Old Time Resident of Mills County at Rest

Mrs. Elizabeth Barnard, Mother of Charles Barnard of Mynard Buried at Hillsdale.

Elizabeth Barb was born near Bristol, Virginia, September 4, 1855. She was married to Robert Tandy Barnard at Sedalia, East Tenn., Dec. 3, 1873. To this union were born nine children, four sons and five daughters. The daughters are, Mrs. H. C. Pitsenberger, of Topeka, Kansas; Mrs. W. W. Blackman, of Imogene, Iowa. The sons are John W. Barnard, of Sidney, Nebraska; William F. Barnard, of Glenwood, Iowa; Charles C. Barnard, of Mynard, Nebr., and Urvin L. Barnard, of Sparks, Nevada. She is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Sallie M. Baker, of Concord, Tennessee and twenty-one grand children. Her companion and three daughters preceded her in death.

Mrs. Barnard was a woman of noble character and like her merchant ship, she brought her goods from afar and exhibited them in deeds and acts among those with whom she came in daily contact. She loved righteousness and in early youth united with the Methodist Episcopal church at Sedalia, Tennessee. She lived a consistent life so far as she understood the principles of right living.

She came to Hillsdale, Iowa, 44 years ago, where she has since resided. Mrs. Barnard had been in failing health for some time and after a short illness at the home of her son, Frank, of Glenwood, Iowa, she was released from the cares and turmoils incidental to this life. In the passing of Mrs. Barnard, Hillsdale loses its last pioneer resident, and the church and community, a loyal member. Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth Barnard, pioneer resident of Hillsdale community were held from the Hillsdale church Sunday afternoon, with Rev. E. E. Goodrich, a former pastor of that church and a long time family friend, officiating, assisted by the present pastor, Rev. C. W. Cooper. Music for the services

Capitol Building Suffers a Bad Fire Loss

Document Room in National Capitol Building Causes Untold Damage to Building

Washington, Jan. 3.—Fire swept the document room of the house of representatives in the capitol building Friday night and historic records were destroyed.

Flames were jumping as high as 20 feet above portions of the capitol dome and cast their reflections upon the firemen working frantically to reach the blaze.

Working in total darkness, due to inability to get the lights turned on, the firemen were forced to carry their hose up three flights of steps.

The doors to the west entrance of the building were smashed in finally, giving the firemen better access to the blaze. The document room is located just south of the dome and sparks were flying around it, but the dome did not catch fire immediately.

A general fire alarm brought all available trucks and engines to the scene within a few minutes after the fire was discovered at 7 p. m.

Breaks Through Roof

Only on Christmas eve night the last big fire in Washington destroyed the executive offices of President Hoover at the White House.

After 30 minutes, firemen believed the blaze had been confined by them to the document room. Some said the fire was under control but it was apparent that they were having difficulty in fighting it.

Apparently smoldering for some time before it was discovered, the fire broke through the roof of the capitol—a torch to the eyes of Washington.

Within 20 minutes water was streaming through the capitol. Great clouds of smoke almost completely enveloped the capitol dome.

Found Unconscious

Some 2,000 people gathered quickly on the lawn around to watch the blaze, which was more spectacular than that at the White House last week.

The room where the fire broke out is on the fourth floor of the main building, directly over the offices occupied by Representative McDuffie of Alabama, the Democratic whip.

A man, said to be an artist, named Carl Moberly, was found unconscious in the document room and it was some time before he was revived.

He was reported to be seriously injured.

Investigations were begun at once to determine whether a carelessly flung cigaret or a match might have started the blaze. Moberly was said at first not to be a smoker.

Floors Flooded

The firemen searched handiapped constantly by the narrow corridors on the upper floor where the fire broke out. Water soon was trickling down through all four floors in the central part of the capitol structure, leaving a flood on each of the floors.

Near the scene where the blaze started, the private chambers of members of the supreme court of the United States. Water is believed to have damaged these chambers with their invaluable documents.—Bee-News.

Schreiner to Face Charge of Manslaughter

Death of Miss Bertha Lancaster to Cause Change in Charges Against Car Driver

From Friday's Daily—The death of Miss Bertha Lancaster at the Methodist hospital at Omaha, yesterday afternoon, following her injury Wednesday night in an auto accident, has caused a change to be made in the charges that are to be filed against Harold M. Schreiner, the young man driving the car that struck that occupied by Miss Lancaster.

Mr. Schreiner came up from his home at Unadilla, yesterday in company with his father, Fred Schreiner, to appear before the local authorities and give his side of the accident story and shortly after his arrival here a charge of reckless driving, excessive speed and having operated his car contrary to the rules of the highway, was filed against him.

To the charges made yesterday the young man entered a plea of not guilty and the hearing was set by Judge A. H. Duxbury for Monday, January 20th in the county court at the bond fixed at the sum of $1,000.

Following the filing of the charges the report was received here of the death of Miss Lancaster at the hospital and the court raised the amount of the bond to that of $2,000.

This morning County Attorney W. G. Klock stated that in view of the death of the unfortunate victim of the auto accident, that a charge of manslaughter would be preferred against Schreiner in place of that of the reckless driving, which carries a much more severe penalty than that first filed against the young man.

DRUNK DRIVERS CAUGHT

From Saturday's Daily—This morning Chief of Police Joe Libbert and Deputy Sheriff Rex Young made the capture of two Otse county residents near the McConkey hill in the south outskirts of the city, the two men having inebriated very freely apparently of what seemed to be a blend of alcohol with other strange liquids. The men were suffering from the effects of the beverages when the officers appeared on the scene and were caught with several pints of the beverage on their person and in their car. When the officers arrived the men had started to pour out the liquor but they failed to do so soon enough with the emptying job and were caught red handed. The men were brought in and lodged in the county jail and apparently were very much under the effects of the liquor. The names given by the two men were L. A. Decker and Fred McMullen, both claiming their home at Nebraska City. There will be no arraignment of the men until they are sobered up somewhat.

P. E. O. MEETS

From Saturday's Daily—Last evening the members of Chapter P. E. O. held a very delightful meeting at the home of Mrs. F. B. Shopp and which was one of the largest of the winter season and filled with a great deal of interest for all of the members.

The chapter received into its membership at the meeting, Misses Caroline and Estelle Baird, the local officers conducting the ritualistic work of the society.

The members also had the pleasure of enjoying a very clever playlet given by a group of the younger members of the society under the direction of Miss Mary Jane Tibball and which was very cleverly staged.

The hostess served dainty and delicious refreshments at the close of the evening that aided in the completion of an evening of the greatest enjoyment.
