'Observe Armistice,' Gov. Weaver Urges Nebraska

Describes Day of 11 Years Ago as Marking Opening of New Epoch in History.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 8.—Picturing November 11, 1918, as an everlasting milestone in the history of the world, Governor Weaver today called upon Nebraskans to take part in an observance Monday as a legal holiday commemorating the closing of the great war.

His official proclamation describes the event as one which marks the beginning and the ending of an epoch.

The proclamation, in part: "Armistice day marks the end of an epoch which halted militarism and which furnished indisputable proof that increasing armaments imperil world peace and civilization. "Must Not Happen Again."

"It marks the beginning of an epoch which will exalt peace rather than war and which will proclaim that the future peace of the world can be best maintained by mutual understanding between the nations and a just parity as to minimum armaments for necessary defense of governments, their people and their commerce."

Repeating the words of President Harding at the bier of the unknown soldier, Governor Weaver declared, "It must not happen again."

Urges Thought of Rehabilitation.

America in its conflicts, he went on, has never followed an imperialistic flag, nor sought the subjugation of alien races. "We have fought only for our independence, for the preservation of the union, for the freedom of the seas, in aid of oppressed peoples, and recognized principles of international law," he asserted.

Admiring his citizens to give grateful remembrance to its citizen soldiers, Governor Weaver urged Nebraskans to be ever mindful of the task of rehabilitation.

"America," he added, "by adhering to a sound policy of reasonable preparedness and a just parity, may advance the cause of world peace which our citizen soldiers fought for."—World-Herald.

COUNTY AUDITS APPROVED

Franklin, Neb.—A report of the audit of accounts of county offices except that of county treasurer has been approved by the county commissioners. The audit covered the records of County Clerk Harrington, County Judge Long, County Superintendent Humphreys and Clerk of District Court Spence, from Jan. 1, 1926, to Dec. 31, 1928. The records were approved and recommendations made in several cases that the officers file claims for fees due them from the county.

The books of the late Clifford Garrett, sheriff, who was killed while driving in the auto races here Sept. 23, showed a discrepancy of $2,413.35. This is alleged to have come about thru a misunderstanding that certain fees belong to the office instead of the county and were not turned in for that reason.

This report shows the accounts of all offices audited to be in good condition. The only records not reported upon are those of the county treasurer and this report is being withheld until additional investigation is made into past records.

County Jail is Free of Outstate Law Breakers

Sheriff Bert Reed has Last of His Unwelcome Guests Taken Away Last Evening

From Saturday's Daily— Sheriff Bert Reed is feeling much more restful today as he has been relieved of the last of the outstate prisoners that were held here for several days to await the coming of the law officers to return them to the scenes of their alleged crimes. These men have been confined in cells for the past few days since the attempt to dig out of the jail and escape and in which these prisoners have been thought to be the prime movers.

The last of the prisoners to be taken away were Lee Jetter and Charles Webb, both being returned to Stillwater, Oklahoma, by Sheriff Bradley of Payne county. Webb is to face a charge of rape and Jetter of selling mortgaged property and both men were arrested in Cass county while engaged in corn shucking and have been held here for the coming of the Oklahoma sheriff.

Hawes Says Dry Law Confessed Failure

Missouri Senator Draws That Conclusion from Effort to Make Buyer a Violator.

Washington—The effort to brand liquor purchasers criminals was denounced Thursday night by Senator Harry Hawes as "a frank confession that prohibition under the present law has measurably failed."

The Missouri democrat's vitriolic address was in answer to one in defense of the proposed amendment last week by Senator Sheppard, Texas, its sponsor, who wrote the prohibition amendment. A wet, Hawes, attacked the Volstead act and said because of its partial failure, "we are now asked to include many millions of our people in a new criminal class, and to add to the powers and immunity of the bootlegger by closing the months of his customers under the threat of five years' servitude in the penitentiary and a $10,000 fine for the purchase of beverage that contains more than one-half of 1 per cent of alcohol."

