Tri-County Poultry Show to Come Here

Directors at Meeting Here Elect Officers and Select This City for the 1930 Show

The directors of the Tri-County Poultry and Pet Stock association, comprising Cass, Saunders and Sarpy counties, met on Saturday evening at the Hotel Riley and completed the task of the election of their officers and also decided on the show for 1930 being held in this city.

The directors and officers of the association have been more than pleased with the initial show that was held here last December when everything was all that could be asked save the weather and this year the officers hope to be able to set a date earlier that will insure better weather conditions for the show.

The officers of the association selected for the year comprise the following executive members in addition to the directors:

President—S. Ray Smith, Weeping Water.

Vice-President—N. A. Morrow, Plattsmouth.

Secretary-Treasurer—D. D. Wainwright, Weeping Water.

Superintendent in Show—James Reed, Papillion and R. N. Houser, Wahoo.

This year it was voted to have a licensed judge here to pass on the entries at the show, something that they have not done at the previous shows.

The directors are very appreciative of the fine treatment that they received here at the hands of the Plattsmouth people, the splendid spirit of co-operation that was shown during the entire time by the citizens and the fine response that the business houses of this city and Weeping Water made in the special prizes for the show.

The location of the show was the best that had been enjoyed as the American Legion Community building proved an ideal place for the holding of the show and ample to care for the exhibits.

With any kind of good weather for the 1930 show it is expected that the entries will be much larger than last year as many of the poultry raisers in this locality are unable to get in to place their exhibits.

ENJOY A FINE TREAT

The members of the young men's class of the Methodist church have for a number of years made the custom of entertaining the members of the Philathea class a part of the year's program and this year they decided on the Valentine season as the fitting time for the event.

The evening entertainment was in charge of the committee composed of Howard Davis, John E. Turner and J. P. Perry, while the games were arranged by Rev. H. E. Sortor.

A large number of very entertaining games and stunts had been prepared and in which all of the members of the party joined with a great deal of fun being enjoyed by all of the large party, the games being of the snappy seasonable forms of entertainment.

The members of the class had arranged a fine array of refreshments of sandwiches, ice cream, cake and coffee and in these the Valentine idea was carried out very cleverly. The serving was in the hands of the members of the Y. M. C. C. and who proved to be real waiters.

The bride is one of the popular ladies of the city where she has made her home for a number of years while the groom is a native son of this community and is the eldest son of Edward Snodgrass.

Mr. and Mrs. Snodgrass will make their future home in this city, the groom having a home awaiting the coming of his helpmate.

Writes of Old Days in This Community

James Gilmour of Ulysses Tells of "Earthquake" and Other Old Time Incidents.

Editor Journal:

In regard to the earthquake that visited Plattsmouth in 1876, you can tell Mr. E. C. Ripple and Frank Rauhen that I am another survivor of that same quake, and was among those that stampeded at the old high school, on that (to me) memorable occasion. I lost my cap and dinner pail. I was on the second floor and we started down the big stairway pretty orderly, but before we were half way down, the pressure from above became so great, that we just stampeded, and came down those stairs like a thousand of brick, and poured out of the big east entrance, and down the outside steps to the ground. It was a miracle that no one was killed. During the stampede down the inside stair, I found myself next to the big banister on the inner circle of the stair and I sure hung on to that banister all the way down. When I hit the main floor, I lost my banister, and also my footing, but was up and going like a scared jack rabbit in less than no time. It was no time or place to be layin' around on that floor, I tell you. I never got a scratch, but the wind was knocked out of me for a few minutes.

The first thing that to kids in my room saw, to get scared about, was when the old tin lids that were used to stop up the stove pipe holes in the chimneys, fell out, and the sut from the chimneys just flew all over the room, and that scared everybody stiff, but the teacher held the door shut, and quieted us, before letting us leave the room.

