

GREENWOOD

Miss Magdalene Gakemeier, of Murdock, was a visitor with her sister, Mrs. Rex Peters for a few days last week.

J. C. Lomeyer was a visitor in Omaha for a short time one day last week, where he had some business matters to look after.

Fred Etherege was a visitor in Lincoln on last Wednesday, called there to look after some business matters for a short time.

E. L. McDonald and wife were over to Omaha on Friday night of last week, where they were attending a meeting and also partaking of a very fine banquet.

Louis Wright, who has been suffering for the past week or more with a severe case of quinsy, is now some improved, although he is still troubled with the malady.

Mrs. Ross Casey was stricken with an attack of appendicitis Sunday night. She was taken to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Fisher until she recovers.

P. A. Sanborn was a visitor in Lincoln on last Tuesday, where he was called to look after some business matters in line with the implement business which he conducts in Greenwood.

There is joy at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brackhage on account of the arrival at that place of a very fine young daughter coming via the stork route and all doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Ingraham and Mrs. Henry Wilkin were visiting with the parents of Mr. Ingraham and Mrs. Wilkin, at the home in Ashland, where they enjoyed their stay very much.

Arthur Stewart was a visitor in Plattsmouth on last Wednesday and was looking after some legal matters and was a caller at the court house. While there, he was also meeting with many of his former acquaintances.

Harry Fitch, of Lincoln, formerly of Cass county, where he resided near Weeping Water for many years, but who has been making his home at Lincoln for some time past, was a visitor in Greenwood and was consulting with Robert Matthews while here.

Mrs. Carl Weidemann entertained the Ladies Card club at her home in Greenwood on last Thursday at the fascinating game of 500 and co-incident with the game entertained them with a delightful luncheon. All enjoyed the afternoon meeting very pleasantly.

While looking after his duties as carrier of the mail from the post office to the Burlington station, Walter Weidemann had the misfortune to get one of his fingers caught in the mail crane, pinching the member very badly. The injured member is getting along nicely, however.

Aged Man Very Poorly
Uncle Ben Coffin, father of Mrs. Dora Lesley, has been quite poorly at the home of his daughter for some time and is being cared for by the daughter. Uncle Ben, as he is known, has resided in Greenwood for many years and has many friends here who are hoping that he may soon be able to be out again.

Was Badly Injured
While Kenneth Marshall, who is also known as Kenneth Bourke, was driving along highway 38, his car veered and in so doing struck a concrete post marker of a culvert, with the result that Marshall was thrown from his swiftly moving car and was injured quite badly. He was taken to the hospital at Lincoln, where he was cared for and was reported as being quite seriously injured and suffering very much.

Greenwood Transfer Line
We do a general business—make trips regularly to Omaha on Monday and Thursday, also to Lincoln Tuesday and Friday. Pick up loads on those trips. Full loads at any time.
FRED HOFFMAN.

Bob Kyles' Home in Path of Storm.
The storm in Greeley county Monday afternoon wrecked the home and other buildings on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kyles, former residents of Greenwood. Considerable livestock was killed.

Mrs. Kyles and her aged mother, an invalid, were home alone at the time. The storm could be seen long before it struck and Mrs. Kyles had ample time to reach the storm cellar. Her mother, however, could not be moved and she chose to remain in the home with her. The house was badly damaged but both women escaped injury.

Dorcas Society.
Mrs. Nannie Coleman and Mrs. Ross Clayton entertained about 20 ladies at Dorcas last Thursday afternoon.

The ladies met in the basement and the time was spent in visiting and in making plans for future work.

Masonic Banquet.
The annual banquet of Unity lodge No. 163 was held at the Masonic hall Saturday night, May 3, with the following program and menu which was cleverly arranged in verse.

Menu
Mold of purity with friendship free,
Fatted calf given the third degree,
Then sustaining bricks with mortar spread,
And fruit of your labor nice and red
Brotherly love with vinegar scent,
Acacia leaves that are torn and rent,
Next, of course, is the master's delight,
Eclipsed and topped with the emblem white,
Triangles frosted with sweet of life,
Cup of temperance, anchor through strife.

