Murray Robber Waives Preliminary Hearing

Thomas Martin Taken to Omaha Today to Be Looked Over by Detective Bureau There

From Tuesday's Daily— This morning in the county court before Judge A. H. Duxbury, Thomas Martin, who was captured by Sheriff Bert Reed and party at Murray on early Monday morning while Martin and a companion was robbing the Lancaster store, was arraigned on the charges filed by County Attorney W. G. Keck charging breaking and entering.

The prisoner waived the preliminary hearing in the county court and will plead in the district court to the charges preferred against him by the state. The bond in the case was fixed by the court at $2,000, and until such time as this is supplied the prisoner will remain in the custody of Sheriff Reed until the trial of the case.

Following the preliminary hearing at the court here Martin was taken to Omaha where he will be questioned by the detective bureau in that city to learn if possible the other members of the gang who were in the connection of what is thought by the authorities to be the workings of an organized gang.

Stock Plays at Parmele Thru-Out Winter

Hazel McOwen Company to Be Here Every Other Monday Night at Popular Prices.

The Hazel McOwen Stock Co. will be with us this winter at the Parmele theatre, appearing there every other week on Monday nights, starting Oct. 21, and at each appearance will present a complete change of program including the latest comedies and dramas, intermingled with high class vaudeville between acts and a novelty presentation which will be presented by their 5-piece orchestra which will include the latest in music—song hits and snappy dances by members of the company. It is with relief that we look to the future as far as entertainment is concerned as the calibre of this company needs no introduction so far as their ability and morals are concerned. Always composed of ladies and gentlemen presenting clean standard plays has won them the assurance of everyone who goes to see them perform. Mr. Ralph Moody, the general manager of this clever company has organized 4 companies such as we will have, and it is his idea to have each company play the different towns at some period during the winter season, so that new faces and new ideas will be introduced from time to time. The company possesses some clever talent which by the way, is all new to this territory and the company manager, Mr. Elmo Matze and the ingenue of the company, Miss Helen Hastings, are the only faces that the people will see that have appeared here before. Just come out the opening night and be convinced that a bright and happy winter of high class amusement is in store for you. The opening play, "The IT Girl," is from the pen of E. L. Paul, and he has written a play of the Clara Bow type that is filled with appealing situations and an abundance of comedy that makes it a suitable vehicle for the opening performance.

Mr. Moody mentions the fact that he wishes everyone to get acquainted with the different members of his company because he knows each member from previous engagements in the past and guarantees that they are all up to the Hazel McOwen standard of "regular folks." Don't forget the opening date Oct. 21 and don't forget to BE THERE. 016-2td-11w

4-H Clothing Clubs. Lessons and suggestions for clothing club members are being revised by Miss Allegra Wilkens, assistant extension agent of 4-H clubs. The new material will be ready for the spring clubs in 1930.

The new material will be revised into three series of lessons, one for first, one for second and the other for third year clothing clubs. In the first year project the girls will make a holder, laundry bag, kitchen apron, a slip and a house dress. Second year members will embroider a towel, make a sleeveless dress, a school dress, a child's garment and make a study of underwear. During the third year the members will study care of clothing, make a smock and an afternoon dress, remake one piece of clothing and assemble a complete outfit for themselves. In all the lessons special emphasis will be given to the fitting, color, and selection of material.

'Toothpicks' Comes to Life. Why "Toothpicks" is dumb in school and not one of the gang on the playground is thoroughly explained in a new circular about hot lunch clubs in Nebraska schools. Toothpicks happens to be the skinniest boy in school. His lunch pail is filled with thick slices of white bread without enough butter to stick them together in a sandwich. Sometimes he has a piece of soggy pie or a chunk of rich cake. He never eats fruit, drinks milk, or eats any vegetables. When the rest of the gang get all pepped up over having a hot lunch club, Toothpicks shows enough life to join. Without any encouragement from his parents, he sticks to the club work and finally begins to fatten up and take an interest in every thing about him.

A new kind of hot lunch club has been started this year. In it the boys and girls bring the food for the farm part of their meal to school each morning in a pint jar. They heat the jars in water on the school stove. In the old form of club the children took turns bringing the foods from home and preparing the lunches before noon at school.

Ten Cent Bonus Being Paid. The packers are again paying the ten cent premium on tattooed hogs. The farm bureau wishes to encourage persons shipping hogs to make the necessary arrangements for getting this bonus. Blanks can be secured at any of the banks in the county at the farm bureau office.

Federal Farm Board. Nebraska farmers and business men are invited by the college of agriculture and the Farmers Elevator Association of Nebraska to hear an explanation of what the Federal Farm Board hopes to do for farmers in this section of the country. The meeting will be held at the college Friday, October 18.

W. J. Kuhrt, a representative of the Federal Farm Board, will be the principal speaker of the day. Representatives of the farm organizations and the college of agriculture will probably be on the same program. Mr. Kuhrt has worked for several years with the Bureau of Agricultural Economics at Washington with the problems of cooperative elevators and the cooperative marketing of grain. He has been one of the chief advisors of the Federal Farm Board during the last few months. It is said that he understands the problems of the cooperative grain marketing as well as any other man in the entire country.—D. H. Walmscott, Co. Ext. Agent, J. H. Baldwin, Asst. Co. Ext. Agent.

