FINE COUNTRY HOME

At the home of August Kell, near Cullom, near the former station of Concord, Nebraska, on the Burlington some thirteen miles west of Plattsmouth, stands a stone building which he is using for a barn, but which some sixty years ago served the frontier community as a school house. There are evidences of the old time blackboards still in the building. At this place a number of our citizens attended school during the late seventies. Among them W. H. Seybert and brother, Andrew Seybert and wife, County Clerk George R. Sayles, Mrs. J. C. Ellington and many others.

This place where Mr. Kell resides is undergoing some very important changes and the home which has stood there for many years is being transformed into a modern and up-to-date farm home. The house is being entirely remodeled and made modern with an up-to-date heating plant, hardwood floors, bath room and electricity in every room.

The house has just been wired by Jess Wurga, the concrete and sewer work is being done by Roy Taylor, and the carpenter work by Mr. Tiekotter, the contractor.

The house will contain a full basement and the grounds surrounding it, under the very careful work of Mr. Kell himself, is receiving the best landscape gardening and with a nice dining room added to the house as it is now remodeled, makes a wonderful country home.

Mr. and Mrs. Kell are entitled to this, as they have worked hard and are among our best citizens.

L. B. Egenberger, the well known grocer, with Mrs. Egenberger and Mr. and Mrs. Stef Steffens, of Omaha, have been fishing at the Minnesota lakes and returning Sunday bring some harrowing tales of the fishing and especially the experiences of Mr. Egenberger. It is claimed that there is a very large fish in Battle Lake, one of the kind that Andy Gump would try and capture. Some of the original settlers of Minnesota who came over in the first Norseman expedition claim to have seen the fish disputing himself at different times, but it remains for the Plattsmouth fisherman to actually come to grips with the dweller of the lake.

Mr. Egenberger had taken a fine array of fishing tackle to the lake with him for the purpose of tackling the game fish. One day while out on a fishing trip he had the famous mysterious fish on the hook it is reported, but the fish got away and took with him the hook, line and pole. Some of the party claim the fish was so large that it swallowed the pole, but you can believe that or not. However, the party had a fine time and caught a great array of fish.

From Wednesday's Daily— The rain of last night and today has caused a great deal of inconvenience to the traveling public and especially in the traffic along highway No. 75 where the road is operated over a detour for the greater part of the way from Omaha to Union. The detour in Sarpy and Douglas county has just been given a slight coat of green, and this has been largely absorbed by the wet soil and makes the travel rather disagreeable as the slick condition of the road makes it hard to keep the cars and trucks in the road. The detour through this county has several fills and new pieces of road building that in the rain has grown rather soft and adds to the perils of the auto drivers.

The school was in use for many years and the plastering job that Mr. Harrison did was evidently a good one as the plaster lasted for many years.
