

MAIN SUBJECT BEFORE THE OMAHA CONFERENCE

Will be Co-Ordination of Rail and Ocean Transportation of Advantage to Midwest

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 27.—Proper co-ordination of rail and ocean transportation is to be one of the outstanding subjects for discussion at the third farmers-manufacturers conference at Omaha, December 17 and 18, the call for which was issued today by United States Senator Frank B. Willis of Ohio, chairman of the middle west committee.

In the official call, Chairman Willis said: "American railroads and American steamships, by co-ordination, can be brought into such working harmony that they will be real trade developers for American products in foreign lands. By co-operation in an active and positive manner, the middle west can thus attain farm bureau and industrial economic freedom and find an outlet for its immense surplus of manufactured and raw products and materials."

One means suggested to bring about this co-ordination, it is understood, is to authorize through acts of congress the creation of a joint through export tariff board of railroad and steamship officials to publish joint tariffs under the supervision of the interstate commerce commission.

Delegates from twenty-one states, farm bureaus and industrial organizations and commercial bodies of the middle west are expected to attend the conference.

NEBRASKA MEMBERS FOR TAX REDUCTION

But Not Ready to Endorse Secretary Mellon's Plan in its Entirety. Judge Sears Arrives.

Washington, Nov. 27.—The Nebraska congressional delegation members are analyzing the provisions of the Mellon tax and anti-burden recommendations. Representative Edgar Howard, Third district, states his views as follows:

"Of course I favor tax reduction, but I am not ready to endorse the Mellon plan until I shall discover more clearly just whose taxes he wants to reduce. Under the Harding administration Secretary Mellon did reduce taxes, but whose did he reduce? He won his way with a republican congress and lifted more than five hundred million of tax burden off the shoulders of the great corporations who paid the excess profits tax. The tax load should be lifted from the shoulders of the common herd sometimes, and not always from the backs of those best able to bear the burden."

OUT OF THE ETHER

Radio News Broadcast each Saturday by Station ETAO

"World Crier"
Hear ye! Hear ye! Platts Junior Review, Dec. 7th.

A program by our younger artists fully up to the standard of quality set by its two Platts predecessors.

Station ETAO has a new announcer, RAW, who can be heard broadcasting a program of his own at frequent intervals during the night.

Plattsouth will also have another program date this month—Sunday, December 23rd, when the Presbyterian church artists will make their initial appearance before "Mike."

Did you hear Europe? Or were you like this announcer tuning into distant music and getting all excited until we learned it was only some small powered "Maverick" station in the U. S. that wasn't observing radio week—perhaps never heard of it.

For that matter on Tuesday night we picked up WLGA, the twin city station at Minneapolis, during the supposed quiet period, which shows a lack of co-operation and for which there is little excuse. The big stations, at least, were apprised of the plans and should have lived up to them.

Something New—Down East
Tarrytown, N. Y.—Station WRV has recently inaugurated a new feature of giving the station every Friday evening to the different villages and cities in Westchester county. The community clubs, Rotary and Lions clubs and schools of these cities can then boost their community. The evenings will be called Peakskill night, Yonkers night, Portchester night, etc.

Getting it Off Our Chest
One of our Plattsouth club bugs, who has been "fishing in the ether" for Europe this week, tells us that the Omaha fan who called WQAW to tell 'em he had heard them singing "God Save the King" in England, would have learned his mistake if he had kept the carphones clamped on a few seconds longer, for it was really none other than the Calgary, Canada, station, which we hear here frequently. So much for that. Now another matter (Thursday night, KXW, the powerful Washington station in Chicago, the new ZION station, at Zion City, Ill., together with half a dozen smaller ones in the U. S. were in the air, which is a "did" shame to say the least. If the stations in England did that this week of tests, well, bet you our catswhisker they'd lose their broadcasting license forthwith. It's a wonder some one here station hasn't started in broadcasting under call 2LO. Perhaps they would have, if they weren't afraid the home town folks would get out on them, and mob them for their perverted sense of humor. We didn't expect to reach

HASTINGS-WESLEYAN GAME BEST IN THE AIR

Of the many football games being broadcast yesterday, the snappiest and most peppy was that between Hastings college and the Nebraska Wesleyan for the state championship. This game was played at Hastings and broadcast by the new Westinghouse experimental station there, KHXZ, which put it into the air with plenty of power and local radio fans had no difficulty in placing the returns on their loudspeaker satisfactorily.

Interest in this game was keen, and the attendance was the largest ever present at a state championship contest. Certainly every one who was there had a lusty pair of lungs and was giving full vent to their enthusiasm.

Particular interest in this game was felt here thru the fact that Carl Schneider, Plattsouth boy, is one of the guards on the championship Hastings team, and friends of the young man here received the news of their victory with pleasure.

The game was hard fought with Westinghouse in the lead, 7 to 3, for a time, but in the third quarter Hastings made a touchdown and the score of 9 to 7 thus attained was the final score of the game, although in the last few minutes of play, Wesleyan got dangerously close to Hastings' goal by a series of end runs and forward passes before the Hastings team was able to halt them and repulse their attack some ten yards from the Hastings goal. It was an exciting finish and pandemonium reigned as the ball was forced back to center field shortly before the final whistle.

HOPE TO SOLVE RIDDLE OF LOST TRIBES IN CHINA

National Geographic Society Expedition to Invade Kweichow, Remote Province.

An expedition into the interior of China to solve the riddle of the lost tribes of that country, from which the American Indian and other present-day peoples may have sprung, is being arranged by the National Geographic society at Washington.

