BUTTERFAT PRICES ARE LOWER IN NEBRASKA

Butterfat prices in Nebraska are generally lower than the average price paid in the United States, according to a survey recently finished by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Quality of the product is also lower in Nebraska than in the average state.

There are two practical ways of raising the quality of cream and getting a correspondingly higher price. One of them is to keep the cream cool and the other is to keep it clean.

Care of the cream should begin before the cow is milked. Her udder should be thoroughly cleaned before milking time to prevent dirt from falling into the milk. The pail should be of a closed top variety. The milk should be clean and healthy and should milk with dry hands. All utensils should be cleaned and aired out following use.

Rapid cooling of the cream after it is separated is necessary to keep down the bacterial growth in the product. Several means of cooling can be used, but for Nebraska conditions a cooling tank using circulating well water for the cooling medium meets the requirements for good quality cream. This type of tank also provides a clean, sanitary place for holding the cream before it is taken to market. Under no conditions should cream be held on the farm more than four days in winter, and a less time in summer.

SHEARER ASKS AN INQUIRY

Washington—William B. Shearer, "big navy" advocate, whose conference were made the subject of a senatorial investigation last year, Sunday demanded that the same committee investigate activities at the London conference of "subsidized internationalist and pacifist organizations."

In an open letter addressed to Senator Shortridge, California, chairman of the naval subcommittee which examined him, Shearer called attention to newspaper articles asserting that several antiwar organizations had "disturbed" the American delegation at London by "the increase of efforts to influence unduly public opinion at home." He suggested that the department of justice be enlisted to investigate "not only their activities, but their entire lives, nationalities and their source of income, as was done in my case."

Mrs. John Karvanek, one of the old residents of the city departed this afternoon for Des Moines, Iowa, where she will spend some time at the home of her daughter in that city.

Harmer Chicken Case is in Court

Mrs. Weibusch Asserts That Her Chickens Came Home to Roost; In District Court.

Her chickens, like those in the adage, came home to roost. That in substance, was the testimony of Mrs. Albert Weibusch in the case of the State vs. Frank Harmer, tried in district court Tuesday before a capacity crowd of interested farmers from the Avoca community.

Mrs. Weibusch's chickens, 50 of them, had been taken between December 15, 1929, and January 25, 1930, she testified, and when she recovered 19 birds in Weeping Water where they had been sold to a dealer, she took them home, turned them loose and they acted completely at home, she said on the stand.

She testified, too, that when she and her husband arrived home late that Saturday night, January 25, they saw and heard an automobile in their lane. They "ran it down," she said, and identified it as the property of Frank Harmer, a neighbor.

The witness stuck to her story on cross-examination and declared that she knew the chickens belonged to her on account of the way they "acted."

"You know Mr. Harmer is a bachelor, do you not?" Mr. Livingston, Harmer's attorney, asked.

"Yes, and when I was at his place one day, the chickens flew away from me," the witness said.

"You know those chickens might not have been used to a woman?" Mr. Livingston suggested. The court rapped to quiet the laughter.

"I know those chickens were mine," Mrs. Weibusch persisted.

Harmer, 45 years a resident in the same neighborhood, declared the chickens sold to the dealer at Weeping Water were his. "My hired man's wife raised them," he said. The whereabouts of the hired man and his wife, he explained, are not known at this time.

"I went to Weibusch's house a day or so after I was arrested and offered to give them $100 for each chicken they could pick out of the flock that had been taken there from Weeping Water."

"Were you on the Weibusch place that night of January 25?" he was asked.

"No, sir," he replied, "and if my car was there it was without my knowledge." The witness detailed the places he had visited that night after testifying he had sold 19 chickens of his own to the Weeping Water store.

Otis Erland, Herman Speck and John Horner, all of Otoe, testified that they saw Harmer in an Otoe pool hall about 8:30 o'clock on the night of January 25.—Nebraska City News-Press.

STUDENTS MAKE FINE SHOWING

The musical department of the Plattsmouth city schools are feeling well pleased over the individual showings made by the local students in the musical contest at Omaha which was participated in by some twelve schools of the second district. In the vocal contests held Miss Jean Hayes of this city in the soprano class and George E. Sayles in the baritone class were selected in the finals of the contest, meeting with the best of the young vocalists in the eastern part of Nebraska. While not securing the first place honors the Plattsmouth vocalists were able to give this city one of the best showings for years and their work received the warmest commendation from the judges of the various events. The local students have not taken as much special training as many of the contestants, especially from Omaha and their showing was such as to reflect the highest credit on the artists as well as the department.

THE TOWN TRANSFORMED

A town where every citizen but one painted his house, made repairs of the premises, fixed up his lawn, and arranged the vegetation and gardens was described today by C. P. Chase, who visited it last week. The town is Greenfield, Iowa, and the visible results of the Clean-Up and Paint-Up campaign there are remarkable, says Mr. Chase.

DRY RAIDER IS WOUNDED

Hendersonville, N. C.—Clarence Howard, deputy federal prohibition agent, was shot and probably fatally wounded here Monday by Fred Swartz, an alleged bootlegger. Witnesses told police that as the automobile in which Howard was riding with Fanning Saltz, another prohibition agent, halted for a traffic signal, Swartz jumped on the running board, shot Howard, and then struck Saltz across the head with the butt of his gun.

Swartz then took Saltz' pistol and ran a block and a half to the police station where he surrendered. Swartz, a native of New York City, was arrested here Saturday on a liquor charge. Later he made bond.

