EXCESSIVE RAIN—FALL DOES DAMAGE IN THE WEST

Loup Valley Floods Hurt Some Crops, But Others Benefitted—14.8 Inches Rain Since May 1.

Fullerton, Neb., June 10.—Heavy rains over the Loup and Cedar valleys from Genoa to Spalding has caused heavy losses to farmers in the flooding of low lands and the washing out of crops on the higher elevations.

Several miles of the Spalding branch of the U. P. railroad was badly damaged and trains were delayed for two days.

The new power dam of the Nebraska Gas & Electric Co., stood the test in fine shape, but the floor of the power house was completely covered with water.

The crops north of Fullerton were damaged by hail. Some farmers report the loss of livestock.

Kearney, Neb., June 10.—Since May 1 Kearney and vicinity has averaged about a half inch of rain a day. During May the precipitation was 14.60 inches. The June rainfall is in excess of five inches.

The subsoil, exceedingly dry early in the spring, is thoroughly soaked and crops bid fair to make a record yield. The damage that may have resulted from washouts and through delaying of harvesting the first cutting of alfalfa is trivial compared to benefits derived.

Some localities, bridge approaches were washed out and the Loup river changed its course at several points leaving bridges high and dry.

ENROLLMENT SHOWS INCREASE

The Nebraska schools and particularly the high schools have shown wonderful increases in enrollment in the last fifteen years that shows the growth of the states and the increasing strides of education in the counties of the state.

The increase in resident enrollment in the high schools in the period from 1907 to 1922 has been 375 per cent while the non-resident enrollment has been 584 per cent. It will be noted that nearly one-fourth of the high school pupils come from outside the local school district and indicates that the pupils from the country districts are more and more taking the high school course in education and are more ambitious for education than their associates in the cities.

The graduates have increased 387 per cent which indicates that the number of those staying in school until graduation is gradually increasing. Other high educational institutions are also showing marked gains and the University of Nebraska shows an increase of 121 per cent over the period named above. The grand total of the university students last year was 9,803.

In the years 1906-07 there was only one accredited high school in the state with 11,488 pupils and in 1921-22, 284 schools and 47,752.

FLYERS BALKED BY A RED BULL Aviators Bound for Detroit Land on Fair Ground at Malvern—Ruptured by Mad Bovine.

Strange incidents are occurring since men have begun to navigate the air. Comes a story from Malvern as occurring Saturday evening. Two aviators on their way to Detroit from Texas found on reaching near Malvern their motor working poorly.

They decided on making a landing on the fair grounds to make repairs, here it was the strange incident occurred. Some cattle are enclosed on the grounds to use up the fine pasture. Among these cattle was a red bull and this animal resented the intrusion of the strange machine. He pawed the ground and showed he would fight. The aviators tried to evade the animal, but could not and land safely. In the maneuvers of dodging the infuriated animal and making a landing the machine plunged into a telephone pole with damaging results to machine as well as the pilot. The bull escaped injury. The accident broke a wing of the machine and therefore caused a several days delay. But for the interference of the bull, the delay would not have been more than a few hours.—Glenwood Tribune.

IT RAINED IN THEM DAYS, TOO It rained fifty years ago just as it does today, according to a "Fifty Years Ago" item in the Chicago Tribune which printed Sunday the following little news item of June 9, 1872, of interest to Nebraskaans: "Lincoln, Neb., June 9.—A waterspout near Blackwood creek buried a camp of United States cavalry. It came on five feet high, and drowned six soldiers and twenty-eight horses. Several settlers were also drowned and considerable stock perished. Dugouts were washed away. Some soldiers, to save their lives, had to climb trees and remain there forty-eight hours.

"The rains in this section have been heavier than known for years, but the damage is light.

"Several persons were drowned here in a circuit of twenty miles within two weeks."
