COLORED BOYS WINNERS

The visit of Brown's Tennessee Rats Sunday gave the fans a chance to enjoy a real baseball game and one in which, while the colored visitors were the victors, they had a real time in winning by the score of 5 to 0. But for an error and a throw to third the score would have stood at 2 to 0 for the visitors but in these two plays they netted three additional runs. In the throw by Strong to third to catch the runner instead of the local third sacker getting the ball it alighted on the dome of the colored boy stealing third and as the impact of the ball on the ivory occurred the ball bounced to the field and allowed the runner to score. For the locals Connors did the box work and played a good game and the support was excellent throughout.

The game was the last of the season, it is stated, as far as the Burlington team is concerned but the members of the team are planning to have a town team organized for a few games during the nice fall days and among the games in prospect are Cedar Creek and also Sidney, Iowa, which should be good sporting events for the fans.

GIVE BRIDGE PARTY

Yesterday afternoon, Mrs. J. H. McMaken and Mrs. Ray McMaken entertained very pleasantly at the McMaken home in the north portion of the city for a number of friends and the event proved one of the greatest of pleasure to all of the members of the party. The rooms of the home were very elaborately decorated with the wealth of fall flowers which make the McMaken home one of the feature places of the city, and their bright colors added to the charm of the scene. Here in the midst of the attractive flowers were arranged the six tables where the ladies spent the day in the fascinations of bridge and in which Miss Mia Gering proved the most skillful and was awarded the prize of the afternoon. At a suitable hour a dainty and enjoyable two course luncheon was served that added very much to the enjoyment of the members of the party. At a late hour in the afternoon the ladies departed homeward expressing their thanks of the very fine time that had been afforded them at this hospitable home.

PURCHASE SOFT DRINK PARLOR

From Wednesday's Daily.
Gideon Archer and Louis Boechler have purchased the soft drink parlor of C. L. Martin in the Coates block, and are now the full-fledged owners of this very popular resort. Gid as well as Louie are very pleasant and genial gentlemen and have a large acquaintance in this city and county that should insure them a nice business and are endeavoring to see that everyone of their patrons receives the best of treatment and the utmost courtesy.

Not so much about the tailoring, the linings, the fit and the inbuilt feature but the question is—Do you need a suit?

We'll tell you all about the rest when you come in to try on the new Fall models, which are here waiting for you now.

The best there is—
$35 to $45

And a lot of good suits at $25 and $30.

WELL WISHES FOR RETIRING RING ARTIST EXPRESSED

Sport Writer Pays Tribute to Andy Schmader, Who is Forsaking Ring For Business Career.

From Tuesday's Daily.
Andy Schmader and wife of Omaha were here over Sunday visiting friends and relatives and the approaching retirement of Andy from the boxing game to follow the less strenuous business career is being announced. In speaking of the retirement of this clean young fighter, Ivan Gaddis, sport writer of the Omaha News has the following:
Andy Schmader, who has participated in some great ring battles in the past five years, has quit.
The Louisville, Neb., battler, doped four years ago as a possible championship contender, has decided to engage in other lines of work.
He is doing this without any titles but with a great record in many respects.

Schmader a husky farmer boy copped the heavyweight championship of the navy during the war.
His stiff wollops carried him through a list of huskies.
Then although practically a novice he was beaten against the veteran Bill Brennan.
Schmader carried the battle to Brennan and actually had him worried in the first two rounds. Then he tried to box and Brennan stopped him. The records show a technical kayo against the Nebraskan.
Perhaps his greatest battle was against Joe Jeanette. Although out-weighted forty pounds Schmader stood toe to toe with the dusky scrapper and fought him even.

Won 17 by Kayo.
Andy returned home after the war and in twenty-seven battles under the management of Jack Lewis he won seventeen by the kayo route.
All admitted he had a wonderful punch, but he couldn't box a lick. His ability to assimilate punishment brought him many a victory. He would take three blows to land one. When he did land it was usually certain for his opponents.
His battles with George Lamson here attracted more interest than almost any fights that have been staged in Nebraska.

Then out of a clear sky Emil Engberg, a hard hitting but inexperienced Swede from Minnesota kayoed him in one round.
Everyone thought it was a fake.
Martin Stoms Him.
Schmader was matched with Bob Martin, A. E. F. champ, and after having Martin practically out in the first round, he got in the road of one of Martin's hard ones and the fight was stopped. Schmader was ready to fight at the bell but Referee Miller said the fight was over.
Tommy Gibbons stopped Schmader in a single round.
Schmader refused to believe he was through.

Ring experts declared it was the old story—he had developed a glass jaw. Blows that he formerly took and grinned, dropped him to the canvas.

Stangl Drops Him.
Joe Stangl, a hard hitting youngster, who used to wrestle about Omaha, stopped Schmader at Council Bluffs. Then the other night Jerry Vokac got a decision over him. Jerry floored Schmader in the first round with a blow that would have made Schmader smile two years ago.
It was a terrific battle, this last one of Schmader's. Andy weathered the first round and had the best of it in the next. Vokac floored him again and only turned to kick a chair out of the ring. Then Vokac jumped on the prostrate Schmader and began to pummel him on the floor. The referee didn't recognize this as a foul and the rough house fight continued.