DEATH OF LITTLE CHILD

From Tuesday's Daily— This morning at 4 o'clock at the St. Catherine's hospital at Omaha occurred the death of Allen Martin Byers, aged 8 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Byers, former residents of this city. The little boy was taken ill Friday and hurried to the hospital where it was found that he was suffering from an attack of appendicitis of a very severe type and despite all that medical skill could do the child was so much affected by the bursted appendix and passed away this morning.

The Sattler ambulance brought the little one here today where a body was taken to the funeral home at Fourth and Maine street and where the funeral services will be held on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 with the interment at the Oak Hill cemetery. The many friends of the family in this city will join in their sympathy to the bereaved parents and two sisters, Edith and Winifred, who have lost their loved one.

Mrs. Byers will be remembered here as Miss Lena Martens and is a sister of Mrs. Charles Engelkemeier of this city.

TELEPHONE AHEAD OF THE TIME

No industry is called upon to respond more quickly to the progress and changes made in the world than the telephone. It not only gives the service required today; it must be years ahead of the time in preparing for the future.

The great telephone achievements of recent years, such as international long distance and the general improvement in facilities throughout the world, have played an inestimably important part in the development of modern civilization.

Mynard-Lewiston Communities Have Meeting

Peppy Mynard Club Entertains Their Neighbors at Lewiston with a Fine Program.

In times past some very good programs have been given at Lewiston Community Center, but none excelled the one Mynard gave at Lewiston some weeks ago.

The roads were bad, but Mynard came and gave a splendid program to a well filled house and an appreciative audience. The program was in the hands of their president, Mr. Sack. The entertainment was mostly music under the direction of Mrs. Roy Cole. Mrs. Sherman Cole and her son gave a number of violin selections. Mrs. Elbert Wiles and Mrs. Roy Cole gave a beautiful duet number, and Raymond Cook was heard in a fine vocal solo.

Mrs. Barnard gave a talk on how they organized Mynard Community club and some of their ups and downs and as well as some of their secrets of success. Mrs. Barnard especially stressed this point: She said "When the majority votes to do or not to do a certain thing, the rest helps to put that across even if we think some other way might be better," and that is a worthwhile practice for any community.

It was a pleasant event, and Mrs. Barnard composed this poem and dedicated it to Lewiston homes and all homes:

'Tis fine to live by the side of the road And be a friend to man, 'Tis finer, methinks, to get out from home And do what'er you can To brighten up, a dark old world And cheer up doubting hearts, That you meet where'er you go, Be it farms or city marts.

'Tis fine to have a lot of friends, To cheer you when you're blue, When grief and doubt and trouble come, They'll show you, they are true. But you will never find these friends Behind a closed door, You must get out—get to know folks, So they may love you more.

And if you're willing to work and play With your neighbors in this short life, If you do your share with a smiling face, Without bickering, hatred, or strife, When you come to the end your earthly path, And you look back o'er the years, You will feel my friend, life has been worth while, Despite your trials and tears.

If on the other hand you seek To pile up land and pelf, And travel a lone, hard-working road, Thinking only of yourself, How will you feel at the end of the way, As you stand in the sunset's glow, When your hair is white and your eyes are dim And your step is heavy and slow?

Ah, friend, I fear you will have regrets And think your days ill-spent, Then you passed in grubbing and grabbing, and fear That you might miss a cent, So let us gather in a common home, 'Mid laughter and smiles and cheer, And make the most of these happy times, For we've only a short while here.

Written by Gertrude V. C. Barnard, especially for the program given by the Mynard Community club at Lewiston and dedicated to the community homes of the nation.

State Sheriff Here to Look Over Prisoner Finger Prints Taken of Tom Martin. Captured at Murray on Monday Evening. From Wednesday's Daily— Last evening State Sheriff W. C. Condit and Deputy Milton Gates, motored down from Lincoln to look over Thomas Martin, captured robber, who has been confined in jail here since early Monday morning when he was arrested while robbing the Earl Lancaster store at Murray. It is the opinion of the authorities that this job is the work of an organized gang of store robbers who have operated over the state and in the effort to place some identification of Martin with other crimes of a similar nature the state sheriff came here. The prisoner was interviewed by State Sheriff Condit and his deputy but he has defiantly refused to make any statement other than that which he made at Murray at the time that he was placed under arrest by the Cass county authorities and will be held in the county jail until he has been grilled several times to try and secure information as to any associates or aids in the robbery. Martin has maintained a dogged silence and all efforts to induce him to talk have been unsuccessful. State Sheriff Condit and Deputy Gates took finger prints of the prisoner which will be compared with those on file at the state sheriff's office to learn if possible if this man has had previous crime history as his talk and manner indicates a familiarity with the prison argot which is not as a rule possessed by the ordinary man. FIND MISSING GIRL From Wednesday's Daily— Deputy Sheriff W. R. Young was at Omaha and Fort Crook where he was called to discover if possible any trace of Lucille Price, a fourteen year old girl of this city, who had been missing since Sunday from her home and for whom the parents as well as the authorities had been searching. The investigation of Mr. Young disclosed that the girl had gone to South Omaha where she had found yesterday afternoon at the Palace hotel where she has been staying since Sunday. Mr. Young had gained the knowledge that the young girl had been acquainted with one of the soldiers at Fort Crook named Fred Dicks and who was able to give the officers a trace as to the whereabouts of the girl and which led to her being located. The girl and Dicks had walked from Plattsmouth to the Fort Crook car line Sunday evening and deciding not to return home the girl had gone to the hotel and remained while Dicks returned to his duties at the army post. After a conference with the deputy and the father of the girl she decided to return here despite her first desire to remain in the city. Phone your news to the Journal
