OFFICERS HEINRICHSEN AND DETLEF OVERHAUL CAR STEALER AT 1 A. M.

HAD STOLEN NASH AUTOMOBILE

Youth Claims Only Fifteen Years of Age—Took Car From 33rd and Dodge St., Omaha.

From Saturday's Daily. Shortly after 1 o'clock this morning, Officer William Heinrichsen and Night Policeman Frank Detlef made the capture of a young auto thief and relieved him of his prize, a fine, new Nash auto that had been stolen last night in Omaha, the capture of the young man occurring at the end of the paving on Chicago avenue when the driver of the stolen car became confused on the roadway and instead of continuing south, turned on the Louisville road where he was overhauled by the policemen in the car of Mr. Detlef.

About midnight a message was received by Sheriff Quinlan from the Plattsmouth bridge that a man had passed over the bridge in a large car who did not have funds enough to pay his toll, and the sheriff on receiving the message called on the policemen who were on the alert. Officers Heinrichsen and Detlef drove to Washington and there they found the car but failed to see the car as the driver, who was evidently very unfamiliar with the road drove down 15th street and turned west on Oak street and must have gone quite a distance that way before he discovered his error and came back to town.

The police were standing near 5th and Main street when they later noticed the car cross Seventh street going south and at once put out in pursuit of the strange gas wagon. Near the foot of the hill where the Louisville road starts, the policeman overhauled the stranger, who had once more made a mistake in his directions and started west. As the policeman came up to the car the youth showed some opposition and made a gun play on Officer Heinrichsen but was soon subdued by the officer and submitted to arrest and with the car was brought back to the city and lodged in the city jail.

To the police the young man gave the name of Gerald Jaewerger and claimed his home as Omaha. He stated that he was but fifteen years of age and had taken the auto from 33rd and Dodge street in Omaha, but did not know to whom the car belonged. He was going to Kansas City, he claimed, and had become confused in the directions after reaching Plattsmouth and had wasted much time in looking for the west Oak street instead of going on south.

The car taken was a fine, new Nash touring car and bore the Douglas county license number of 22601 and the Omaha wheel tax number of 1877.

The police will get in touch this afternoon with the office of the Omaha police and endeavor to locate the party from whom the car was taken in order that the car may be restored to the rightful owner.

CUPID MAY TAKE FLIGHT

From Saturday's Daily. The last legislator made it hard for love's young dream to have its realization and among the complications that follow the enactment of the marriage license law requiring a ten days' notice before a license will be issued, is the fact that there will be no marriage licenses issued from August 2nd to August 13th. The law requires that a ten days' notice be given of the license and as the law goes into effect on August 3rd it will be ten days later before the license can be issued so between these dates there will be nothing doing in the marrying line.

It is expected as the result of the law there will be an increasing popularity of the Iowa county seat towns as the youths and maidens of this section of Nebraska are most likely to seek these places to wed and especially if in a hurry.

He said that he wanted to tell the men who have been with the Burlington only a short time that after being an officer and director of the system for forty years that it is the best railroad in the United States to work for. He was roundly applauded.

The master mechanic referred to the constitution making now proceeding thru the delegates of the association and declared that the efforts that are being directed to making it a document that will be for the best interests of the men and the company.

W. E. Ackerman said that when the delegates inspected the Havelock shops, which they would during the convention, they would find a good understanding body of reliable men on the job. He insisted that the shops at Havelock are the best in the country. He regretted that he had not been with the Burlington as many years as Mr. Dietrich, but he might as well be here for a considerable period and might as well be something of a veteran. Harold Packard on behalf of the convention delegates, thanked the chamber of commerce, the Burlington railroad and other agencies that have extended hospitality to them. General Chairman Burns made an appreciative speech. At the close of the banquet the delegates were taken in automobiles to the Havelock shops. The party was in charge of Thomas Roope and W. F. The fans not only pay for cooling purposes but as well part of the merits of the Ladies Toggery. The portrait of the lady adorning the fan is claimed to be a personal friend of Fred's but he has denied the statement, also willing to become acquainted.

STRICT DISABILITY RULE UNLAWFUL, DECLARES JUDGE

Rules that Maimed Veterans Deserve Benefits No Matter How Incapacity is Caused.

Helena, Mont., July 13.—Efforts of the director of the work risk insurance bureau to apply literally the schedule of injuries by which total permanent disability is defined in Article Four of the 1919 act of congress, violate the spirit of the act, Federal Judge George M. Bourquin ruled today, awarding $3,335 against the insurance department. Regardless of the statute defining total permanent disability as the "loss of both legs or both arms, or one arm and one leg, or an arm and one eye, etc., in any case when earning ability or capacity is lost," Bourquin ruled today, awarding $3,335 against the insurance department.

Law, who was a farm hand when he enlisted, pleaded his own case. Since discharged from the army, however, he had studied law as a vocational student.

Regardless of the statute defining total permanent disability as the "loss of both legs or both arms, or one arm and one leg, or an arm and one eye, etc., in any case when earning ability or capacity is lost," Bourquin ruled today, awarding $3,335 against the insurance department.

The court praised the act for its liberality, and said that it should be interpreted as "... accident insurance generally, the term 'total permanent disability' must be taken in a reasonable and practical (here perhaps even liberal) sense relative to the status of the beneficiary and to be determined largely by the circumstances of his particular case."

In determining loss of earning ability thru a war-time injury cognizance must be taken of not only the vocation the soldier may have followed before enlistment, but any other gainful vocations that it is reasonably probable he can follow with reasonable effort and success.

