

Nehawka Department!

Prepared in the interests of the People of Nehawka and Surrounding Vicinity Especially for the Journal Readers.

R. D. Taylor was looking after some business matters in Omaha for the day on last Tuesday and after conducting the business which called him there brought home a load of feed for the St. John's Milling company.

When other business is not pressing R. D. Taylor has been assisting in the picking of corn for his friend, Melvin Sturm.

Jackie and Andie, two sons of John O. Yelser and wife of Omaha were spending the last week end at the home of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Sturm, they coming down during the over Sunday vacation of school.

With the new radio which Winfield Scott Norris has recently purchased and by the way an excellent one, leaves Henry M. Pollard at a loss for as Mr. Pollard has been coming down town and telling Mr. Norris what happened last night before the papers came, and which pleasure is now lost as Mr. Norris now knows just the status of things in America and some from across as soon as Mr. Pollard. Now they are both doing some thinking.

George A. Stites of Union was a visitor in Nehawka for a short time on Tuesday of this week and while in town was a caller on his friend, J. Stewart Rough, as they are both in the same line.

Peter Opp, who is well past the four score mark, was a visitor in Omaha for the week, where he is the guest of his daughter, Mrs. W. T. Black, and where he is celebrating the Diamond Jubilee of the State of Nebraska.

Mrs. John Opp and son, Gerald, were spending a few days in Omaha visiting with friends and relatives and also were enjoying the great parade of Tuesday, commemorating the passage of some seventy-five very successful years of the history of Nebraska.

Mrs. Emory Kelberg was quite poorly for a number of days last week but is reported as being much better at this time, and with hopes of being entirely well in a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Tucker were over to Omaha on last Tuesday, they driving over in the afternoon, and mingled two causes, in their trip, one was business for they made purchases for the store and also arrived in time to see the Diamond Jubilee parade which was sure a good one.

Grover Hoback was a visitor in Nebraska City on last Tuesday, he driving down in the Sheldon truck for some goods for the store.

Everett Lancaster who has been conducting a stand near the Nehawka schools has rented the Sulphin building and moved the stock there and are also conducting a cafe as well, this making another eating place of the city of Nehawka.

J. T. Gardner who is selling nursery stock and at the same time doing landscape gardening, will beautify the home and grounds of J. J. Pollard and wife and will make it beautiful with the planting of trees and shrubbery, was a visitor in Plattsmouth on last Saturday.

Fred Ahrens who has been farming in the northwestern portion of the state, being located near Crawford, has been visiting here for the past week, and will depart for his home in the northwest the latter portion of this week.

Mrs. John Burns of Nebraska City was a visitor for over last Sunday and Monday with her friend, Mrs. J. G. Wunderlich, returning home on Tuesday morning.

On last Tuesday D. C. West of the Nehawka bank was called to Plattsmouth to look after some business matters.

On Wednesday and Thursday of this week Walter J. Wunderlich and wife were attending the state convention of bankers at Omaha, and on Thursday afternoon and evening, Mr. D. C. West also was in attendance.

Soaked Him Hard.

Last Tuesday, Frank Trotter, who is a truckman, hauling stock and merchandise all over the country, was called to take a load of hogs, for a client and took them to Nebraska City. Frank has had a very friendly feeling for the hustling town of Otoe county, and has taken hogs there many a trip, to the benefit of the town. This time he unloaded his hogs, and started for home, and having gotten up early, was not feeling the very freshest, and as he was passing a drug store in the business portion of the town, dropped off and ran into the store and procured a Bromo Selzer, and as he rushed back to his truck standing in front of the store, was intercepted by a copper, and toted off to the police court, where they assessed Frank, a fine and costs amounting to six dollars. This may be their style, but it has not made Frank feel any more friendly towards the city, and probably he will go to Omaha just as often as possible with stock in the future.

Tobacco, Not Cavaca.

Thomas Pitman of Avoca, who has seen many years in that town and knows well the quality of the soil, has been growing tobacco, and knows just the kind of soil to make the strongest of the weed, as well as where to plant for mildness. He has been growing some of the tobaccos, of his own time, and when Henry M. Pollard was visiting with his son in Avoca, he was induced to try some of the extra strong smoking, and brought some home which he shared with J. G. Wunderlich. Now we do not know anything about tobacco, but you can find expert advice if you will go to either Henry or John.

