Last week while W. B. Banning and wife were in the west they chanced to pass through Burlington, Colorado, and were accompanied home by Misses Alice and Mary Chalfant, who have been visiting here since.

W. B. Banning and wife departed on last Monday for Lincoln where they went to join the excursion of officials of the agricultural college in their tour over the state, for the purpose of testing the soil at different places.

The board of education of the Union schools recently secured a principal for the high school in the person of Professor Wm. A. Wells. Professor Wells comes well recommended and we are hoping will make an excellent man for the position.

Mrs. W. W. Claybaugh who was at the hospital for a time where she was receiving treatment to restore her health so she could undergo an operation, was so benefited that she returned home feeling much the better and will not need an operation at this time.

day they were guests at the home of J. Dysart and family.

A most pleasant time was had by the young ladies.

Interfered With Dinner. Last Monday when the dinner was nearly completed which was being enjoyed by the Union Business Men's club, the fire alarm sounded and most of the banqueters left their chicken pie, and ice cream and skurried away.

The keys of the fire cart house were at the bank and Messrs. Smith and Halas Banning were at the dinner, and by the time they were able to get to the bank for the keys, the railroad people had gotten the fire out which was in a box car on the tracks south of the station. Then all came back with but one or two exceptions and did justice to the apple pie and ice cream thereon.

You are especially welcome to these services. If you know how hard the farmers are working for the betterment of Union you would do your part in the work.

Men's Club Meets. John Burks of the county court of Otoe county was a guest of Dr. W. H. Achenbach as was Mr. Mansfield, also of Nebraska City, they being respectively president and vice president of the Lyons club of Nebraska City and both spoke briefly at the dinner of the Union Business Men's club last Monday. D. Ray Frans had as his guest John Horner, at the Business Men's club, and introduced him at the dinner and was greeted with a general hand clapping. This was not the Jack Horner who sat in the corner for he and Ray sat near the middle of the long table.

It was the sense of the meeting that Dr. Achenbach had to go to Ashland at the army officers camp next Monday, and that W. E. Moore would be away that J. B. Roddy preside at the dinner.

George Stille made some very good remarks about making Union look the very best and saying it would be an advertisement all over, as many people come and go through Union every day.

by Mr. Roddy, which was a happy surprise to both gentlemen. Sure they had a good visit and enjoyed meeting each other.

McKelvie Takes Grain Belt Post on Farm Board

Former Nebraska Governor Is Named Following Brief Visit with President Hoover.

Washington, July 30.—Former Governor Samuel S. McKelvie of Lincoln, appointed to the federal farm board today by President Hoover, expressed confidence that the board "will accomplish great good for the farmer and give agriculture the leadership it has so greatly needed."

McKelvie arrived this afternoon from his summer home in the Black Hills, conferred briefly with President Hoover and planned to return to Lincoln the end of this week.

He has agreed to serve, he said, from September 1 until June 1 as the members of the board representing the wheat producers of the middle and northwest. He does not plan to meet with the board until September 1.

"I have been much impressed by the initial activities of the federal farm board," McKelvie said, "and particularly with the action taken at Chicago last week in setting up a grain marketing corporation with full participation by the farm organizations."

"The farmers in my section of the country have been greatly encouraged by the first steps taken by the board. In my judgment, the board will be able to accomplish great good for the farmer and give agriculture the leadership it has so greatly needed."

President Hoover announced the appointment of McKelvie at 5 p. m. today after the executive offices had closed. The announcement was brief, stating that "many farm organizations have endorsed the appointment," without listing the names of individual endorsers as in the case of previous appointments to the board.

It was learned at the White house that neither Senator Norris nor Senator Howell of Nebraska had endorsed McKelvie.

McKelvie had been mentioned for some months for appointment to the farm board as had former Governor Adam McMullen, but the Nebraska delegation took no concerted action to back any candidate.

The Nebraska senators indicated they did not favor the appointment of McKelvie when his name was mentioned here several months ago, but neither is expected to oppose confirmation when the senate convenes in August.

Has Been Ill. McKelvie has been in poor health, having been discharged from Johns Hopkins hospital at Baltimore six weeks ago, after an illness of eight months. He is now much improved but said today the condition of his health prevented him from accepting the appointment from President Hoover with a commitment to serve beyond June 1, 1930.

McKelvie is a graduate of the University of Nebraska and publishes an agricultural magazine known as the Nebraska Farmer. He went by successive political steps from membership in the city council of Lincoln to the governorship of his state, which position he held from 1919 to 1923.

Historic Company in War Holds Reunion

Co. I, 168th Infantry of Rainbow Division Meets at Glenwood—Number From Here

Eleven years have elapsed since Company I 168th Iowa Infantry, marched through the fields and forests of France amid the deluge of sharpnel which fell from the war clouds which hung menacingly low over the world. These eleven years faded away for fifty-five of those Company I boys who met at Glenwood Sunday in reunion they lived again the scenes of those days, laughing over the memories of the humorous incidents, recounting the hazards and hardships and paying fond tribute to the memory of those Buddies who didn't come back. It was a glorious day. The weather was ideal and the arranged program was carried out in detail just as it had been previously announced.

The memorial services held at the armory were presided over by Ralph Linville, President of the Company I Club. The address of the morning was given by Rev. Lawrence Day of Grant City, Mo., member of Missouri State Legislature and Company I man. His address was not only appropriate to the occasion but was a masterful talk. The basket dinner at the lake park at noon was followed by the sport program which included a baseball game, horseshoe pitching, races and so forth.

The men fell in for review before Major General Tinley on the west side of the square at 6 o'clock Sunday evening. The way in which they conducted themselves and executed orders proved that they were truly living over again those days of army life. The honor of the Company I men and their families was held in the K. P. hall at 6:30. This enjoyed affair was attended by some 115 persons. The principal address of the evening was given by Major General Tinley of Council Bluffs, former Colonel of the 168th Infantry. The boys elected officers for the coming year and announced that this will be made an annual affair.

This company of the former Third Iowa national guard has had one of the most notable records of service of the world war and in its ranks there were a number from this city to enlist in the early part of 1917, and accompanied the regiment to France, two of these, Hugh J. Kearns and Edward C. Ripple, paying the supreme sacrifice in the intense fighting of July 1918 in the opening of the American offensive. The local post of the American Legion is named in honor of Hugh Kearns who served with him and who were given the honor of selecting the name for the Plattsmouth post when it was organized in 1919.

Others who served in Co. I from this city were Ralph H. Allen, Alfred Wilson, and Ralph Lair.