I also remember the big rain, that Mr. Rauhen spoke of that happened just before the quake. Ivan Holmes, Will Howland and I used to catch crawdads and turtles on the old bridge on Main street, just east of where Wescott's store is located now. My father was one of the first customers of the Wescott boy's father, when the elder Mr. Wescott first located in Plattsmouth. Mr. Wescott's motto was, "One price, and no monkey business. That just suited Dad. I used to chum with Fred and Charley Morgan, when their father, Capt. Rans Morgan, ran the steam ferry boat, and would tie the boat up at night at the foot of Main street near where the Burlington depot is now.

I have been a constant subscriber to the old Journal for 37 years, or since 1893 when I left Cass county and came west. There is nothing like the old home paper, to keep one in touch with the old friends, and it was a pleasure to me to read Mr. Ripple's and Mr. Rauhen's account of the earthquake in 1876, and would like to hear from some of the others that went through that same experience. I was 7 years old at that time.

ATTEMPT ROBBERY

From Tuesday's Daily—

Last night some party made an attempt to force an entrance to the filling station of the Plattsmouth Motor Co., but were frightened away by the night police on their rounds before accomplishing their purpose. The police approaching the station saw a man walking away from that locality but it was too distant to identify the man and the fact of the attempted robbery was not disclosed by the night police on their rounds and noticed that someone had attempted to get into the station through a window. There was nothing taken from the station and apparently the party compelled to make a hurried getaway. The police notified Sheriff Reed as it was thought that another wholesale series of robberies might be attempted and the streets were patrolled for the remainder of the night but no further disturbances were reported.

Mrs. F. G. Coryell to Head Better Homes Movement

Local Lady Will Have Charge of the Work in Cass County—Appointed from Washington.

Mrs. F. G. Coryell has been appointed to head a committee of local citizens for the purpose of planning a Better Homes Campaign in Cass county.

This appointment was made from the national office of Better Homes in America in Washington, D. C. which each year sponsors a nationwide program for the improvement of housing conditions. The organization is headed by Secretary Wilbur who succeeded President Hoover as its president. Mr. Hoover now serves as honorary chairman. Dr. James Ford is in active charge of the campaign. Better Homes in America is a non-commercial, educational organization which has for its object the improvement of housing conditions and the promotion of a wholesome type of home and family life. Its program is adapted to local needs by each of the thousands of committees which have been established in cities, towns and villages throughout the country. The campaign is sponsored locally by the Parent-Teacher associations, women's clubs, civic associations, and in some communities by schools and colleges.

The first thing that the president of the organization has to do is to select a committee of representative men and women to conduct the campaign. These campaigns vary according to the size and conditions of the community, and include programs of lectures, demonstrations, and contests. Wherever possible a house is planned and built, or a suitable one borrowed and furnished. In this way families of modest means are encouraged toward home ownership and are shown how a house of good design and construction can be built at a cost within their means. Through such demonstrations prospective home owners receive many helps and suggestions for the planning, purchase or building of homes, and many families are inspired to make necessary improvements in their homes.

From Wednesday's Daily—

The evening was spent in cards and games of all kinds and at which a great deal of pleasure was derived while at an appropriate hour the well filled baskets of the good things brought by the friends were brought forth and a fine luncheon prepared that all enjoyed to the utmost.

The members of the jolly party on departing for their homes joined in the wish that Mr. and Mrs. Meisinger might enjoy many more such pleasant events in the future.

All Welcome to Attend the C of C Luncheons

Members as Well as Directors Can Attend, Only Requirement Being Day's Notice in Advance

The bi-weekly noon-day luncheons of the Chamber of Commerce held on the first and third Thursdays of each month are open not only to the directors, but to any individual member of the organization, the only requirement being that he notify the president at least one day in advance—and, of course, pay the 50 cents per plate charge, the same as is paid by the directors themselves.

Time was when Chambers of Commerce over the country generally paid the luncheon costs of their board of directors, which became sort of exclusive luncheon clubs and served to defeat more than aid the progress of the community.

Then came the advent of the paid secretary and this too has its drawbacks. The crying need is for men who are willing to give time from their own busy work-day lives to put over a program of consequence.

