

GREENWOOD

Mrs. Blanche Styles, who has been so poorly for some time past, is reported as being quite a bit better at this time.

Col. Phil L. Hall and the good wife were guests for the day and at dinner at the home of Mr. Hall's mother, Mrs. P. L. Hall, Sr.

Everett Reese, son of Art Reese, has been having a tussle with the measles and is winning out, for he is very much better and getting along alright.

W. E. Pailling and Bert McElwain were over to Lincoln on last Monday, where they were looking after some business and visiting with friends for the day.

Louis Wright and family were guests for the Sunday before New Years at the home of his parents, Aaron Wright and wife, where all enjoyed the occasion very much.

W. G. Renwang, Sr., believing the best results can be had when things are in best condition, had installed a new head on his windmill, so the stock can have plenty of water.

M. E. Petersen had to use a portion of his New Years in making some necessary repairs on the water system at the home, which, as the day was fine was a fine time to make the necessary repairs.

Uncle Samuel Arons, who so faithfully carries the mail between the Burlington station and the Greenwood postoffice, was sick on New Years day and had to have some one else look after the work.

Clyde Newkirk, of the oil station, says business is good and as the season comes for better roads, he is looking for even a better business. Clyde is carefully caring for the business and giving the very best service.

Irvan Schulke was shelling and delivering corn to the Greenwood elevators, the delivering being done by the truck of J. Johanson, which is driven by Eliza Winget, who is sure a rustler, when it comes to hauling corn.

Irvan Conn completed the picking of his corn on New Years day and also shelled the second shelling on that day as well. Irvan knows just how to grow corn and thinks when the price is good is a good time to sell it as well.

The truck lift at the Farmers elevator broke one day last week, with considerable delay and interruption to the business in the matter of unloading the trucks, but everybody being willing to work, the business went along all right.

Myron Coleman, who is located in the west, was a visitor at Denver and also in Chicago for a number of days and on his return to his home stopped in Greenwood for a visit with his sisters, Mesdames E. A. Landon, of Greenwood, and Ella Marshall, of Ashland, and Miss Catherine Coleman, of Greenwood.

Greenwood Transfer Line We do a general business—make trips regularly to Omaha on Monday and Thursday, also to Lincoln Tuesday and Friday. Pick up loads on these trips. Full loads at any time. FRED HOFFMAN.

Celebrated Christmas Sunday At the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Peters, the family celebrated the Christmas event on the Sunday following, and had the entire family with the single exception of a daughter, who resides in California, at home to celebrate the event. There were there for the occasion, E. L. James and family, of Omaha; and Glen Peters, also of Omaha; Baryle Lewis and family of Verdon; Rex Peters and wife, Glen Peters, Norman Peters and Leo Peters and the family. Mr. O. F. Peters and son, Grant Peters, are expecting to depart for a visit in California in the near future.

Will Engage in Business B. A. McElwain, who conducted a jewelry business in Plattsmouth for many years, and who on account of poor health, had to discontinue same and dispose of his business, going to California, where he underwent treatment and an operation or two, has recently returned to Nebraska, and is making his home at Greenwood. Now, with his health in a great measure restored, he will engage in the jewelry repair business here, having secured bench room in the barber shop of Henry Wilkins. Mr. McElwain is a very competent workman and will endeavor to give the very best of service. All who are needing anything in his line, drop in and see Bert.

Will Have Many Layers W. H. Leesley, who has been in the chicken business for many a moon, and who knows the ins and outs of the game from the experience which he has had, has two large pens of chickens, one of the fine laying strain of Leghorns, and a fine one for the business; the other Barred Plymouth Rocks. He is expecting to keep a large force of each kind of fowls from here out. He has something over six hundred of each kind and will make comparative tests as to the matter of which will produce the greatest profit.

Here Sixty-Four Years John J. Mefford, who is past 70 years of age and still hustling, can do a good day's work despite his more than three score years and ten. He came with his parents to Plattsmouth 64 years ago being then a small lad. They rented a piece of land just west of town, near where the country club now have their golf course, and which was almost the life-long home of Captain Isaac Wiles. Here the father, Preston Mefford, with the family farmed for three years, and then the father came to the then undeveloped wilds of western Cass county and took a homestead. The place is located on Highway No. 38, being the property of Roy Comstock. In speaking of the early days in Cass county, John Mefford says that the year the family raised the first crop of corn near Plattsmouth, they snapped the corn, that is pulled it off the stalks with the husks on and cribbed it that way. Eastern people coming along purchased the corn as it was, shucked it and then shelled it by hand, placing it in sacks and loaded it in their prairie schooners, freighting it to California. We would think that a pretty tedious way of preparing and shipping corn.

