ATTACK LEGISLATIVE ACT IN APPEAL TO HIGH COURT

Property Owners at Outskirts of Peru Object to Being Included in the Corporate Limits.

An attack on the law passed by the legislature of 1913, which provides power for a municipality to take in property in spite of the fact that the state may own land between the town proper and the part sought to be annexed, was made in supreme court Friday.

The greater part of the town of Peru, as legally constituted, lies on the river bottom. To the south and west of it is a tract of seventy acres owned by the state, upon which is located what is properly called a state teachers' college, but which is popularly known as the Peru normal.

The town of Peru has annexed them under the provisions of Section 5,088. They don't want to be annexed, and their attorneys tell the supreme court that this law is a bad law because it is a special legislation.

over and grab the little settlement on the hill. They say that its provisions fit only the situation at Peru, and that for all practical purposes it might well have been labled, "An act to enable Peru to annex whatever territory it pleases."

The claim is made that the owners of the annexed property will get no benefit because of its detached character; that the land is used for agricultural and residence purposes only; that it does not represent an actual growth of the village, but is land acquired simply because it is close to the normal school; that it comprises parts of three school districts, and that these do not maintain schools, but take advantage of the fact that the state teachers' college maintains, for experimental purposes, a primary school from kindergarten to eighth grade inclusive, and send all their pupils there, as also does a part of Peru itself, that the only result will be to create two separate towns without any unity of interest. It is claimed that any law that attempts to combine two detached bodies of land into one town is illegal and void.—State Journal.

The Key that Unlocks the Door to Long Living

The men of eighty-five and ninety years of age are not the rotund, well-fed, but thin, spare men, who live on a slender diet. Be as careful as he will, however, a man past middle age will occasionally eat too much or of some article of food not suited to his constitution, causing indigestion or constipation and will need a dose of Chamberlain's Tablets to move his bowels and invigorate his stomach.

Francis Roman departed this morning for Omaha, where he will spend a few hours looking after some matters of business.

NEBRASKA G. O. P. SLATED FOR TWO MORE DELEGATES

Tentative Apportionment Calls For 18 in 1924 as Against Total of 16 at 1920 Convention.

Washington, Sept. 14.—A tentative apportionment of delegates to the 1924 republican national convention, conforming to the order of the national committee issued in 1920 and designed to equalize republican voters' representation, was made public tonight at committee headquarters. It provides for 1,036 delegates and alternates as compared to 984 four years ago, with sharp reductions in some of the "solid south" states and increases in most of northern and western sections.

Changes in apportionment were directed following years of criticism of large delegations from southern states normally democratic. No delegates will be allowed under the new rule from congressional districts which do not maintain a republican organization and do not cast at least 2,500 republican votes. This strips many southern districts entirely of representation, reducing South Carolina's strength from 11 to 4, Mississippi from 12 to 4, Louisiana's from 12 to 9 and Georgia's from 17 to 9. The Florida delegation, however, is increased from 8 to 10, Tennessee's from 20 to 26 and Virginia's from 15 to 16.

Four delegates at large are allowed each state and two additional delegates at large are called for on each representative at large.

Poll records from several southern states have been difficult to obtain according to national committee leaders and later information may slightly change the tentative apportionment.

GO ON THEIR WAY REJOICING.

From Thursday's Daily. The troubles of Thomas Allpress and wife over their car that was held here from Sunday evening to yesterday afternoon, are over it would seem.

The car was first taken up on account of the wrong numbers that it bore, and later a squabble over the ownership was started at Hastings that threatened to involve the young people and delay them further in their journey southward, although they were innocent parties in the mix-up.

The ownership of the car that they had purchased in Hastings was finally determined and the incident closed and yesterday, cranking up the old boat, they sped southward hoping the car question had been definitely settled and would trouble them no more.

MILITARY CENSORSHIP FOR THE TULSA TRIBUNE

Tulsa Tribune Will Fight Governor Walton in U. S. Courts for the Freedom of Press.

Tulsa, Okla., Sept. 14.—A military censor took up his post in the editorial rooms of the Tulsa Tribune, an afternoon paper, at noon today. He ordered "proofs" of all news matter relating to Governor Walton and martial law in Tulsa county to be submitted to him for approval.

The censor is Major Roark of Oklahoma City, a former newspaper man and an officer in the Oklahoma national guard contingent here to enforce military rule.

The Tulsa Tribune announced earlier today it would apply for an injunction in United States district court to prevent Governor Walton from interfering with the publication of the paper if the executive carried out his threat to establish military censorship over its news columns.

