Canada Awaits U. S. Consent to Push Waterway

Dominion Ready to Proceed With the Dredging of the St. Lawrence River.

Washington—If the United States Government gives its consent Canada is prepared to proceed at once with the construction of another section of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway.

This proposal is made by the Dominion Government through reference to the long-standing problem of effecting a treaty between it and the United States for the joint development of navigation and water power of this great inland waterway.

The Canadian project, it is authoritatively learned, has been submitted to President Hoover in a formal note. According to Henry J. Allen (R.), Senator from Kansas, who has long urged this great development, President Hoover favors giving the Canadian Government the desired permission to deepen the channel of the St. Lawrence on the American side to a depth of 27 feet and for a distance of 65 miles from the foot of Lake Ontario to Ogdensburg on the New York side and Prescott across the river on the Ontario side.

There is some question as to whether a formal treaty is necessary in the matter. William E. Borah (R.), Senator from Idaho, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, when informed of the matter, expressed the view that a treaty act would be required. It is understood that the two governments hope to find a way of dealing with the proposition without going through the long process of diplomatic formalities.

proposition is in line with his view that the St. Lawrence project will be evolved piecemeal.

There has been some sentiment in certain American quarters that permission for the development of this feature of the waterway should be denied Canada on the ground that it would act as an incentive in bringing the two governments together in a general treaty. President Hoover has pointed out, however, that for an additional expenditure of $1,000,000 or more than it would cost to put the channel on the American side, Canada could dredge the waterway in its own waters and that if the Dominion was forced to do this, it would not be conducive to good feeling between the two countries.

REED IS BACK IN POLITICS

Kansas City—A voice which thundered in the United States senate, decrying chicanery, defying presidents, which asked for reinstatement in its party and again for the democratic presidential nomination has come back to municipal politics where it first won public office. James A. Reed, retired United States senator from Missouri, is stumping for the democrats in the city campaign here which reaches the balloting stage next Tuesday.

Minus some of its former vigor and bitterness which made news when "Jim" Reed arose in the senate, the voice has been added to the ammunition trained against the common enemy of the democrats.

MUST FILE CLAIMS

Disabled World War veterans who have not filed claims for disability compensation or those whose claims are pending the submission of additional supporting evidence must file their claims or supporting evidence with the U. S. Veterans' Bureau prior to April 6, 1930, according to a statement given out by Chas. G. Beck, Regional Manager, U. S. Veterans' Bureau, Omaha, Nebraska.

Beck points out that Section 206 of the World War Veterans' Act 1924, as amended, bars the Veterans' Bureau from giving consideration to all evidence submitted in support of a claim for disability compensation received on or after April 6, 1930, unless the evidence submitted shows that the claimant's disability developed to a 10% degree or more during military or naval service, or within one year subsequent to date of discharge from service.

Section 209 of the World War Veterans' Act 1924, as amended, provides that World War veterans must file their claims for disability compensation within five years from date of discharge from service or within five years from the date of disability began. Extension of this time may be granted by the Bureau but the application for this extension must be made April 6, 1930.

Any supporting evidence or application for extension of time in filing claims as described above, received in the Veterans' Bureau on or after April 6, 1930 can not be given any consideration by the Bureau.

More 4-Hers

Twenty-nine members have been enrolled in the 4-H club work during the past week. These comprise a baby beef club at Eagle with Floyd Althouse as leader; a cooking club at Greenwood with Mrs. Carl Hoffman as leader; and a cooking club at Union with Kathryn McCarroll as leader.

Oat Smut

The 50-50 or dry treatment is called so because the coats are moistened but very little. Spray the oats with a solution of one pint of formaldehyde to one pint of water, using a small hand sprayer such as is used to put fly spray on cattle.

One quart of the solution (1/4 formaldehyde and 1/4 water) is sufficient for treating about 40 bushel of oats. Usually one stroke of the piston gives enough mist for a common dirt shovel full of seed. A scoop full requires about 4 strokes. One person can spray the oats as they are scooped into the wagon the night before it is planned to seed them. The treated oats should be covered with canvas or blankets for five to six hours.

This treatment will cost about one cent per bushel of oats and any appreciable amount of smut will damage the yield and sale of the crop many times the cost of the treatment.

Potato Scab Control

One of the most effective means of controlling potato scab is to soak the seed potatoes before they are cut in a solution made of one pint of formalin to 30 gallons of water. Leave the seed in the solution for one hour, then drain off the water and spread the potatoes on a floor and when they are dry the cutting can be done.

Doing Drainage Work

Paul Hoff, the extension engineer of the college of agriculture, and County Agent, D. D. Wainscott, surveyed and drew the plans to tile drain a 3 1/2 acre field for Roy Cole of Mynard and a 6 acre field for O. A. Davis of Murray.

Mr. Cole says that the crop obtained from the ground after it is tiled will pay for the cost of draining in one or two years.

Successful Dairy Meeting

The dairy meeting held at Plattsmouth last Tuesday evening created much enthusiasm about organizing a 4-H dairy club in that community.

Mr. Idtse, fieldman for the American Jersey Cattle club and O. H. Liebers manager of the Nebraska dairy development society, gave inspirational talks on dairying and 4-H dairy club work. Paul Rolfmeier, 18 year old 4-H dairy club boy of Seward, told of his seven years experience in club work. How he started in with a $20.00 calf and now has a registered herd of ten jersey cows that averaged 570 pounds butterfat and netted $245.00 per cow last year.

Some of the boys and parents have signified their desire to have a club and any one interested will please see T. H. Pollock or County Agent D. D. Wainscott.

D. H. I. A. February Report

Irwin Schuelke of Alvo had the highest producing cow in Cass County D. H. I. A. for the month of February. The cow was a grade Holstein and produced 65.8 pounds of butterfat for the month.

Mr. Schuelke also had high herd in the 5 to 15 group. His herd of 6 cows averaged 911 pounds of milk and 33.3 butterfat.

In the group of 16 cows or more A. O. Ramage of Plattsmouth was high man in the county with a herd of 17 registered Holsains averaging 691 pounds of milk and 21.1 butterfat. The county association needs a few more members to make a full association, however, the tester, Donald Belknap, is on the job and will soon be ready to start the second month test.

Nothing can take the place of butter. It takes five pounds of Oleo to furnish the nourishment for the human system that one pound of butter
