MANUFACTURING CRIMINALS

The law-makers of America have apparently gone into the business of "manufacturing" criminals.

During 1929, 43 states passed 16,921 new laws out of a total of over 50,000 which were proposed.

It is no wonder that practically every American city has a "crime wave" of some magnitude.

Patrick Henry once said that one of the things necessary to the maintenance of free government was "a frequent recurrence to fundamental principles."

As a result we have more crime than any other nation in the world. The cure is simple: Stop passing laws that react against good citizens and get after the real criminals.

As long as wholesale law-making continues, crime will flourish.

Form for crop cost calculation: 'Cost of Crop & Rec'd for Crop. No. of Acres. Return per Acre $'.

How Many $$ Per Acre?

You know the cost per acre to produce a crop. You know it must sell at a definite price per acre to assure a profit.

A hail storm may wipe out your profit—also the investment. Hail insurance with the Hartford, for a small cost per acre, will reimburse you for your loss.

Returns from Winter Trip in the Southland

Mrs. W. H. Freese and Mrs. Mary Stafford of This City Enjoy Visit in Rio Grande Valley

To the Editor of The Plattsmouth Journal:

Dear Sir:—Thinking perhaps some of your readers would be interested in an account of the delightful winter vacation we have spent in the Mazie Valley of the Rio Grande, we hereby submit some descriptions of a few of the many sights we saw and some of our delightful experiences in that beautiful spot, where "The Sunshine Spends the Winter."

We arrived at Harlingen on Nov. 23rd, 1929, and to say, the contrast between the climate here and that which we found in Texas was remarkable, would be putting it very lightly indeed.

Hartingen, the commercial center of the valley, is certainly a thriving city, situated as it is in the center of the valley's main street, as the wonderful paved highway which reaches from Mission in the west end to Brownville, 80 miles southeast, is called.

The day we left Harlingen, April 9th, 1930, one of the officials at the Missouri Pacific depot informed us that there had been two solid express train loads, consisting of 16 and 17 cars each, of green beans moved out over their line to the busy marts of trade in different parts of the United States.

New potatoes have been going out of the valley for the past two weeks, also the first potatoes on the market brought the exceedingly high price of $9.00 per 100 pounds.

One of the things that impressed us most of the way of improvement and progress, was the mile upon mile of concrete highways which thread this valley.

As we rode up and down those wonderful highways we were greatly impressed with the many extensive irrigation projects already completed, and many which are hardly started.

Don Freese York is now overseeing a force of Mexican laborers that are taking soil tests of the ground along the route the banks of this reservoir will follow.

We left the former Plattsmouth folks all in good health and enjoying that wonderful climate, beneath the southern skies, where it seems the stars shine brighter, and the night sky is clearer.

Of course we are glad to get home again, and meet our many good friends in this good old state of Nebraska.

MRS. ELIEA FREESE, MRS. MARY J. STAFFORD.

Your ad in the Journal will be read, and they sure do get results.

Call on Nebraska to Observe Arbor Day April 22nd

Governor Weaver Designates Day for the Planting of Trees and Beautifying of State.

In the authority vested in him as the governor of the state, Hon. Arthur J. Weaver has issued a proclamation designating Tuesday, April 22nd as Arbor day and calling on the people of the state to plant trees.

The coming week the governor designated as a "Nebraska week for tree planting and landscape beautification." During the year of 1930, Governor Weaver said he hoped millions of trees would be planted in the state.

"Arbor Day was named by the state board of agriculture in 1872 through a resolution introduced by J. Sterling Morton, a member of the board; proclaimed by Governor Furnas in 1874; made a legal holiday by act of the legislature in 1885; and in 1896 a joint resolution of both branches of the legislature named Nebraska as the "Tree Planter's state."

"The name, Arbor Day, was peculiarly appropriate and caught the fancy of people, of states, and of nations. It gave an impetus to tree planting in all the states and in many foreign countries.

"While Nebraska achieved distinction in originally sponsoring the Arbor Day idea, it is well to remember that the earlier settlers before the advent of Arbor Day, had begun the planting of trees which transformed the treeless wilderness. What is needed now is a revival of the pioneer enthusiasm and effects for planting trees.

Senate Willing to Hear Parker in Own Defense

Nominee for Associate Justice to Be Invited to Answer Critics in the Senate.

Washington—Judge John J. Parker of North Carolina will be invited before the senate judiciary committee to answer the protests made against his nomination as an associate justice of the supreme court. Confronted with a deluge of protests from negro organizations about a speech attributed to Judge Parker in which he is charged with showing racial prejudice, the administration and republican leaders decided Friday it was best for him to answer for himself.

Senator Watson of Indiana, the republican leader, asked that the nominee be invited here after he had realized the extent of the resistance in the party's ranks. Friends of Judge Parker brought the word to the senate Friday that President Hoover and Attorney General Mitchell looked favorably upon a hearing of the nominee. Thereupon the republican leader asked Senator Overman, North Carolina, one of the sponsors of the nominee and a member of the judiciary committee, to ask the committee to invite Parker here.

Norris is Willing Chairman Norris, of the judiciary committee, stated later that if Senator Overman desired an invitation to be sent to Judge Parker he would concede. Senator Overman said he would ask the committee to take this action at its regular meeting on Monday. He probably will be asked to appear a week from Monday. Friends of Judge Parker deny that he made some of the statements attributed to him about the negroes when he was a candidate for governor in 1920. The nominee has declined to answer inquiries from the national association for the advancement of colored people. The willingness of the president and attorney general to have Parker summoned before the committee was interpreted by some as indicating an open mind by the administration toward the nominee on the objections raised by the negroes. The president and Mr. Mitchell already have vigorously defended Judge Parker's decision in a labor case which is under attack by the American Federation of Labor. Senator Overman Friday read into the congressional record a telegram from E. B. Jeffers, publisher of the Greensboro, N. C. Daily News, denying that this paper quoted Judge Parker in 1920 as stating he did not want to be elected with the help of one negro vote. The story published by this newspaper of Judge Parker's speeches has been used by the negroes in their opposition.—State Journal.