Musical Work in the Schools Ranks High

Contest Held at Omaha Demonstrates the Wonderful Progress Being Made in This Work.

The District No. 2 music contest was held in South Omaha High school April 18 and 19. Judges were Lillian Helms Polley, University School of Music, Lincoln; Charles B. Righter, University School of Music, and Charles Gay, State Teachers college, Maryville, Missouri.

Heavy registration, competition in all classes very strong. Plattsmouth in Class B—High schools with membership to 250. Standard of work high inspiration to all contestants.

Plattsmouth makes splendid showing appearing in finals in all events entered. Entered the following:

Girls' Glee club
Orchestra
Cornet Solo
Soprano Solo
Baritone Solo

The personnel of the Glee club was as follows:

Lucile Albert, Marjorie Arn, Mary Ellen Byers, Maxine Clodt, Dorothy Farmer, Madge Garnett, Virginia Galoway, Jean Hayes, Emily Lorenz, Germaine Mason, Margaret Nelson, Doris Peterson, Helen Price, Winifred Rainey Constance Rea, Anna Mae Sandin, Helen Schulz, Mildred Schulz, Margaret Shellenberger, Eleanor Swatek, Mary Swatek, Catherine Terryberry, Marie Vallery and Mary Lois Wiles.

The Glee club was entered in the finals, being one of the four highest chosen from the preliminary contest held Friday morning in which ten schools were entered. The required number for Class B, Girls Glee club was "Lift Thine Eyes to the Mountains," by Max Elssohn. The outcome of the finals held in the afternoon was Stromsburg, first; Plattsmouth, second. It will be of interest to Plattsmouth friends to know that Stromsburg won first place by two-thirds of a point. The Plattsmouth club presented outstanding work which was representative of high musical standards.

Jean Hayes, soprano entrant, singing "To Eostra" and "Rock-a-Bye Train," selected for finals, being one of the upper four from a group of fifteen entrants. Jean's work was most creditable and received encouraging criticism from the judges. Blair's soprano placed first.

James Comstock in a cornet solo played "The Commodore" and placed third. James' "triple tonguing" was outstanding and according to the judges showed interesting possibilities.

Saturday morning Plattsmouth and Blair orchestras met in conflict, the Blair organization winning first place due to its superior instrumentation, that is greater variety of instruments played. The judges say that the community and school orchestra for not supplying sufficient and proper instruments for a well balanced orchestra.

The Plattsmouth orchestra performed most creditably and deserves high praise for its ensemble work and interpretation.

George Sayles was entered as baritone soloist, singing "Thora" and "Duna," being one of the upper four of 15 contestants. In the finals, George bumped into Omaha Tech and Omaha Central, but made an excellent showing and received splendid grading from the judges.

In connection with the fine showing made in the contest, too much praise cannot be given Miss Ruth Lindsay, music supervisor, who has had charge of the glee clubs and the vocalists, and to B. E. Woodward, who has had the orchestra under his direction and the creditable manner in which the local students acquitted themselves reflects the painstaking care that has been given them by these two instructors.

ROTARY CLUB MEETS

The Plattsmouth Rotary club held their regular weekly meeting at the private dining room of the Majestic cafe Tuesday noon and with a short and very pleasing program which was presented under the leadership of the club president, J. W. Jones, the day were in a musical nature and consisted of a very artistic piano solo by Mrs. Arthur Troop, one of the talented musicians of the community, as well as a very fine vocal number by Edgar Wescott; one of the Plattsmouth students at the university of Nebraska, who was home for the Easter vacation. Both of the musical offerings were of a very high character and much enjoyed by all of the membership of the club.

High Price Paid for Land in Saunders Co.

Farm Near Cedar Bluffs Brings $240 an Acre Highest Paid—Market is Active.

Three Saunders county farm sales, at $180, $215 and $240 an acre, featured the land transfers in Nebraska reported to The World-Herald during the past week by G. L. Carter of Lincoln, president of the Mortgage Bankers' association of Nebraska.

The land which brought the high price of $240 an acre was the John Sohl farm one mile south of Cedar Bluffs. Eighty acres two and a half miles south of Cedar Bluffs brought $215 an acre.

The transfers also were featured by a sale of a quarter section at two hundred dollars an acre in Lincoln county, near Hershey. This transaction reflects the higher prices for land in the western part of the state.

Five sales, ranging from $155 to $175 an acre, were reported in Nebraska county.

The transfers, by counties:

Gosper. 160 acres north of Elwood to John Wallace, $9,000.

Hall. 80 acres near Aida to D. H. Fishburn, $100 per acre.

Jefferson. 160 acres northwest of Diller for $17,000; 80 acres five miles east of Daykin, unimproved, to John Kahler, $85 per acre.

Knox. 160 acres three miles southwest of Wausa, to J. A. Skalberg and A. R. Hult, $142 per acre.

Lincoln. 160 acres near Hershey, to Mr. Uhlig, $200 per acre.

Merrick. 160 acres northwest of Chapman, to Mrs. Elsie Mefftenbrink, $110 per acre.

Nemaha. According to a news item from Stella, Neb., the following sales are reported to have been made at auction:

160 acres to A. W. Bohling, $175 per acre; 80 acres to Ernest Bohling $171 per acre; 160 acres to John H. Gerdes, $170 per acre; 160 acres to John H. Pohlman, $158 per acre; 280 acres to J. M. Stephenson, $155 per acre.
