THE GOOD FIGHT

I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith; henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness.— II Timothy iv, 7 and 8.

In every man there is something of all men.

Let the most difficult duty be the most sacred duty.

Keep looking up and you will learn the sky is the limit.

We all have more occupation from our leisure than from our occupation.

It is easy to get too sick to work and still feel well enough to go fishing.

The smartest dog we know of barks at every man he sees carrying a stick.

We would hate to live in a big house and have to hunt for our pipe in every room.

When the average man does stay at home he stretches out and sleeps until bed time.

You are not getting old until you leave the swimming hole before it is time to leave.

"Flapperitis," says a Chicago doctor, "is a disease." But it doesn't seem to keep them at home.

"What," asks a Los Angeles professor, "can the modern girl do?" Prof., you'd be surprised at the many things a modern girl can do.

Reports from various sections indicate the usual number of drivers, whose schedules for arrival at grade crossings conflict with those of locomotives.

"Gowns to Blend With Furs," says a headline. So hubby will have some new dress bills to blend with his golf and motor car bills.

A scientist reports that female grasshoppers are dumb. Who will be the first one to subscribe $1,000,000 to start a school for the education and relief of lady grasshoppers?

The treasury department reports that the customs receipts are so large that this branch of the government service must be expanded. It goes to show the business of government just can't be kept from growing.

The Woman's party is said to have already amassed a campaign fund of $300,000. Who said the ladies would be slow about grasping the fine points of the political game? A purse of $300,000 should make a swell looking party.

A man is applying for a divorce because his wife has bobbed her hair. He claims there is nothing in the books that would condemn him to companionship with a bobcat. If bobbed hair is to be considered as grounds for divorce there are going to be a lot of fractured homes.

An eminent observer says that it is moral and financial bankruptcy from which Europe is suffering at this moment. The man in the street is convinced, however, that Europe is giving a very life like imitation of a financial bankrupt. He is worrying more about his money than his morals.

There are now fourteen different styles of wedding rings, while in grandmother's day there was but one. There's only about one pattern of ball and chain, but it seems to hold 'em better than a dozen fashions in wedding rings. There is no safety in numbers. It would seem that by introducing variety in bridal rings some folks developed a passion for a full set.

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt says we can get the French out of the Ruhr by canceling the British debt. This will enable Britain to cancel the French debt—and presto! the thing is done. It was never anything more than a simple shopping proposition, and only became the mess it is because the world is being run by a lot of men, not one of whom could get out of a ten-cent store alive. Thanks, madame.

Vain glory may flower but will never bear seed.

The abuse of a thing is not an argument for its use.

Dignity grows more easily than it obtains a beginning.

Man wants but little here below his chin in hot weather.

It is estimated a great many people get fat loafing around trying to keep cool.

Many people are afraid to dive into shallow. What we need is more like them.

Living a long time is hard to do because it is hard to find the money on which to do it.

We'd hate to be a collector because he must think everybody stays mad all the time.

Young man, don't go west. Thousands of movie mad girls are out of work in Los Angeles.

Lots of birds think they are wise as owls because they are always hooting at somebody.

Some people have to brag about their ancestors because they have no descendants to speak of.

It is not against the law to think your neighbors are awful, but it is a terrible waste of time.

One of the strangest things in this world is how little ice cream they use to make an ice cream soda.

The reason we think women dress sensibly is because they wear the belt where it doesn't interfere with breathing.

It is now a sure thing that President Harding will recover. And the American people rejoice. Many congratulations are extended to the sick man.

Statistics show that 295 persons died from wood alcohol, synthetic gin and other forms of alcohol poisoning in the city of New York during the year ending June 30th. It does seem that when people want to commit suicide they would do it decently and in order.

It is said that if all the stars were to go out it would be four years before we would notice any difference in their light. The democrats have been out of power only a little more than two years, and the difference is so easily marked that it is almost embarrassing to remark it.

