URGES NEIGHBORLY TOUCH

Speaking before the annual dinner meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, Elmwood, Nebraska, Tuesday evening April 8, Frank D. Tomson of the Woods Brothers Corporation, Lincoln, emphasized the value of neighborly understanding between the business folks of the town and the business folks of the country.

"The development of any town or city," said Mr. Tomson, "depends chiefly, if not entirely, upon the people who live round about in its trade territory. It is these country neighbors who furnish the patronage for your business concerns and, to a very large extent, you of the towns and cities are, or should be, their patrons. Any development that improves their situation likewise benefits yours; on the other hand, nothing that affects, adversely or otherwise, your prospects and development but that bears a close relationship to those who live within your trade region. These, more than any other group anywhere, are of first importance to your interests and permanence, and I commend to you the value of mutual understanding for your mutual protection and benefit."

Continuing, Mr. Tomson said: "The modern highway is increasing the problem of the smaller cities and towns and makes necessary a more intelligent analysis and understanding of the situation in order that the years of effort that have been made in local development do not become wasted effort. The type of merchandising, banking and professional service in any town will classify and largely determine the destiny of the place."

Nebraska is Urged to Observe Arbor Day

State Superintendent Taylor Requests Every School to Plant at Least One Tree.

"Nebraska, as the home of J. Sterling Morton, the founder of Arbor day," says State Superintendent Taylor in a statement to county and city school superintendents, "should be particularly zealous in its program of tree planting and landscape beautification. The conservation of our natural resources is of vital importance, affecting, as it does, the welfare and comfort of our people. Our trees are not only of tremendous economic importance, but they have far-reaching cultural values which are equally worthwhile.

As state superintendent of public instruction, we wish to urge the proper observance of Arbor day, April 22, in the hope that in every school in Nebraska appropriate programs may be given, and that on every school ground in the state there may be at least one tree planted.

The planting of trees represents but the first step and this must, of course, be followed by the making of some adequate provision for their proper care. Better to plant one tree and to provide for its care so that it may survive, than to plant ten trees and permit them to die for want of proper attention.

Last year County Superintendent C. S. Strickler reported that there were trees growing on every school ground in Hayes county. Such a record represents a distinctive achievement.

"Tree planting in Nebraska," a book by Dr. G. E. Condra of the conservation and survey department of the University of Nebraska, is one of several books recommended by Mr. Taylor. As the supply of trees formerly secured thru the extension division of the University of Nebraska is reported exhausted, trees for planting will have to be obtained this year from nurserymen of the state. Dr. R. J. Pool of the university suggests, says Mr. Taylor, that greater use be made of trees, plants and shrubs growing and acclimated in nearly every locality and which may be had for only the trouble of digging.

"We must bestir ourselves if we hope to be worthy of the name 'The Tree Planters' state,'" says Mr. Taylor. "Many of us have witnessed the transformation which has been wrought in an entire community thru the activities of the school."

TALKS ON CUBA

From Wednesday's Daily—

Rotarians at their weekly meeting yesterday at the Majestic cafe had the opportunity of enjoying a very fine word picture of the island of Cuba, given by one who had been in close and intimate touch with conditions there some thirty years ago.

—C. A. Rawls, formerly a lieutenant in Co. B of the Third Nebraska infantry and with which organization he saw service in the then new island republic. Mr. Rawls touched on the nature of the country, its natural resources and crops and gave a very interesting picture of the people and their customs.

The club also had present the two high school students, who are to be honorary members of the Rotary for the coming month—Charles Nowacek, senior, and Chester Wiles, junior.

The program was in charge of L. O. Minor who had arranged a very pleasing offering was evinced by the close attention to the various numbers that were presented.

The Rotary quartet gave one of their excellent numbers at the noon meeting before departing for Falls City for the night gathering.

The club had as a visitor N. C. Abbott, member of the Nebraska City club.