It was announced recently that the party of ethnologists will go to Kweichow, one of the most remote provinces of China, where lives a race distinct from the modern Chinese, clinging tenaciously to the queer customs of bygone ages.

Selecting the least fertile, least accessible and most backward part of the country as their home, these people have shut themselves off from the rest of the world and heretofore denied students the privilege of residence.

The scope of the contribution the National Geographic society's research will make to science cannot be determined, but scientists say that it may make Kweichow a vista of hitherto unrecorded history. One of the few visitors among the strange tribes said that there are types resembling the Gurkha, the South Sea Islander, the American Indian, the East Indian and the negro.

Ethnologists at the National museum say the expedition undoubtedly will open up to science an entirely new chapter in the history of human life. The little that is known of the tribes, they say, strongly indicates that they were founders of the red race and that types of the American Indian may still be found. Stranger still, evidences of pure white tribes have been discovered by the few travelers who barely penetrated the borders of Kweichow.

Close by Turkestan, where primitive man is supposed to have first learned to domesticate animals, it has been suggested that Kweichow may be the long-sought cradle of civilization, the plain upon which human life was first evolved. Between two and three million members of the non-Chinese tribes survive there, and the opportunity for study among them has not yet been lost. Their slow absorption by the modern Chinese, however, has been going on since 2256 B. C.

YEOMAN MEMBERS ASK INJUNCTION

Charges of Misrepresentation Filed Against Order and its Officers By Six Members.

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 30.—Charges that negotiations by the Brotherhood of American Yeomen for a site on which to build a great children's home immediately, and for the purpose of inducing residents of localities under consideration to purchase life insurance were obtained in the injunction petition filed in district court here by holders of fraternal policies in the order, it was disclosed late today.

The petition was filed by six members of the order, holders of fraternal policies issued under the original founding plan, and it asks an injunction to restrain the officers and directors from "declaring or enforcing a forfeiture of any membership in the Brotherhood of American Yeomen for failure to pay any assessments, dues or other charges, or to pay a greater rate than was collected from such members" prior to the filing.

The petitioners charge that the Yeomen officers are attempting to change the society insurance from a fraternal form and that they are discriminating against the holders of original policies by compelling them to pay an exorbitant rate to retain their membership.

The petition also charged that the defendant officers and members had entered into negotiations with more than 100 cities for the location of a yeomen's children home to establish the impression that the society had from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 in fund for building such a home. The petition recited that the officers were deceiving every day and with present provisions of the Yeomen laws governing contributions to the home building fund, the amount paid would not total even $10,000,000 in 50 years.

Fort Dodge, Des Moines, Cedar Rapids, Davenport and Iowa City in Iowa, and Chippewa Falls, Wis.; St. Louis and Peoria, Ill., were the cities prominent in the contest for the home.

Miss Josephine Welber of Omaha will be here over Sunday as a guest of Mrs. T. F. Murphy and to attend the initiation of the Catholic Daughters of America which will be held at the K. of C. hall tomorrow.

INTIMATION THAT FALL PROFITED FROM DOME LEASE

Former Secretary of Interior Will be Invited to Appear Before Senate Public Lands Com.

Washington, Nov. 30.—After Carl C. Magee, a New Mexico editor, had testified under questioning by Senator Walsh, democrat, regarding the personal financial status of former Secretary Albert B. Fall of the interior department, the senate public lands committee decided today to invite Mr. Fall to appear before its inquiry into the leasing of the Teapot Dome naval reserve to the Sinclair interests.

The invitation, sent by Chairman Smoot, summarized the testimony given today and informed Mr. Fall of the committee's opinion that he should have an opportunity to be heard.

Magee described a visit to the Fall ranch at Three Rivers, N. M., in February, 1920, when, he said, Fall decided he was "broke" and intended to resign from the senate to recuperate.

The senator's statement was borne out, the witness said, by the condition of the ranch and roads leading to it. Magee said he passed through Three Rivers again last August and "was lost because of the great change." A first class road went through Fall property, he testified, and there were concrete gutters, stone culverts and trees on each side.

Paid All Back Taxes
Senator Walsh, democrat, read in to the record an affidavit of the present treasurer of the county in which the Fall ranch is located, stating that no taxes had been paid by Fall between 1912 and 1922 but that all back payments were met on June 6, 1922.

Besides Magee, the committee heard testimony from G. V. Clayton, former treasurer of Otero county, in which Mr. Fall's ranch is located, and Willard Harris, owner of adjoining property purchased about two years ago by the former secretary.

Clayton told the committee that Fall was on the delinquent tax list in 1919, but had assured county officials that the $8,000 due would be paid promptly when errors in assessments were corrected. Senator Walsh then submitted an affidavit from the present county treasurer saying that Fall had paid in June, 1922, all his delinquent taxes, running back as far as 1912.

Throughout the session examination of the witnesses was conducted almost wholly by Senator Walsh.

In reply to questions from Chairman Smoot and Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, Magee said he had not visited the ranch itself since 1920, but had viewed the approach to it from the railroad station at Three Rivers.

Senator Lenroot, republican, Wisconsin, then developed that there had been bitter political diatribes between Magee and Fall, which the witness said had grown out of an attack by him on the operation of the land office in New Mexico. He said Fall threatened "to put me on a rack and break me up" if the attack did not cease. He added that Senator Bursom of New Mexico had warned him that a note given in part payment for the Albuquerque Morning Journal would not be renewed.

Harris testified that Fall paid 91 thousand, 500 dollars for the property bought from him, paying 10 thousand dollars down when the purchase contract was signed in 1919, and the balance a few months later by check.