Celebrated Their Birthdays.

While they are not twins, Daniel Anderson and Adolph J. Ross, who are relatives, were born on the same day, November 4th, and it has been the practice of their friends and relatives to celebrate the occasion alternately at their homes. This time it came at the home of Mr. Ross, and a large number of very jovial friends made the welkin ring, there on last Monday night until a late hour, and all had a fine time. We are not going to tell how old Dan is, but will say he is just the same age as Adolph.

Helped Celebrate.

Mrs. W. O. Troop and the children, George, Thomas and Lois, were over to Omaha on last Tuesday where they went to assist in properly celebrating the Diamond birthday of Nebraska, and to enjoy the excellent parade which the committee in charge of the celebration were putting on. The historical importance of the occasion was well worth the trip and trouble in attending.

Bought Some Cattle.

W. O. Troop and son, Robert Troop, were over to Fremont on last Saturday and were accompanied by Wm. Gorder, where they were looking over the feeders which were offered for sale. There were some good feeders, and at a very fair price, and Messrs. Troop and Troop purchased two car loads, which they had shipped to Myrard and from there taken to the feeding lots where Robert Troop resides, to be fattened and returned to the market.

Will Build a Boat.

Sandy and Dusty, grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Sturm, and sons of Mr. and Mrs. Justin Sturm of Chicago, have made request by a letter which they recently wrote to their grandfather, A. P. Sturm, asking him to manufacture a boat, they giving him the dimensions, which they by careful calculation, found would be large enough for the two of them to ride in, and specified that it should be a sail boat. This made Grandfather scratch his head and think, for he had not been in the marine service as he has always been counted a Land Lubber, but he is to tackle the job nevertheless. Mr. Sturm says he knows that the matter will not end there, for he also has two grandsons about the same age and size in Omaha, who will have to be supplied when he begins the first contract.

Work Going Forward.

The work of the Methodist church building which has been in progress for some time past, is going forward very satisfactorily at this time and all of the appointments are being met with promptness, as the committee now has sufficient funds in sight for the entire completion of the improvements on the building, which is very satisfactory to the committee and the church.

Doing Some Building Now.

Paul Schlichtemeier, who has been employed in Lincoln for the most part of the late summer and fall, was home for a number of days during the past and this week, was building some and making some improvements at the house where the hired help is living. Mr. Schlichtemeier has been engaged in selling thrift investments, and has found it a very good business.

UNION MEN LOCKED OUT

Chicago—The first nighters of the civic opera season who waited until Monday to pluck their swallowtails from the moth balls and found a spot on the waistcoat were in a pickle. The cleaners and dyers have shut down for the week.

Ignoring the prospect of a peak in cleaning and pressing business during the gala opening week of the civic opera, 110 plants affiliated with the Master Cleaners and Dyers association locked their doors Monday against 2,300 union workers. But they promised to reopen in a week to nonunion labor.

Fifty percent of the employees have signified their willingness to quit the Cleaners, Dyers and Pressers union, C. L. Patterson, executive secretary of the Employers association, announced.

He said the plants would reopen next Monday, "and the men and women who return to work will be protected." The union is losing $15,000 a day, Patterson said, and the plants are losing $135,000. He explained that the fight is not with union labor but with Ben Abrams, who dominates the union and who has projected a $1,000,000 cleaning plant to be operated by the union. Patterson said he would confer with the federal district attorney concerning possible government action against the union for violation of the Sherman antitrust act thru restraint of trade.

ARMY REPORTS REQUESTED

Washington—Representative Chairbour, republican, California, chairman of the house war department appropriations subcommittee, announced Saturday he had requested the war department to furnish him with the report of the army general staff upon President Hoover's military economy program to be utilized by his subcommittee which starts consideration of that department's supply bill on Nov. 15.

One of the general staff surveys, he said, was a study on the proposed abandonment of a number of smaller military posts in the nation. He said there were a number of posts which were not of strategic value and could be abandoned without injuring the national defense.

He also said he had been in formed that the war department is contemplating suspension of construction work authorized under the $100,000,000 military building act at a number of posts which may be given up as a result of the economy survey.

Representative McSwain, democrat, South Carolina, ranking minority member of the house military committee, said he favored the proposal to abandon military posts which do not contribute to the national defense program.