The Tribune denies Governor's Walton's allegation that the Tribune has "agitated against the state's military investigation of masked activities in Tulsa county."

Statement of Owner

A signed statement issued later by Richard Lloyd Jones, owner and publisher of the Tribune, said in part:

"The Tribune will defend its constitutional rights for freedom of the press in the courts of the land, but meanwhile, we shall comply with the rules of the military censor. Unless the rights which have been sacred in America since the days of 1776 are now to be trampled upon, we may rightly expect to gain legal sanction to publish all the news about conditions in Oklahoma without fear or favor."

"Governor Walton has the power and the duty to suppress mob law, and to see that men guilty of mob violence are brought to justice. The Tribune will continue to support him earnestly in every lawful move to bring about that end."

Legislature May Meet

A movement to curb the powers being assumed by Governor Walton has taken the form of seeking to bring the legislature into extraordinary session. Authorities differ on the right of the lawmaking body to take such action without a call from the governor, although it is said the matter is not prohibited by the state constitution.

WILL HAVE NEW TEACHER

The teaching force of the high school is to have the services of an additional teacher to care for the large classes that are now being handled there and which have become so large as to require another instructor in order to divide the work so as to give a greater efficiency in handling the work.

It is expected to secure a gentleman for the teaching force which will make four male instructors in the high school. Superintendent DeWolf has the promise of a gentleman well recommended for the position, but will not know definitely for a few days whether he can come here or not.

UNWORTHY CAUSES TAKE COURT'S TIME

Supreme Body at Washington Making No Material Progress in Clearing the Docket.

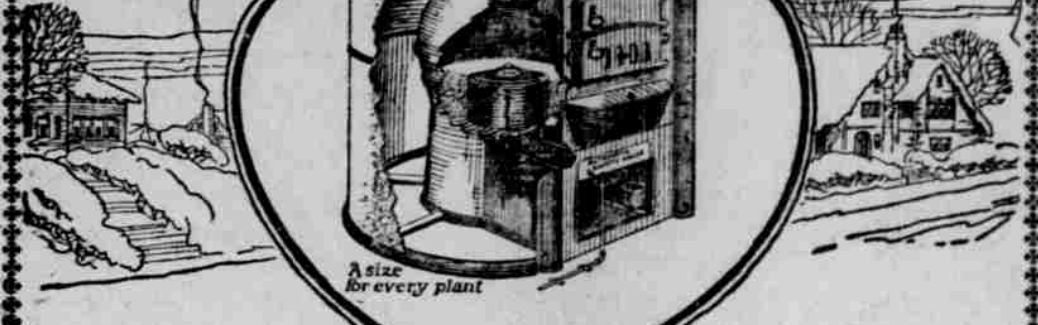

Washington, Sept. 14.—The supreme court is making no material progress in clearing its docket. When it meets October 1 to begin its next term it will find substantially as many cases awaiting consideration as a year ago.

This condition is not due to lack of effort, for no matter how fast the court speeds up its disposition of cases the accumulation upon its docket keeps pace. The real trouble in the opinion of attorneys practicing before the court, is that the appellate jurisdiction of the highest tribunal is sought by many litigants whose controversies do not present questions worthy of its consideration, and who should not be permitted to consume its time.

Congress has from time to time attempted to solve the problem by legislation, but laws are slow in reforming human nature. As long as the court is open to those who would use it to delay the execution of sentences or take a last desperate chance to have an adverse decision reversed, its dockets will be crowded with cases in which an appeal is asked merely to postpone the inevitable day when the prison doors must close on the petitioner, or when a judgment must be paid.

Owing to the congestion of business a case filed today will not be reached by the court for argument within eighteen months unless it is

RATINGS OF SEEDS ARE MADE PUBLIC

Farmers are Urged by State to be Aware of Poor Grades—Seed Should Be Tested.

Lincoln, Sept. 13.—A few of the dangers facing the Nebraska farmer in purchasing seed are listed by Grant L. Shumway, state secretary of agriculture, as follows:

Rye samples from Beatrice, tested 96 per cent pure and 21 per cent germination.

Alfalfa samples from University Place, tested 94 per cent pure and 60 per cent germination.

Supposedly alfalfa samples from Clatonia tested 11.08 pure alfalfa seed and 83.93 sweet clover seed.

Sweet clover from University Place tested 97.4 pure and 28 per cent germination.

"There is just one safeguard for the purchaser and that is to send the seed in for testing and if it doesn't test correctly we'll order it off the market," Shumway said.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Slidell of this city were at Pacific Junction yesterday where they attended the marriage of the sister of Mr. Stidell, Miss Rose, to Mr. Donald Liner of Omaha.