The pool after the draining and cleaning Monday will be ready for business Tuesday as usual and with everything all set for a most delightful swimming and bathing place.

All things come to him who waits, and our waiters are a program from Wahoo, the town that WOAW placed on the map is to be rewarded some time in August, we are advised.

Letters are now pouring in on the radio band concert, Monday night, which all agree was mighty good music. The longest distance heard from to date is Duluth, Minn.

Some of us who hold charter membership in the Radios will have to take a waiters' program from radio fan James W. Holmes who now officially rates the title of Buzzard Owl, having visited the Big Roost at Atlanta, while there attending the Elks convention.

Ye announcer went fishing in the ether last night and to his great surprise picked up some of the old time friends, including WGY, Schenectady, the Edgewater Beach hotel station in Chicago, the Nighthawks at Kansas City and W.M.C., the Commercial Appeal, Memphis, "Down in Dixie" on their midnight frolic. Naturally we were surprised at our "find."

Real Treat Promised Tonight

WOAW will feature on its program tonight the A. Lupo orchestra which appeared for an after-chorus program on a recent Sunday night and scored a big hit. The numbers will be popular ballads sung by the orchestra's fine tenor soloist, Phil Loiacono. 'Nuff said.

Many Programs Booked

That the community radio program idea is growing in popularity is indicated by the increasing number that have been booked by WOAW. Keeping order is July 22; Secular Sunday 25; Council Bluffs on July 31; Murray on August 2; Fremont on August 4; Clarinda, Iowa, on August 27; Stanton, Neb., on August 28 are all among those assigned definite dates. Others in line for assignments during August or the early part of September are Bellevue, Oakland and Wahoo, Nebraska, Shenandoah, Glenwood and Essex, Iowa.

Congratulatory Messages

Instead of publishing excerpts from letters received on the band radio program Monday night, the letters and postal cards will be placed in the Legion bulletin board at the foot of the stairs leading to the club rooms over the Nebraska Gas and Electric company's office, where they may be read in their entirety by the general public. The present display comprises the telegrams received the night of the program, the Monday evening the first of the letters will be displayed and changes made on successive Thursday and Monday evenings until all have been posted.

Aside from the regular chimes concert, baseball results and bedtime stories all of the regular programs in the evening, the above are the only program schedules being maintained by WOC at present.

Care of Storage Battery

Many radio fans are not entirely familiar with the operation of the storage battery used to light the filament of their vacuum tubes and as a result damage it through untimely recharging. The battery, contrary to general opinion, does not store up electricity; instead, it stores up a chemical action which, when the battery is connected, generates electricity.

The average six-volt battery consists of three cells, housed in series, each containing a number of positive and negative plates. Both type of plates have as their backbone a cast grid, made of a stiff lead alloy, which acts merely as a support for the active material in the plates. The positive plates are filled with brown peroxide of lead and the negative with a gray spongy lead. The chemical electrolyte (sulphuric acid and distilled water) complete the essentials of your battery. When discharge is taking place, the acid goes into or is absorbed by the plates, lowering the density of the electrolyte, and thus the hydrometer test is used to determine the battery's condition. When fully charged it should read between 1.275 and 1.300 and should never be discharged below a reading of 1.150.

Never leave your battery in a discharged condition for any length of time as sulphation of the plates will result and it may be necessary to drive the acid back out of them into the electrolyte thru this coating. As the water in the electrolyte evaporates, it is important that additional distilled water be added from time to time to keep the plates covered to a depth of a quarter of an inch or more. If your battery is run down, have it recharged as soon as possible, even though you may not expect to use it right away. In a charged condition it may be allowed to stand idle for a long time without deterioration, providing water is added to keep the plates immersed all the time.

CONGRESS DRY FORCES ALARMED OVER PROSPECT

Important Committee Heads in Both Houses Both Voted Wet—Drys May Have Had Row.

Washington, July 13.—The dry forces in congress, who for several years have exercised undisputed control over the legislative machinery in handling prohibition bills in both senate and house, are looking forward with some concern to the situation which seems likely to confront them when the next session meets in December.

By a combination of circumstances, the men now in line for chairmen of the senate and house judiciary committees, which have charge of prohibition measures, are Senator Brandegee of Connecticut and Representative Graham of Pennsylvania, both of whom voted against the eighteenth amendment and since have steadfastly refused to be counted among the drys. Senator Brandegee has become the ranking member of his committee through the successive deaths of Senators Nelson of Minnesota and Dillingham of Vermont, while Mr. Graham inherited the ranking position in the house through the defeat of the chairman, Representative Volstead, in last year's primary in Minnesota.

The only one among Brandegee's opponents the prohibition amendment, but he also voted against both the Volstead act and the anti-beer bill. He took the position that such legislation was unconstitutional, and the drys concede that with a judiciary chairman holding that view the pathway of any additional prohibition legislation to be urged at the coming session may be somewhat difficult. Representative Graham, after voting against the constitutional amendment, answered "present" to his name on the roll call which passed the Volstead act and also was recorded as "not voting" on the anti-beer bill.

Already some of the dry leaders are framing an extensive program of legislation for the next congress, including a measure to prohibit American citizens from carrying liquor on the high seas, a right which they have under the recent supreme court decision by which shipping board vessels are forbidden to exercise by order of President Harding. There also is a move to make other changes in the ship liquor provisions as well as other sections of the law.
