Holt County is Split Over Road Projects

Atkinson Fights for Completion of No. 54 as O'Neill Demands Work on No. 13.

Lincoln, Sept. 13.—A distinct split between Holt county residents over the completion of two highway projects was unfolded here Friday when a delegation from Atkinson called upon Governor Weaver.

The visit, R. J. Kelly explained, was the aftermath of a secret mission here several days ago by a group of O'Neill citizens.

The latter group was described Friday as a "political front."

Atkinson, it seems, wants highway No. 54 from that place to Burwell completed, while O'Neill citizens demand work on No. 13 from O'Neill to Bartlett.

Charge "Manipulation." And to accomplish their purpose the Atkinson delegation charged Friday, the rivals went "over the head of Engineer Cochran" and called upon Governor Weaver for aid.

This move was made, Kelly explained, after it was learned in O'Neill that Cochran was preparing to ask bids for more work on the Atkinson favored project.

By "manipulation," the irate Atkinsonites averred, the Holt county board prepared a resolution declaring no money should be spent on either highway until No. 13 is completed.

While the entire Holt county board signed the edict, H. L. James, representing the Atkinson district on the board, later rescinded his action and became a member of the visiting protesters Friday.

The O'Neill project, it is held by the opposition faction, "leads off into nowhere," while their road to Burwell connects with several favorable routes in all directions.

Call on Cochran. Attitude of the O'Neill faction, the delegation alleges, is in violation of a "gentlemen's agreement of 1923" between Cochran and the Holt county board, by which No. 54 was to be improved as soon as work was let on No. 13.

The O'Neill "political front," the Atkinson delegation declared, was composed of leading republican workers of Holt county, the central commission chairman, district judge and county attorney.

The Atkinson crowd of 50 was led by J. J. Stilson, mayor, and Frank J. Brady, former Izaak Walton league president.

Though the governor was not here to meet them, the delegation met with Engineer Cochran and will see the former at Niobrara next week, they said.

Until then, the situation remains in status quo.—Omaha Bee-News.

In The Fall The Young Man's Fancy Turns to Thoughts of Suits

ALL BET there isn't a man in Plattsmouth who isn't thinking these days about a new suit he needs. We've anticipated these thoughts months ago, and have assembled an assortment of clothing you'll have to move some to beat. . . . There may be more shrewd clothing buyers and more intelligent dopsters in the business game, but the pudding falls flat in the eating if not properly made—and the bottom drops out of boastful statements as concerns value at low prices when once you take a careful slant at this well balanced suit stock for fall.

We ask you to try to beat these suits at— $22.50 Philip Thierolf VALUE GIVING CLOTHING

PLAN NOTABLE WORK The Choral Union recently established in this city and which at the last meeting had some forty present, is planning on participating in a great presentation that will be made of the wonderful and probably the best known of the musical compositions of Handel, "The Messiah."

Director Logan, who is assisting in the choral work, hopes to have at least eighty enrolled here for the choral union and who will participate with organizations at Omaha, Fremont, Missouri Valley, Council Bluffs and Blair in giving this great oratorio.

"The Messiah," the best known of the oratorios of Handel, was composed in the year 1741 in twenty-four days from August 22nd to September 14th. It was first performed at a concert given at Dublin, Ireland, on April 13, 1742, Handel conducting the performance in person.

The success of the oratorio from the start was marked and it was acclaimed one of the greatest of the musical compositions of the world. The oratorio was first presented at London on March 23, 1743, and has since been one of the most famous musical compositions of the world.

When "The Messiah" is offered at Omaha it is hoped to have from 800 to 1,000 voices in the performance and special stage facilities will be made to permit the assembly of this large group of singers on the auditorium stage.

TRAIN IS DELAYED

From Friday's Daily— A derailment of several cars in a Burlington freight train between Omaha and South Omaha, this morning blocked the Omaha-Lincoln line of the road and delayed eastbound passenger train No. 6 due here at 7:15 a. m. for several hours. The blocking of the tracks at the outskirts of Omaha made necessary the sending of the train into Omaha by way of Ashland and Oreadpolis and which caused the delay to the train.

WILL STAGE BOXING BOUT

The hot weather having apparently taken flight, or at least the more intense summery weather, the Eagles lodge of this city is to revive their boxing program and plan another great card for on or near September 28th.

This will be very pleasing news to the fast fans of this section as the two previous cards that were arranged by the Eagles were as fast and furious as could be wished for and gave the patrons a real treat for their money.

The card is not arranged as yet and the committee have a good string of fighters in line that will probably be matched up for the boxing carnival and among these will be Joe Roper, who showed so well on the two previous cards.

George Schneider has suffered from an injured hand for the greater part of the time since his last bout and probably will be unable to participate in this card. George was the winner over Mickey Durane at the last bout of the Eagles and gave the Omaha boxer a good trimming.

Definite announcement of the participants in the boxing carnival will probably be ready during the coming week and permit the fans to prepare to attend another of the good Eagle fight shows at the American Legion building.
