BLUE AND WHITE BRIEFS

"Practically eighty per cent of the figures used today in modern business are unnecessary and useless. In fact if all the superfluous figures used in the course of a year in one business were compiled in books there would be enough to load a freight train out of Chicago every Friday night."

This was the gist of an address made by Mr. George Woods, Louisville banker, before the high school student body Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Woods evidently knows a few things about the demonstrations he gave in connection with his address were nothing short of miraculous. His methods of handling complicated fractional and decimal propositions were extremely simple and short.

The system which he used is based on observation. He explained that the subconscious spelling of words while reading could be applied to his method of addition, which is the chief factor in his obtaining of results.

Some of the statements of interest to the student body at large was the fact that fully 60 per cent of the pupils could be trained to handle figures at the rate of 200 per minute.

3 YOUNG WOMEN BEAT FIVE THUGS OFF AUTOMOBILE

Fremont Party Experiences Sensations Such as Plattsmouth People Often Receive.

Fremont, Neb., Nov. 12.—When five bandits sought to board an automobile occupied by Mrs. Fred Moller and her sisters-in-law, Miss Mildred Moller and Miss Nettie Moller, in the edge of Fremont last night they failed to reckon upon the determination of the three young women not to be robbed and the ability of pretty Miss Mildred to "step on the gas" and step hard.

The three women were returning from Omaha where they had been to visit a sick friend of Mrs. Moller, who is the wife of a Fremont letter carrier. They were driving an Oakland touring car.

As we crossed the railway tracks on the Lincoln highway just out of Fremont about 11 p. m., said Mrs. Moller, "four or five men, all wearing raincoats but unmasked, stepped out of a truck along the roadside. We thought they had run into the ditch. 'Come on, ladies!' they called to us. As we drove around the truck one of the men leaped to the running board and another climbed up on the spare tire at the back of the car and leered through the glass."

It was then that Mrs. Moller cut loose with a right to the jaw, straight through the glass, and the tire-climbing thug "bit the dust." At the same time Miss Mildred Moller, at the wheel, stepped on the gas. The car shot forward and the man on the running board was lost in the shuffle just as the remaining three highway-men leaped from in front of the machine. The women reported the attempted holdup to Fremont police and a search was begun. The robbers have not been caught.

Judgment from the foregoing the residents of Fremont and the North Platte territory are evidently not accustomed to the sudden appearance of strangers darting from the side of the road and attempting to stop their cars, which has grown familiar to the travelers in this locality during the "reign of terror" that has been in force here for the past few weeks. The "natives" here are becoming accustomed to this interference with the peaceful traveler, which makes journeying from Plattsmouth to Omaha and return almost as difficult to travel in the occupied territory of the Ruhr in Germany but to the stranger traveling through this section the sudden leaping out in front of the machine by unknown men gives them all the sensations of the holdup.

BRYAN PROCLAIMS RED CROSS WEEK

Governor Says it Needs No "Silver-Tongued" Trumpeter to Sound Its Praise.

Citizens of Nebraska are exhorted by Governor Bryan to make contributions for carrying on the work of the Red Cross, in the following proclamation issued from the executive office Saturday.

"The record of the American Red Cross has been such that its usefulness is established beyond question. It needs no 'silver-tongued trumpeter' to sound its praise. It is evident that its members and those who directly serve in the administration of its affairs are prompted by the spirit and are obedient of the exhortation of the Prince of Peace, going into all the world preaching by example as well as precept, the gospel of good deeds, feeding the hungry, clothing the destitute, and giving aid and comfort to all who suffer from the pestilence of war, earthquakes, famine and disease, irrespective of creed, color or nationality, counting not their lives dear in their ministrations of mercy.

"It must not be overlooked that during the past year almost two million dollars have been spent through the agency of the Red Cross for the relief of the ex-service men and the women in our own country who are suffering from effects of the world war. The total amount expended for the year is almost ten million dollars. This does not include the amount of over ten million dollars for the relief of Japan.

"This great army of the Red Cross must be kept fully supplied and always equipped ready to move at any moment, as evidenced in the case of the calamity that without warning came to Japan.

"The seventh annual roll call of the Red Cross is just at hand in Nebraska. Everyone who is a member will be given an opportunity to renew their membership and those who are not will be solicited to enroll themselves and join the ranks of the American Red Cross. The call will begin on Armistice day and end on Thanksgiving day.

"(Those cities where the Red Cross is included in the community chest will not be canvassed by that society.)

"I am pleased to endorse the work of the American Red Cross and request the observance of the time indicated for the roll call and that all who can may enlist in this army of three and one-half million Americans who are not only the banner symbolizing the highest and best qualities of our human nature, a practical fulfillment of the Golden Rule."

FOLSOM COMING TO SEE PRISON INMATE

Son of Suicide Mayor of Irvington, N. J., Leaves for Lincoln to Interview Chas. Currey

Irvington, N. J., Nov. 12.—Louis Folsom, whose father, mayor of Irvington, committed suicide last September, left today for Lincoln, Neb., to ask Charles Currey, inmate of the Nebraska state prison, to reveal the names of men he claims blackmailed the late mayor. Folsom's widow and son have claimed that the blackmailers, hounding him with the shadow of the past, drove Folsom to suicide. Currey recently was released from his cell that he had known Folsom all his life and that he knew the blackmailers. He refused to reveal the names until released from a term which will expire in about a year. Mrs. Folsom has recognized Currey as a former resident of Hammond, N. Y., whence Folsom originally came.

Charles Currey, two-year man in the Nebraska prison, has said he will reveal nothing of the blackmailing plot, of which he claims to have knowledge, until he is released from the penitentiary in May, 1925. "The secret is my secret until that time," he is quoted as saying.