It was stopped in the seventh and Vokac was given the victory via the foul route.

Fans Wish Him Luck.
Schmader is through—he admits it now.
Sometimes Andy loses his head in the ring, but he was sorry about it a few minutes later.
Andy never became a champ, but no one ever doubted his gameness.
The fans wish him good luck in his venture into the business world.

WHAT HO! CALIFORNIA.

Yesterday morning Fred Rutherford and Harley Cecil departed by auto for the golden west with Los Angeles, California, as their destination and to make a trip of at least a months duration and perhaps longer if they find the country there suited to their likes. The young men carried a large amount of equipment with them and expect to spend the time camping along the way at the various towns and to enjoy life close to nature while they are going westward to the coast.

COUNTRY SCHOOLS OPEN

A number of the country schools opened the year yesterday with large attendances and a full force of teachers all over the county which is a pleasing change in the years past as this season Miss Alpha Peterson, the county superintendent, reports that there is a surplus in the county of school teachers. A number of the districts will not open until next week and these are largely in the west portion of the county, in order to give the parents and scholars a chance to attend the state fair at Lincoln.

CLIFF DWELLERS' FIELD DAY

From Tuesday's Daily.
Yesterday the "Cliff Dwellers," who live in the Herold apartments held a real field day on the attractive grounds that lie near the two apartment houses and a great deal of fun and amusement was derived by the participants in the various events and particularly in the horse shoe contest in which Andy Moore was clearly the winner of the blue ribbon and the undoubted "champion" of the two apartment houses. To add to the entertainment of the dwellers Ray Larson and Bob Walling played an exhibition match of tennis that rivaled Tilden and Johnston as far as skill and brilliancy is concerned and both players were at their best.
Following the sports the members of the party enjoyed a fine picnic supper that the ladies had arranged for the occasion and followed by one of the "sings" for which the cliff dwellers have become famous.

CASS CO. FARM BUREAU NOTES

Fair Booster Trip.

The second trip was as successful as the first. The East half of the county being visited. The Weeping Water band played at the following towns: Manley, Louisville, Plattsmouth, Murray, Nehawka, Union and Avoca. Everyone on the trip are boosters for the band boys. A bountiful dinner was served by the ladies at the L. L. Wiles, home at Plattsmouth. Many courtesies were shown the boosters by Mr. and Mrs. Wiles and family, so we have invited ourselves there again. At the home of George Stoll; Weeping Water, we saw Chester white hogs and holstein cattle, at John Rauth's, shorthorn cattle and at Schafer Bros., duroc hogs. On the farm of Philip Hill southwest of Myhard, we visited a modern two story hog barn. Mr. Hill can well be proud of this building. During this visit we lost our genial booster, Mr. C. Pool, who was unfortunate in having tire trouble. Also just at dinner time he committed the same act but he was only a little late in arriving at James Terryberry, the home of Poland China hogs. Mr. Terryberry was a pleasant and his hogs so good to look at that the merry boosters stayed overtime, and were late at Louis Hennings to see his Spotted Polands. But Mr. Hennings was glad to see us and showed us his herd of good spotted Polands.

Next Elmer Salsberg and his father showed us some real Durocs. The boy is the hog raiser and Mr. Frank will have to step to stay up with his son. Our last stop before dinner was at the home of Philip Hiltz where we saw some fine Holstein cattle and Duroc hogs. Then came dinner and everyone appreciated it as they were hungry. From the county seat town we journeyed to the beautiful county home of Ed Spangler where the better half of the crowd fully enjoyed themselves. The Spanglers live in one of the finest county homes in Nebraska. At the Searl Davis farm we saw some excellent short horns. At the John Knabe's the boosters were treated to cookies and punch. "Thanks, Knabe." Here Harry showed us Pansy, his first purebred Hampshire hog. She has farrowed 92 pigs. Harry has one litter that he is fitting for the state fair. Mrs. Knabe is a sheep raiser and has purebred Cotswell. At the home of Carl Stone we saw his heard of Jerseys, also Marions sow and litter which he will show at Lincoln. There are 13 spotted Polands in this litter. How is that for raising hogs? Our last stop was with Pollard Bros., the Hampshire breeders. We wish to thank the business men, band boys and the farmers who assisted in making this trip a success.

Cass county judging team goes to State Fair. Cass county will be represented at the State Fair by a judging team in Clothing Club Work. The personnel of the team is as follows: Ruth Ranney, Margaret Meier, and Charlotte Joyce, Weeping Water. Stella Spangler, of Weeping Water will act as sponsor of the girls while at the State Fair. The girls will judge eight classes of clothing, four articles in each class. The girls will place the articles in each class and be expected to give reasons for placings. Cass County Clubs are composed of wide-awake boys and girls.

Happy Workers Hold Meeting. This club held a meeting, Monday August 27, and made final plans for attending the State Fair. This club will send a demonstration team, composed of Verna Meisinger and Margaret Meisinger. They will give a demonstration on "The Possibilities of the Bungalow Dress Pattern." This team demonstrated at the Cass County Farm Bureau Tour, August 14. Mrs. Lorine Uris, Cedar Creek, is their local leader.