"This amendment would impede law enforcement and promote lawlessness," he asserted the Missouri. "It would give additional security to the bootlegger, provide a new field for the blackmailer, and create an enlarged 'gangland.'"

He maintained that advocates of the Sheppard amendment should ask that it be made a constitutional amendment thru a referendum, and predicted "strange results" in event such a step were taken. He said bootleggers would favor the amendment "as they did in the recent Nova Scotia election."

"Nova Scotia is the last of the big Canadian provinces to change from 'dry' to 'wet,'" the Senator continued. "For the temperance cause there were 61,672 votes, and against it 56,924. For government control, however, there was the significant vote of 89,757; against 41,180."

Noting that the late Samuel Gompers and William Green, former and present leaders of the American Federation of Labor, had asked modification of the Volstead act, Hawes emphasized they desired the claim that labor's prosperity was due to the Volstead act, and asked: "If union labor, which is nearly all concentrated in the big cities, which are wet in sentiment, has attracted prosperity, how about the impoverished farmer in the 'dry' territory, who has the sympathy of the nation and for whose assistance we have called a special session of congress?"

In answer he said the Volstead act did not account for economic conditions. He added it had not prevented the increase in drunkenness and "did increase the underworld by adding to 'gangland' the bootlegger."—State Journal.

LABOR CHANGE PROPOSED

San Francisco—Railroad workers of the country are being asked to vote on the "elastic day" plan for solution of the unemployment problem, the Northwestern Pacific railway announced Thursday. Ballots on the plan already have been given Northwestern Pacific employees and it was said similar action would be taken by every railroad in the country.

Labor leaders here expressed objection to the move as an attempt of the railroads to return to the ten hour day, and announced they would make formal protest later.

The railroad announcement said the plan was intended to combat unemployment. In the summer, it was explained, the rush of work necessitates employment of extra men who are laid off in the winter. Under the elastic day plan, no more men would be employed during the rush season but the force would work longer hours. In winter the hours would be shortened.

It was added that the problem of overtime pay had not been taken up, but that a committee of the Association of Railway executives would study the results of the proposed national ballot and send all railroads its recommendation on the length of working hours.

C. F. Grow, Pacific coast representative of the International Association of Machinists, said the plan was in conflict with the established eight hour day.

Mitchell Urges $6,500,000 Prison Expansion Plan

Attorney-General Points to Need for Room—Wants Prisoners to Work

Washington—A $6,500,000 construction program to care for federal prisoners, swollen in number by narcotic and prohibition violators, was proposed by William D. Mitchell, United States Attorney-General, in a radio address over the National Broadcasting System.

"We need first a new federal penitentiary with a capacity of 1200 to located in the north Atlantic states," he said. "Second, a new industrial reformatory similar to Chillicothe to serve the territory west of the Mississippi River, with a capacity of 100. Third, three federal jails or houses of detention—one in the north central states, one on the Pacific coast, and one in the central South."

"The Federal Government has never provided jails of its own for jail prisoners, but has rented accommodations in state and county jails, and it is not proposed at present to go beyond the construction of the three jails mentioned."

"This construction program will cost about $5,500,000, spread over a five-year period. Approved by the budget, this program awaits only the action of Congress."

Continuing, he said that another vital improvement was to provide employment for the prisoners. Opposition to this, he added, was based on the contention that the products of convict labor would compete with outside business.

"This is a very selfish opposition," he said. "Products of federal prisons are to be used only by the Federal Government, and their quantity is too small to be an important factor in competition with private enterprise."

"The federal prison industries should be diversified so that competition with private enterprise shall not be restricted on a few industries. Beyond that private industry has no justification for opposition to employment of federal prisoners. It costs the taxpayer large sums to house, clothe and feed federal prisoners. Why should thousands of able-bodied men and women in federal prisons not be required by their labor to help support themselves?"

Another need of the prison administration, he said, was a better system of parole on which the department now is working.

A congressional committee visited the various federal prisons of the country last year and reported that they were greatly overcrowded.