Will Enlarge Plant Watson Howard, who has been growing chickens for the past many years and who has made a success of the business, and especially in the matter of egg production, has been much interested in the breeding of poultry for both egg production and for the table as well. He was recently selected as president of the Tri-County Poultry association and, having built up a large business in Greenwood in this line, and now has in mind the further enlarging of his facilities for taking care of the business. With the coming of Spring he will build larger and more commodious houses for handling his business. Mr. Howard has heretofore carried a flock of some six hundred layers for the winter, but in the future will carry around a thousand or more layers.

Finis Rotation Pays Well Oscar Swanson, who is more than merely a tiller of the soil, studies conditions as he finds them and when he sees the land needs something to enrich it, he supplies the same. He has been making a practice of turning a portion of his land to clover each year and after having been in clover for a certain time, he turns it back to corn. This year he had a piece of clover ground which produced 70 bushels to the acre, and most of the ground went above sixty, showing that the matter of applying study to soil conditions pays as well as to get out at four o'clock in the morning and hike to the field counts in successful farming. It would seem as though the matter of putting more of the exhausted land to clover for renewal would be practiced.

Seventy-Four Years Young On January 1st, 1856, Albert Ethrege was born in Plattsmouth, where he spent the early years of his life, and when quite a lad came to Greenwood, then a very new country, to make his home. Al has found that this is one of the very best places to live, and has maintained for the greater portion of his life a residence here. He resided for a time in Iowa, where he found the conditions very fine, but longing for the old scenes, he returned to reside in Greenwood. He has a good home here and many fine friends. He celebrated the day very quietly on last Wednesday and received the congratulations of his friends. Al is enjoying good health and able to do a good day's work much more capably than many men a score of years younger than he.

Engaged New Years Eve Mr. and Mrs. E. L. McDonald were over to Omaha on last Tuesday evening, where they were guests of friends for a watch party, which was held and while they were waiting for the year 1929 to drag itself away, they played bridge and stopped when the year 1930 came with its good news and greetings. Mr. and Mrs. McDonald did not get home until quite early in the new year.

Will Engage in Business B. A. McElwain, who conducted a jewelry business in Plattsmouth for many years, and who on account of poor health, had to discontinue same and dispose of his business, going to California, where he underwent treatment and an operation or two, has recently returned to Nebraska, and is making his home at Greenwood. Now, with his health in a great measure restored, he will engage in the jewelry repair business here, having secured bench room in the barber shop of Henry Wilkins. Mr. McElwain is a very competent workman and will endeavor to give the very best of service. All who are needing anything in his line, drop in and see Bert.

Stock Hauling I have a station at Greenwood for Hauling by Truck service. We will give special attention to your needs day or night. Very careful handling of Stock and Goods. Call Phone 40, Greenwood, or Murdock, for best of service. Your patronage appreciated.

Business Men Well Pleased With Condition of Business and Outlook for 1930

The first day of the year representative of the Journal was in Greenwood, and it being a day, to take stock and know where one was made extensive inquiries regarding the conditions of business for the past year, the conditions during the present, the holiday business and the prospects for the coming year, and found all the business men optimistic as to the coming year.

Phil L. Hall, president of the Greenwood State bank, said the bank had enjoyed a most excellent year, and had done fine business with the loans which indicate the pulse of business being reduced and in many instances entirely paid off. Mr. Hall said he was looking for a good business and better conditions during the present year in all lines of business. Mr. E. F. Smith, who was taking stock, said that he had done more business in 1929, than any year since he had opened in the new building since the fire. He was very well satisfied and looked for a very nice increase during the coming year. The firm of Mathews and Peterson, said their business had been very satisfactory and that they looked for a continuance for even better business in 1930. P. A. Sanborn, who sells implements and disposes of lots of that at that, said the future looked very bright in a business way and that with the good crop that business should be good. A. W. Hudson who does a very fine grocery and market business has enjoyed an excellent business during the entire year, growing better all the time and looks for a very good year this year and as he is giving the very best service, it looks like the business would continue to increase. E. L. McDonald, who is a hustler, says that business has continued to increase, and that he is looking for much better business with the coming summer. He says he is kept hustling all the time now, and expects to continue to enjoy a good business.

Much Grain Delivered Here. The two elevators are doing an excellent business. E. A. Landon, manager of the Farmers Elevator company, who had an examiner here a few days ago, said that there was a good profit shown for the year and much of this goes to the stockholders, and with the very fine crop which the farmers have grown will insure good business for the coming year. The Farmers Grain company, who had an examiner here a few days ago, said that there was a good profit shown for the year and much of this goes to the stockholders, and with the very fine crop which the farmers have grown will insure good business for the coming year.