We never have thought well of the big drives the presidents of the United States have been making. In the first place it is always dangerous, and in above the country has been having for the past eight or nine years the place for rulers of this nation should be at Washington, D. C.

Yesterday a nation was rejoicing that President Harding was on the road to recovery. And today it is mourning his untimely and sudden death, which has cast a gloom over the entire country. Warren G. Harding is the fourth president that has passed away while serving his country as chief executive. Another great calamity.

It isn't Uncle Sam who is parting immigrants from their kin and breaking family ties by his laws and regulations. It is the aliens themselves who start the break. Many of them know when they come to this country that their relatives can never follow or be admitted. Under those circumstances it isn't fair to blame the American government for wrecking a home.

Grover Bergdoll is now in Switzerland, where the cheese comes from, but his mother is anxious to have him return to America. If he comes back to America the American Legion will be glad to welcome him at the wharf. The members will turn out with their branding irons and other paraphernalia of remembrance. It is said that if Bergdoll returns and serves his sentence more than $1,000,000 worth of property will be saved to the family. Otherwise it may be used in the payment of claims against Germany. How much will a Bergdoll stand for $1,000,000.

THE ARMY OF AMBITIOUS

There are publishers these days who are putting out books that wouldn't have been thought fit for decent society twenty years ago, and many persons have come to think of these publications as evidence of the decadence of the age. But there is another side to popular taste. While there are publications built on so-called "sex stuff," the most successful magazines of recent years have been scrupulous in what they have admitted to their columns.

The Saturday Evening Post has made its success by its editor's instinct for getting hold of fiction of wide interest and of serious articles that were informative but not dull. But the salacious never has been cultivated.

The American Magazine obtained a circulation above 2 millions a month by its editor's belief that certain wholesome fundamental human instincts always could be appealed to. "Victory is what we are interested in," he once wrote. "Victory for the individual over the odds that beset him." There are all kinds—sickness, lack of education, opportunity or money, environment, bad habits, absurd weaknesses, every sort of mental, physical and spiritual barrier of "Pilgrim's Progress."

So he made a specialty of printing articles that told how people had won their victories. There would be the story of a boy who had to get his education as he went along, and the man who had been a failure until he was 50 and then by a supreme effort had won out; of a woman teacher, poor perhaps in this world's goods, but rich in the imprint she had made on the lives of her pupils.

The response to such articles as these is significant. It shows a great army of people are ambitious to make the most of themselves. These men and women, many of them young, are anxious to learn from the lives of others, to get inspiration from the triumph of courage over obstacles.

It is with young people of such spirit that the future of America lies.

SHEIKS AND SHEBAS

Dr. A. W. LaForge, expert diagnostician, delivered an address before the American Institute of Homeopathy in Chicago in which he stated that one of the most virulent modern diseases was the growth in the numbers of "Sheiks and Shebas" in the United States. A sheik, according to the eminent doctor of medicine, is not merely a handsome young man of the matinee idol type, but one who is addicted to the wearing of flat derbies, bell trousers and characterized by a violent aversion to work. The Shebas also suffer from this peculiar dislike of hard toil and can be recognized at sight by their rolled hose, fantastic garb of violent hue and the abundance of paint and powder used to caecimine their youthful countenance.

The disease is not incurable, according to the doctor. It is, he states, the result of the "high tension of the age in which we are living, combined with idleness, working on the nervous systems of the boys and girls." Bewildered and non-plussed parents who find themselves with young "sheiks and shebas" are advised to start administering remedies at once. The cure, it seems, is simple. It is the one thing they abhor most, but the sole thing that will effect a recovery. Hard work will wipe the dapper elegance of the most confirmed sheiks, Dr. LaForge states, and rapidly change him into a normal person. The same drastic methods applied to his sister, the sheba, have quite revolutionary results. Dishes and house cleaning for her, and farm work for her brother will speedily remove this most modern complex and turn the young idea toward normal interests.

Witness my hand, and seal of said court, this 31st day of July, A. D. 1923.
