Congressman Fort's statement that people have the right to make home brew may be interesting to those two or three persons who waited for permission.

Breakfast should be eaten in silence, says a dietician. A man who stayed late at the office the night before doesn't have to hire a publicity man, either.

There's many a man who hates the thought of evening, because he is going to have to play bridge with the women instead of poker with the boys—sure, married.

Another optimist who will turn pessimist is the dad who thinks by sternly starting out a lecture with "Now look here, young lady" his daughter will pay some attention to what follows.

Another thing most every wife knows is that if she is fool enough to do it her husband would, figuratively speaking, let her push him around the house in a wheel chair and feed him with a spoon.

Cutting the duty on carillons imported for college bell towers may be a gracious tribute to education but, as a business booster, what this country wants is a tariff schedule to cheapen the cost of alarm clocks.

The fact widowers, grass and weeds, usually have to be pretty slick to escape another trip to the altar leads us to believe women's letters haven't any reason for feeling that they are less popular than women's right.

A little success is likely to make a small man dizzy.

There is particular timeliness in the award of the medal for distinguished service in education this year to Mrs. Clara Wilson Stewart of Frankfort, Ky., a leader in efforts to eliminate illiteracy in the south. The reward, announced at the National Education Association's convention, comes simultaneously with the widespread campaign for teaching unlettered adults. Mrs. Stewart has done much toward the success of this work. She organized the "moonlight schools," so called because mountaineers assembled out of doors at night to attend them. Accomplishment in refining certain aspects of education has received recognition heretofore; this award goes to a woman who has opened the field of learning to a class entirely shut off from it previously. Education of illiterates is not a costly process. The State of Georgia has found that it costs only $1 per student to impart the rudiments of reading, writing and arithmetic to its handicapped citizens. Rather, it is a task requiring time, infinite patience and a personality that inspires confidence. For Mrs. Stewart's unselfish efforts in this line, she is eminently deserving of the award that has come to her.

As the October stock market crash passes farther back into history, it grows more and more apparent that the frenzy of speculation that preceded it was not at all a good thing for the country.

A clip sheet from the American Bankers' Association reveals that last year, for the first time in twenty years, the amount of money deposited in the nation's savings banks diminished. The shrinkage amounted to more than $195,000,000 during the twelve months—an amazing situation in view of the fact that savings in the year previous increased by more than $2,300,000,000.

The Bankers' Association blamed the recession largely on the lure of the stock market, which led people to withdraw their savings in order to speculate in stocks; and it believes that deposits this year will increase again now that the market boom has collapsed.

WHAT OF SPAIN?

Current dispatches indicate a wide extension and great development of republican sentiment in Spain. The Government threatens martial law and makes ready to bolster up, once more, the monarchy.

Just what may happen neither the King nor the new Premier probably can foresee or predict. As a matter of fact, Alfonso is trying a bit of dictating in his own behalf. Berenguer generally is recognized as a mere figurehead, and whether he will succeed in making anything more than a feeble pretense as de Rivera's successor will depend, chiefly, though indirectly, on the army, the real seat of power in Spanish crises.

De Rivera, in whatever other respect he may have failed, at least left Spain in much better shape than he found it to be upon his accession to power.

But de Rivera was the boss, the King a figure of secondary importance.

Just now, from the capital itself, through all the cities of Spain is reverberating the cry of "Down with the King—death to the King" in major volume. It remains to be seen whether Berenguer will be able to stay the flood. The iron hand of de Rivera held that competency until his relinquishment of power.

The record of Berenguer is not particularly brilliant. If we employ the more polite definitions of appraisal. In 1921, as Commander in Chief of the Spanish forces in Morocco, he accompanied rather familiarly with odium and disgrace. With a well-equipped army he was scandalously defeated by a handful of ragged tribesmen. Trying to high-hat de Rivera (Spanish fashion) when the latter had attained to power, Berenguer promptly was sent to a Spanish fortress near the French border. But later he was forgiven and promoted to be head of the King's military household and bodyguard. Alfonso was the needed friend at Court. But perhaps the generally astute monarch, through this favor and support of the complacent new Premier, has been guilty of an error of judgment. Be that as it may, an uncomfortably large number of His Majesty's subjects are crying out not only for his downfall, but for his demise.

