

HAS RECORD OF FIFTY YEARS AS A PROFESSOR

Former U of N Instructor Recalls Grasshopper Days and Buffalo Hunting in Nebraska.

Dr. Gilbert Ellis Bailey, who was professor of chemistry at the University of Nebraska in 1874, has for the last fifteen years been professor of geology in the University of Southern California, says the State Journal.

Mr. Bailey celebrated his eighty-first birthday a few weeks ago, and last week marked the end of fifty years of work as a professor. In an article in the Los Angeles Times, Doctor Bailey reminds his readers of the changes in education which have taken place during that time.

Although deeply appreciative of the good old days, he closes his article by saying that as he looks back over his fifty years as a university professor he can only wonder at the immense progress that has been made and look forward to a still greater, grander progress in the future.

Dr. Bailey recalls that a part of his duties during the year at the University of Nebraska was "killing buffalo for the grasshopper sufferers, hunting on the republican river and helping Professor Riley give a grasshopper banquet at Lincoln."

A map of the country at that time would have shown that nearly all of the educational institutions were from Chicago eastward. West of the Mississippi river was largely terra incognita. In Los Angeles fifty years ago they were just graduating their first class of seven from the high school.

The status of science at that time is shown by Dr. Bailey's textbook, which he still keeps. It was written by a Yale professor and "covered" the whole range of science in 350 small pages.

It is interesting to note that the student that "safety from lightning could be found by being within a feather bed, so as to be entirely enveloped by the feathers," with further warning not to let "the head or feet come into contact with the bedstead."

As for college sports, baseball had "just emerged from two-old-cat" fifty years ago. Football was purely a kicking scrimmage in which one's shins suffered most.

Dr. Bailey views with cheerful complacency the youth of today. He believes co-education is beneficial. He thinks methods of courting have not changed very greatly; he insists that more safeguards are thrown around the students of today than around those of yesterday.

Procession of Autos Filled With Boosters From Murray Parade the Streets Here.

From Tuesday's Daily. Last evening as dusk was falling sounds of cheering and the honks of many horns were heard along Chicago avenue and in a few moments later the residents of the main section of the city enjoyed a visit from a large delegation of the live wires of the Murray Community club, who were here to boost the newest attraction of Murray—the bathing beach.

The parade was led by a large truck on which were seen a number of youngsters in bathing suits as well as several of the leading representatives of the business interests of Murray and who let it be known that they were on the map.

Following the truck were a large number of cars and filled with parties of enthusiasts and the whole affair was certainly most creditable and showed that the spirit of real enterprise was in evidence in our neighboring community and the proper display of community pride in their town and institutions.

The party paraded up and down Main street and up high school hill before returning home and attracted a great deal of attention from the Plattsmouth residents.

HISTORY OF NATION IS TOLD IN STAMPS

New Series, Now Making Appearance, is Ninth Issue by Government—Distinctive Colors.

The new series of postage stamps, the ninth since gummed stamps were introduced in this country, is gradually being distributed, each denomination going to offices as they dispose of their old stamps.

The story of the nation is told in the nine designs from 14 cents to 35, explains W. I. Clover, third assistant postmaster general, under whose direction the series was prepared.

"Together they stand for America as it might be viewed by a newly-arrived immigrant. The stranger's first thought is of the primitive dwellers in the land, the aboriginal Indians, but on arrival the statue of liberty greets him, the symbol of a new civilization, the natural wonders opening to his view in this new world are represented by the golden gate and Niagara falls and its different forms of animal life by the buffalo; from these the alien's thoughts are supposed to turn to the deeds of men who lived and died to build and preserve the nation, and this idea is marked by the Lincoln amphitheater and the Lincoln memorial.

America, the $5 stamp, is the crowning glory of the series. It is larger than the others and is printed in red and blue on a white background. The purpose of revising the series was to obtain distinctive designs not so easily confused as are many of the present series.

The 13 cent stamp, which originated in war times when the combined postage and registration fee was 13 cents, is not in the new series. There are two new ones, the 14 and 25 cent stamps, which are convenient in mailing parcels.

Theodore Roosevelt appears on the 5 cent stamp, the one which most frequently carries letters to foreign lands. This is his first appearance on a stamp.

Technical descriptions of the different stamp colors give a little information to the layman in some instances. Reference to the table shows that secretary of senate compensation check, for example, Federal farm loan bank, and one centavo Philippine islands internal revenue are translated respectively into pink, dark gray and lavender. These terms are from the color scheme of the United States bureau of printing and engraving. The designs and colors of the new stamps follow:

- 1 cent—Franklin, green.
- 2 cent—Washington, red.
- 3 cent—Lincoln, purple.
- 4 cent—Martha Washington, of black-brown.
- 5 cent—Roosevelt, blue.
- 6 cent—Garfield, orange.
- 7 cent—McKinley, black.
- 8 cent—Grant, olive.
- 9 cent—Jefferson, pink.
- 10 cent—Monroe, yellow.
- 11 cent—Hayes, light blue.
- 12 cent—Cleveland, purple-brown.
- 14 cent—Indian head, yellow-green.
- 15 cent—Statute of liberty, dark gray.
- 20 cent—Golden gate, of cigaret blue.
- 25 cent—Niagara falls, of note gray.
- 30 cent—Buffalo, sepia.
- 50 cent—Arlington amphitheater, lavender.
- $1—Lincoln memorial, brown.
- $2—United States capitol, blue.
- $5—American head, red, white and blue.

ASSESSMENT IS ORDERED BY NEW BANK DEPT. HEAD

$123,000 to be Raised from Among the State Banks—One-Twentieth of One Per Cent.

Secretary Knudson of the department of trade and commerce has levied an assessment upon all of the state banks of one-twentieth of one per cent. This is the regular semi-annual assessment and the proceeds go into the state deposit guaranty fund. There is no actual transfer of cash. Each bank carries on its books an account with the fund and when an assessment is levied they credit the fund with their proportion, figured on their average deposits.

When a draft is made on the fund to pay depositors in a failed bank, the secretary draws a draft for each bank's proportion, and it pays this draft in the ordinary way. When a contribution to the fund is collected from a failed bank the secretary sends a corresponding draft and the bank collects on this.

The assessment will add about $123,000 to the fund. The guaranty fund commission has adjourned its sittings until July 10. It has elected E. J. Dempster of Geneva as vice chairman and Van Peterson of Curtis as secretary. These officiated in the same capacities for the temporary commission now out of office.