GREENWOOD IS BURGLARIZED

From Wednesday's Daily—

Sometime last night the enterprising little city of Greenwood in the northwest part of the county, was the scene of the operation of the gang of auto bandits whose activities have been noted over different parts of the county for the past week.

The first intimation received of the visit was the call received this morning by Sheriff Bert Reed from Greenwood and announcing that the Chevrolet sedan of Dr. H. W. McFadden had been stolen from the family garage sometime during the night. Hardly had this message been received by the sheriff than came another that the Anderson general store had also been entered and some of the contents taken, the exact amount of which had not been fully determined.

Sheriff Reed left as soon as possible for Greenwood and in the meantime the officers at the state sheriff's office at Lincoln, only a short way from Greenwood were notified and the scene to try and secure finger prints or any clue that might aid in the capture of the gang.

HOW THE temperature-viscosity co-efficient

OF THE NEW Polarine

THE MODERN MOTOR OIL

BETTERS MOTOR PERFORMANCE

The effect of heat and cold on the body of an oil determines its "temperature-viscosity co-efficient."

In the new Polarine you get oil that varies less between zero and the operating heat of the motor than any old process oil.

This means that at all seasons of the year and under all operating conditions, the new Polarine gives more uniform and more dependable protection to your motor.

You get better motor performance and less motor wear. Because the new Polarine deposits less than half as much carbon as old process oils, compression varies less and the oil stays clean longer.

In every respect a premium quality oil—the new Polarine is sold at no advance in price.

C. OF C. NOTES

The Clean Up and Paint Up campaign is a great thing for Plattsmouth.

Chairman Duxbury's Civic Improvement committee plans to publish an honor roll listing those who clean up or paint up their premises, as fast as they are brought to his attention and asks that all those knowing of instances where interior or exterior decoration or general cleaning up of premises is going on, advise him of the same, so they may be included in the honorable mention class.

The Greenwood folks are getting their pep up and are going out after gravel on the west end of the Plattsmouth-Louisville-Greenwood road. A splendid short-cut route to Lincoln will thus be provided, to say nothing of the opportunity it will give residents of the northwestern part of the county of getting to Plattsmouth in all kinds of weather.

Plattsmouth is entitled to distinction on the score of having maintained for seven successive years its annual series of Happy Hundred suppers, a feature that usually gets old in one or two years. More notable still is the fact that in all this time, one toastmaster has served. A feature article for one of the Omaha papers is being prepared on this enterprise which has had a lot to do with making Plattsmouth better known over the entire state.

The River Navigation lecture this coming Thursday night at the Legion community building should be interesting to young and old alike. Remember, there is no charge and everyone is invited. Special group invitations have been extended to the Woman's club, Senior and Junior classes, and other organization that should be interested in seeing what is being done along this line. Tell your friends about this meeting and come yourself.

Clyde Rosencrans suggested the colored sticker idea as superior to ordinary plain color printing on stationery as a means to help advertise the new bridge and the short route it affords to points west. The bridge company is having a design made and soon stickers will be available to all those who write any great number of letters. These can be stuck on the envelope or letterhead—or both—and will be seen by everyone handling the letter.

Definite assurance has been received that the Tri-County Poultry association will hold its show here again this year. This feature was brought here last year by the Chamber of Commerce Agricultural committee and the directors were so well pleased with the success of the show that they decided to return.

PLAN RETURN ENTERTAINMENT

From Tuesday's Daily—
From yesterday's South Omaha Sun we glean excerpts from the account of a meeting of the executive committee of South Omaha post, American legion touching on the return entertainment for Plattsmouth post in the near future. Here is the paragraph:

"A committee consisting of Louis Cinek, Joseph Krajicek and Dr. Edward Fittle was appointed to make final plans for an inter-city party at which members of Hugh J. Kearns post of Plattsmouth will be guests.

It was decided to hold the party, which, said one of the committeemen, will probably be a dinner-dance at the German Home on South 13th street, in the near future."