GAIN TWO BILLION IN SPECULATION

Washington, Nov. 4.—Speculation may be "bad business" for the ordinary mortal and the despair of economists, but it accounted for nearly $2,000,000,000 of American income in 1927.

Speculation in real estate, stocks and bonds netted $1,812,395,000 in 1927 to that group of American public which pays income tax returns, the bureau of internal revenue announced Monday in its annual analysis of income tax statistics.

It represented 6.92 per cent of the gross income of individuals of $26,208,000,000.

Wages and salaries made up $10,218,449,000 of the total; business, $3,287,000,000; partnerships, $1,755,000,000; and $1,081,000,000 capital net gain from assets held more than two years.

The speculative gains reported in income tax returns filed in 1929 based on the profits of 1928, big year in the stock market, undoubtedly will show a tremendous jump over 1927, since only in the last few months of that year did speculative activities gain heavy momentum.

Move to Hurry Up the Tariff Work Fails

Washington—The first definite move to hasten action on the tariff bill ended in failure Tuesday in the senate and a subsequent proposal to abandon the measure until the regular session opening in December was allowed to lie on the table.

Finding the measure still making little headway despite the urgings for quicker action from President Hoover and senate party leaders, Chairman Smoot of the finance committee who is steering the bill for the administration republicans, asked that beginning Wednesday and for the remainder of the week debate be confined to the tariff and nothing else.

Altho Smoot allowed a half hour each in the morning and afternoon for introduction of other business the proposal met the objection of Senator Dill of Washington, who said he could not consent to interfering with the age old custom of permitting free and open discussion in the senate.

Plugging to Continue. Senator Walsh of Montana, acting democratic leader, endeavored in vain to induce the Washington senator to reconsider. Then, after a round of debate in which Senator Norris appealed to senators to stop talking about procedure and "get along with the bill," Senator Hlease of South Carolina, offered a resolution to postpone further consideration of the measure until the day following disposition of the Vore case in the regular session.

The resolution created no discussion on the floor and republican leaders expressed the view afterward that the senate would continue plugging away with the bill without a respite between the special and December sessions.

Senator Jones of Washington, acting republican leader, said he did not believe that under the present procedure the resolution could be taken up except by a motion to recommend the bill.

Smoot's Plea Vigorous. Smoot made a vigorous plea for agreement to his unanimous consent request. "I beg the senators to let this bill pass in some form," he asserted, after pointing out that only four and a half hours had been spent on the bill since the middle of last week. The Utah conceded the coalition had enough votes to defeat it. However, he urged the speeding of the bill to conference, saying then "the senate can decide whether it wants the bill or not."

Senators Walsh and Norris had no objection to the agreement being entered into but did oppose undue haste, declaring the debate on the pending measure had been more to the point than in a tariff bill in history.

Once the debate turned again to rates the senate was treated to as wide a split in party and factional groups as has taken place since schism in the union for violation of the Sherman antitrust act thru restraint of trade.

Debate to Be Limited. By a vote of forty to thirty-five the senate rejected a committee proposal to cut to $1.50 a ton the existing rate of $4 a ton on crude produced in the southeastern states and used in the manufacture of paper and pottery. A proposal by Senator Fletcher of Florida, to raise the rate to $3.75 lost without a roll call. A little later the senate rejected, forty-four to twenty-seven, an amendment by Senator Pittman, democrat, Nevada, to retain the existing rate of $4 a ton on crude silica, a raw material used primarily in the manufacture of glass, pottery and paints. The committee amendment placing it on the free list was adopted.—State Journal.

GRANGE WILL HEAR M'KELVIE

Washington, Nov. 3.—Samuel R. McKelvie, former governor of Nebraska, and Charles S. Wilson of New York, members of the federal farm board, will tell farmers of United States steps to alleviate the financial troubles of the agriculturalist, when the National Grange holds its annual convention in Seattle Nov. 13-22.

The export-debenture plan of farm relief, recently adopted by the senate as a part of the tariff bill at the request of the Grange, is expected to be one of the outstanding subjects for discussion.

Among the subjects to be considered are transportation, waterways, waterpowers, taxation, prohibition enforcement, tariff, land policies, reforestation, utilization of Muscle Shoals, radio control and federal farm loans.

Biennial election of officers will be made late in the sessions.
