ALIENS SNEAK INTO SEATTLE YEARLY

Seattle, Wash., April 23.—More than 10,000 aliens illegally enter the state of Washington from foreign countries each year, according to Luther Weedin, United States commissioner of immigration for this district. He said the present immigration service force of 76 persons was "totally inadequate" to control the situation.

Three thousand Japanese, 2,000 Chinese and 5,000 persons of other nationalities entered Washington without inspection or check by immigration authorities last year, Mr. Weedin estimated.

"Of course," he said, "we apprehend a good many persons that have arrived in Seattle and think they are safely entered, but these constitute a negligible number in comparison with the thousands who are never caught."

George Schmaeder of Louisville was a visitor in the city over night, completing arrangements for locating here where he expects to be employed. George is a younger brother of Andy Schmaeder and is equally clever with the padded mitts in the squared circle. The many friends of this young man will be pleased to see him locate in this city.

Joseph F. Hadraba and wife and son, Theodore, departed this morning for Omaha where Mr. Hadraba and Theodore will have their eyes treated by a specialist.

LAW HARD ON THOSE REMOVING PROPERTY

Act of Legislature Very Strict on Removal of Personal Property Sold on Contract in State.

House Roll No. 415

For an act to prevent the removal of the county of personal property purchased under a conditional sale contract, without the written consent of the vendor, while any part of the purchase price remains unpaid, and to provide a penalty for the violation of this act.

Section 1.—That any person who, after having purchased any article of personal property from another, under a conditional sale contract, whereby the title to the same remains in the vendor until the full purchase price is paid, shall remove, permit or cause to be removed, said personal property so purchased, or any part thereof, out of the county within which such property was situated at the time the same was purchased, without the written consent of the vendor, and before the full purchase price is paid, with the intent to deprive the vendor or vendors of his or their security, shall be deemed guilty of a felony, and on conviction thereof shall be imprisoned in the penitentiary for a term not exceeding five years, and be fined in a sum not exceeding five hundred dollars.

House Roll No. 414

Section 1.—That any person who, after having purchased any article of personal property from another, under a conditional sale contract, whereby title to same remains in the vendor until the full purchase price is paid, shall sell, transfer, or in any manner dispose of said property, or any part thereof, to any person or body corporate, prior to the time the full purchase price is paid, without first securing the consent in writing of the vendor to any such sale, transfer or other disposition, shall be deemed guilty of felony, and on conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not less than five hundred dollars, or imprisoned in the penitentiary for a term not less than one year, nor more than five years, or both fine and imprisonment at the discretion of the court.

URGES THE SECURING OF FUEL DURING SUMMER MONTHS

Government Heads as Well as Railroad Leaders Urging Need of Laying in Supply Now.

Washington, April 22.—The following statement regarding the expedience of domestic consumers obtaining next winter's requirements of fuel during the Spring and Summer months was issued a few days ago by Federal Fuel Distributor F. R. Wadleigh:

"The experience of the past winter would seem to demonstrate clearly and forcibly the expedience of domestic consumers obtaining their next winter's requirement of fuel during the Spring and Summer months. Already indications point to the fact that many householders have taken to heart the lessons taught by their experiences of this year and there is undoubtedly a widespread inclination not to be dependent again on obtaining the needed fuel as it may be required."

"Such a movement should be encouraged by the retail dealers, as it will be to their financial advantage to get their customers to store coal in the latter's bins. Deliveries can be more easily and cheaply made during the summer and the dealer will not have to carry the burden of heavy yard stocks.

"It would also mean steadier work for the mines and an economic movement for the railroads, coming at a season when the best transportation conditions obtain and when a greater car mileage can be attained at a lower cost per mile.

"The householders would benefit from the fact that they are likely to get cleaner and better prepared coal in warmer weather, due to less breakage from handling; the coal would also contain less moisture and dealers would then be able to deliver direct from railroad cars to consumers' bins.

"It is suggested that it might be advisable for dealers to start a campaign soon after April 15, to at least obtain orders from their customers, coal to be delivered when called for and available.

"The fact that most consumers' bins are likely to be empty now should be a further incentive to early buying."