And so Plattsmouth evolved back to the old fashioned order of things—a board of directors, composed of nearly two score of the city's business and professional men, agriculturists living nearby, whose interest centers in Plattsmouth, and representatives of the hiring class. There about the democratic festive board gather these directors to discuss the problems and map the course this even more democratic organization is to pursue. And there around this same festive board any member will find the same royal welcome and be able to sit in on an hour and a quarter of good fellowship as often as he desires throughout the year.

When the present Chamber was reorganized and combined with the Ad club, the question was advanced at one of the annual meetings concerning luncheon expense and it was the unanimous choice of the officers that the directors should bear the cost of directors would rather pay for their meals than have the organization do it for them. And the plan has worked wonderfully in the more than two years it has been in operation.

Any member who wishes may come to this Thursday's luncheon if he will give the president at least 24 hours advance notice. This is necessary in order that the restaurant people may know definitely how many to prepare for. Come up and sit in with the directors at their noon-day luncheon Thursday. It may be you have something on your mind that you don't care to unfold in a written communication—perhaps an idea or a suggestion that you can best set forth in person—but whether you have or not, you are welcome at any and all times to attend the luncheons of YOUR Chamber of Commerce. The dinner table is the open forum of discussion from which evolve many good suggestions.

Judge Begley to be Chairman of New Committee

Dock and Harbor Problem One that Will be Claiming Attention in Very Few Years.

"In time of peace, prepare for war." Now war has nothing whatever to do with the coming of Missouri river navigation, but the truth of the axiom is self-evident.

River navigation is coming—in fact it won't be long getting here. And now is the time to make preparations for it—take stock of our advantages and needs—prepare to correct existing faults and keep our best foot forward so that when the time does come, Plattsmouth will be a favored location for a great dock and transfer point.

That is what is going to be done, by the special Dock and Harbor committee of the Chamber of Commerce—a committee created with this express purpose in view.

Judge Begley Heads Committee

The really important thing about "naming a committee" is selecting the right man to serve on it. That is why President Wescott has deferred announcement of the personnel of this most important committee while he conferred numerous times with Judge Begley before being able to gain his consent to act as chairman.

In the past Judge Begley has served as chairman of the Legislative committee, a member of the special Missouri River Bridge committee whose mission terminated a few weeks ago with the opening to traffic of our splendid new bridge. Thus his ability to do things is well known. He is an untiring worker on behalf of what he undertakes and with a knowledge of the legal as well as ordinary requirements should succeed in getting Plattsmouth made an important docking point as soon as the channel is cleared and boats begin plying the Big Muddy.

Judge Begley is a man who can present his viewpoints most advantageously thru the medium of the spoken word and his appearance before a body of waterways engineers or river navigation experts will have considerable bearing in securing anything within reason it may become necessary to ask for.

His promise to act as chairman of the new committee was given only after earnest solicitation on the part of those who have been associated with him in Chamber of Commerce work.

The party arrived here shortly after 7 o'clock and the members of the band and the relatives and friends of the bride and groom were where the delightful social event was staged.

Mr. Kupke and his bride, formerly Miss Pauline Vogler, have been on a honeymoon trip to Iowa and arrived last evening at this city to find the large number of home folks and friends on hand to greet them.

At a suitable hour the guest of honor was presented with the many fine gifts that the members of the party had brought with them and which will be seen as reminders at the bride of the many friends in the home community.

Late in the evening all of the members of the party adjourned to the main dining room of the cafe where very dainty refreshments were served and the happy occasion was featured in the refreshments, the ice cream being in double hearts.

It was a late hour when the members of the party left for their home and feeling that they had a royal time in the hospitality afforded them by Mr. and Mrs. Stewart.

Mr. and Mrs. Kupke are moving to the farm of the groom near Murdock where they will make their home in the future. Both are members of some of the best known families in the county, the bride being a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Vogler, while the groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kupke, and both of the happy young people were born and reared in Cass county.