Lincoln, May 8.—E. E. Jackson, Grant banker and sponsor of several regulatory banking measures considered by recent legislature, filed Thursday as a candidate for re-election on the Republican ticket from the 58th district.

ARE MAY AND JUNE CHICKS MONEY MAKERS?

Years ago, May and June chicks were "natural." We couldn't raise them earlier because we couldn't get them "out-of-doors." Cod liver oil and advanced nutritional knowledge have bridged this gap, so they can now be raised indoors, early and more artificially. The late chick has become out of fashion, out of date. Every chick has to be "early," and every argument possible has been marshalled out and into line against late chicks.

However, reason dictates this fact: May and June hatched chicks will be money makers in November if they are given proper care, proper environment, proper feed and proper feeding. Perhaps those who are prejudiced against "warm weather" chicks will ask what is meant by a "program of proper care, environment, proper feed, and feeding." Such general terms might well be questioned.

Proper care of late chicks means giving them the same care that is now given early chicks. Is this asking too much? Proper care consists of a plan of reasonable sanitation as to cleaning the houses, cleaning out drinking fountains, supplying fresh water regularly, dry litter, and above all else, regular periodic attention to a particular program of care. Progressive feed manufacturers and agricultural colleges outline programs for the care of chicks. Adopt one of these plans and follow it religiously. Nothing is ever successfully raised without care, no matter the season.

Proper environment of late chicks includes sufficient room with plenty of fresh air so they will not crowd and sweat at night, a range separate from older chickens and clean, new ground with shade. A field of half grown corn will provide shade and frequent cultivation will keep the ground clean.

Summertime offers inexpensive and ideal environmental factors that are far superior to the confinement necessary to early brooding. All other things being equal, range raised chickens will be harder than those reared in confinement. Proper feed means feeding throughout the summer a quality growing mash and scratch feed, both containing a good variety of ingredients to supply all a growing bird requires for ideal development. Any concoction of a mash ration, any mixture of poor quality scratch grains will not do the job.

The soundest test of a good poultryman is whether or not he can raise a good batch of pullets year in and year out consistently. All of those who are poultrymen by this test are very particular about their rations, usually feeding the highest quality commercial rations on the market.

A May or June chick, fed a high quality mash and scratch ration, will be full-grown, solid, well-feathered, vigorous in health, and laying marketable eggs in November. But it can't be done without good feed. It can't be done by feeding growing mash half of the summer and allowing the pullets to coast down hill during the other half.

Given proper care, environment and feed, there still remains proper feeding. A good feed can be made ineffective by the use of poor feeding judgment. Two dairymen alternately feeding the same herd of cows the same feed vary in the amount of milk they produce. The variable factor is neither the cows nor the feed, but the actual feeding. Likewise with poultry, feeding practice is vital. A major demand is for a regular schedule of feeding. Again, many of the large progressive feed concerns and agricultural colleges outline plans of feeding, and it is a wise act indeed to adopt and follow one of these tested plans.

Yes, with proper care, environment, feed and feeding, May and June hatched pullets will be money makers in November.

MAY DAY TUESDAY AT GARFIELD PARK

Providing the weather permits, the May Festival, under the direction of Miss Ruth Lindsay, music supervisor of the Plattsmouth schools will be presented Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 in Garfield park. It will be a big and colorful affair. The children and teachers have been working hard and enthusiastically for several weeks on dances and costumes for the occasion.

The May King and Queen and their attendants have been elected by vote of the entire high school. Their identity will be kept secret until the hour of festivity.

Those in charge are anxious that every one present will be able to see and enjoy the performance. With this in mind, they ask that every one attending bring blankets or pillows so that they may be seated on the ground. This will insure every one of getting a good view of the pageant. Chairs will be provided for the older folks, but it is urged that everyone co-operate in the plan of blankets and pillows and in this small way help make the children's May Day a gala occasion.