SNORING IN CHURCH

A pastor, in a facetious mood at a prayer meeting service, remarked that he doesn't mind a member sleeping in church so much but he does seriously object to snoring. That's common sense. Even the best of preachers cannot be entertaining always, and there is an excuse for drowsiness among the auditors when the sermon is dry or dull.

Besides, there is illustrious precedent for sleeping in church. The Bible tells us about the case of young Eutychus who dozed off while listening to the Apostle Paul and fell out of a third-story window. Paul, as everybody knows, was the world's greatest preacher, but he was not angry with his heavy-headed auditor. On the contrary, like pastor, he manifested a spirit of tolerance by restoring life to the young man whose neck had been broken by a fall.

But there's no excuse for snoring in church. It disturbs the congregation and the preacher. The man or woman who snores ought to do their sleeping at home.

Gen. Butler might be able to enforce the prohibition law, but some places are so wet they seem to be more in need of an admiral.

ORDER OF HEARING AND NOTICE OF PROBATE OF WILL

In the County Court of Cass County, Nebraska.

State of Nebraska, County of Cass.

ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE

In the District Court of Cass County, Nebraska

In Re Application of J. A. Capwell, Administrator d. b. n., of the Estate of David J. Hoenshell, Deceased, for License to Sell Real Estate.

Now on this 15th day of February, 1930, there was presented to the Court the petition of J. A. Capwell, Administrator d. b. n., of the estate of David J. Hoenshell, deceased, for license to sell that part of Lot 9 in Jones' First Addition to the Village of Greenwood, Cass county, Nebraska, described as follows: Beginning in the northeast corner of said Lot 9, and running thence west 20 rods, thence south 2 rods, thence east 20 rods, thence north 2 rods to the place of beginning; also the undivided one-half of Lot 10 in Jones' First Addition to the Village of Greenwood, Cass county, Nebraska; also all of Lot 24 in Jones' Second Addition to the Village of Greenwood, Cass county, Nebraska; for the purpose of paying the costs of administration of said estate.

And it appearing that there is not sufficient personal estate in the hands of the Administrator d. b. n., to pay the debts and costs of said administration; and—

It further appearing that the personal property collected by said Administrator d. b. n., amounts to $56.27 and that the costs of administration will be approximately $500.00 and that an order should be entered directing all persons interested in said estate to appear and show cause why license should not be granted to said Administrator, d. b. n., to sell said real estate.

It is therefore ordered that all persons interested in the estate of David J. Hoenshell, deceased, appear before James T. Begley, Judge of the District Court within and for Cass county, Nebraska, on the 31st day of March, 1930, at 10 o'clock a. m., at Chambers, in the Court House, in the City of Plattsmouth, Nebraska, to show cause, if any, why a license should not be granted to J. A. Capwell, Administrator d. b. n., of the estate of Katie Hoenshell, deceased, to sell that part of Lot 9 in Jones' First Addition to the Village of Greenwood, Cass county, Nebraska, described as follows: Beginning in the northeast corner of said Lot 9 and running thence west 20 rods, thence south 2 rods, thence east 20 rods, thence north 2 rods to the place of beginning; also the undivided one-half of Lot 10 in Jones' First Addition to the Village of Greenwood, Cass county, Nebraska; also all of Lot 24 in Jones' Second Addition to the Village of Greenwood, Cass county, Nebraska; for the purpose of paying the costs of administration of said estate.

It is further ordered that a copy of this order be served upon all persons interested in said estate by publication of this order for four successive weeks in the Plattsmouth Journal, a newspaper printed and of general circulation in the County of Cass, Nebraska.

By the Court, JAMES T. BEGLEY, Judge of the District Court. m7-4w
