HOLD FINE MEETING

The W. C. T. U. met with Mrs. Fred Morgan on Monday afternoon. An unusually large number was present to hear the program for the afternoon.

The item of greatest interest was the report of the County Convention of W. C. T. U. at Eagle. This was given by Mrs. Boynton and supplemented by many of the members who were enthusiastic about the helpful inspiration received in every line of work. Each member who was present at the convention gave special incidents that had appealed to her.

Mrs. Robert Troop was called upon to give the members and guests the pleasure of the reading she gave at the County Convention. The reading was entitled "The Soul of the Victim" and Mrs. Troop was at her best in its delivery.

Many interesting articles were read on the work being done at national, state and county conventions. At the close of the session, refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Fred Morgan.

Notice 4-H Folks.

Last spring we set our goal for 500 4-H club members and went over the top with 23 to the good. Now, if club work is worth starting let's prove that it is worth while all the way through by finishing 100 per cent. Make out your final report and give it to your local leaders at once so that he in turn may make out his club summary and turn all of them in to this office. Please see that your report is in and you will have done your part in helping the county finish 100 per cent.

Many Study Clubs Enrolled.

One hundred twenty-one women's clubs of Nebraska had enrolled by October 1 in the home economics study club project encouraged by the extension service of the agricultural college. A few more clubs will still enroll this year. The ladies choose one of four different series of topics to study during the year. They receive circulars about the monthly topics, study them, and discuss them in their monthly meetings.

Series No. 9 is the new one for this year. The topics are as follows: Children Rights, Can the Homemaker Feel 100% Fit? The Estate of the Children in the Country of Bookland, Spending the Homemaker's Hour, Let's We Forget (Etiquette), The Little Child's Relation to Society, Property Rights of Nebraska Women, Your Country Home—An Appreciation, Your Daughters Future, Control Methods for Household Pests.

Series 6, 7, 8, each contain other interesting topics. The material is particularly useful to clubs who wish to have some well organized plans and something educational to talk about in their meetings.

First Hatcherymen Meet Scheduled.

Nebraska hatcherymen will meet Oct. 18th at the agricultural college in Lincoln for the first conference they have ever had at the college. They want to talk over such questions as when to start hatching, how to handle surplus and shortages, uniformity of prices, and business methods, etc. The meeting was suggested at the recent school for poultry improvement association inspectors. Several hatcherymen attended the meeting and got together on the idea of a special meeting for their own sake.

Earle Smiley of Seward, H. L. Wolz of Battle Creek, H. H. Lampert of Wahoo, J. A. Lothrop of Crete, and E. C. Hill of Lincoln were named as a committee to invite in the hatchery operators of the state and to plan the program for the one day session.

Offer Project to Commercial Poultrymen.

Nebraska poultrymen with more than 500 hens in their flocks are invised this fall to co-operate with the county extension agent and the agricultural college in Lincoln in a new record keeping project. It is called the Commercial Plock Project.

Report blanks and instructions will be furnished, free of charge, by the extension service of the agricultural college. The poultrymen will be asked to keep track of egg production, income from eggs, and chickens, and expenses for feed, equipment, etc. He will turn in a monthly report to the county agent. A copy of this report will be sent to the agricultural college where it will be summarized.

At the end of the year the monthly reports will be analyzed and a real study made of each poultryman's business. Individual figures will not be published or furnished to anyone but the poultrymen who kept them.

Corn Yield Contest.

D. L. Cross of the agricultural college will be in the county October 14-15-16, working with the county agent in checking the Corn Yield Contest.

Those chartered in this contest are Harry Knabe, Edwin Schoemaker, A. A. McReynolds, Lee Farris, R. F. Farris, Virgil Sudduth, Eugene Day, W. T. Fager, Phillip Lepert, Nelson Berger, Henry Meierjurgens & Sons, Ed. Schafer, C. Nickols, Elmer D. Campbell, DeForest L. Brown and Robert Meyer.

Poultry Meetings.

Two meetings on poultry house construction were held last week, one at Ivan Balfour's at Union, the other at C. L. Wiles at Plattsmouth.

There were 16 persons present at the meeting at Balfours. Mr. Claybaugh of the college of agriculture, explained the remodeling of Mr. Balfour's hen house, emphasizing plenty of light, ventilation, sanitation and feed hoppers for winter egg production.

The weather conditions being very unfavorable, there were only 6 present at the meeting at Mr. Wiles. However there will be another meeting and building bee here at his place in the near future. Elmer D. Wainwright, County Extension Agent, J. H. Baldwin, Asst. County, Ext. Agent.

Rain and Heavy Travel is Making Roads Very Soft

Detour Near Nehawka Quite Soft and Number of Cars in Ditches—Road Bad to the North

From Wednesday's Daily—
The rain of the past twenty-four hours combined with the heavy travel on the newly graded roads have made the condition of the highways for travel far from pleasant altho the conditions are nothing compared with the road conditions of the past years.

On the new detour from this city to Nehawka there are many stretches of newly graded roads that have been rendered soft by the rain and the heavy truck travel that passes over the road and as the result a large number of cars and trucks were reported in the ditches along the detour from this city south.

Near the Murdock farm out of Nehawka several miles a large truck loaded with merchandise and headed south, narrowly escaped running off one of the bridges and did land in a small ditch just off the bridge and which held them up for several hours.

The travelers from this city to Omaha who followed the regular detour to the west of this city had little difficulty in getting through and a number made the trip without chains, but those who tried to make the trip via the old road along the Platte bottom which was formerly used before the new highway was constructed, found themselves up against it. The Cotner bus from Omaha was stuck in the mud and gumbo along the road and was there for a long time before released and with the result that the service was badly interfered with.
