One Hundred in Prison for Taking Life

Murder and Sex Crimes Cover One-Third of Number at Nebraska State Penitentiary

Crimes of violence, murder in its various degrees, are responsible for more inmates of the state penitentiary being confined behind the bars than any single class of felonies, it was revealed Saturday in a survey completed by Probation Officer N. T. Harmon.

Sixty men are serving sentences for first degree murder, fifty-six for second degree murder, and seven for manslaughter—a total of 123 men paying the penalty for taking human life.

Of this number seventy-three face the gloomy prospect of remaining within the prison walls for the rest of their lives. The others are "doing time" ranging from fifty years on down to the indeterminate sentence of one to ten years for manslaughter.

In addition, eight men are serving sentences for shooting with intent to kill, six for shooting to wound, one for stabbing with intent to kill, six for felonious assault, and six for ordinary assault.

Primitive passions, murder and sex crimes, account for the imprisonment of one third of the 731 inmates of the state penitentiary. 103 Serving For Forgery.

Robbery, burglary, breaking and entering, automobile theft, and the stealing of livestock account for 45 per cent of the inmates while 103 are serving sentences for forgery. No single law violation exceeds forgery in the list of specific crimes on the prison records.

Chicago Pays Taxes, but, Oh, What a Jolt!

Where to Get the Cash Is the Wail of the Average Householder

Chicago—The first real estate taxes to be collected normally in Cook County in more than two years have been paid and with this anxiously awaited event Chicago discards the novel attempt to run government without cash.

Ancient adages about the certainty of taxes have been smashed to pieces here. For much more than a year nothing has been so uncertain in Chicago, not excepting the weather, as taxes. It was presumed that some day there would be taxes again—but when? Of this, you could be surer that the new comet was a planet, or vice versa.

If some 40,000 public employees had not complained in urgent bitterness that they were not getting their pay checks for weeks on weeks, the experiment would have been altogether delightful. Though taxpayers hereabout have recently made a great clamor for the right to pay their taxes, they are really no keener to do so than taxpayers anywhere.

When the taxpaying time of last year came and went without a nickel paid on real estate in the whole city of Chicago and County of Cook, it was an exhilarating experience.

No taxes to pay! So father and Johnny got new suits and mother got an electric washing machine she had been wanting a long time. The sun shone brightly, and no one thought that father was paying for her suit and mother for her washer out of the salaries of school teachers and firemen and policemen.

There is after all an unfortunate certainty about taxes even here. They may be delayed beyond the imagination. It may take the impromptu of a host of distraught city and county employees, backed by the adjurations of the Governor of the State, which itself was feeling the pinch, to get them collected even a year late.

So the new question arises: When shall Chicago collect the taxes normally due this month? No one has an answer to this latest question. Maybe this fall, maybe not till next year. To make it easier to meet the tax that was skipped, it may be divided up into a number of payments, and collected on the installment plan.

The taxing machinery, which was stopped by politicians in an unavailing effort to resist a reform, has, however, not quite caught up with Chicago even at this date. The initial payment of real estate taxes began in one of the suburbs. Chicago will get its tax bills, it is stated, at the county treasurer's office in 10 days or two weeks. The deadline for payment has been set for July 1.

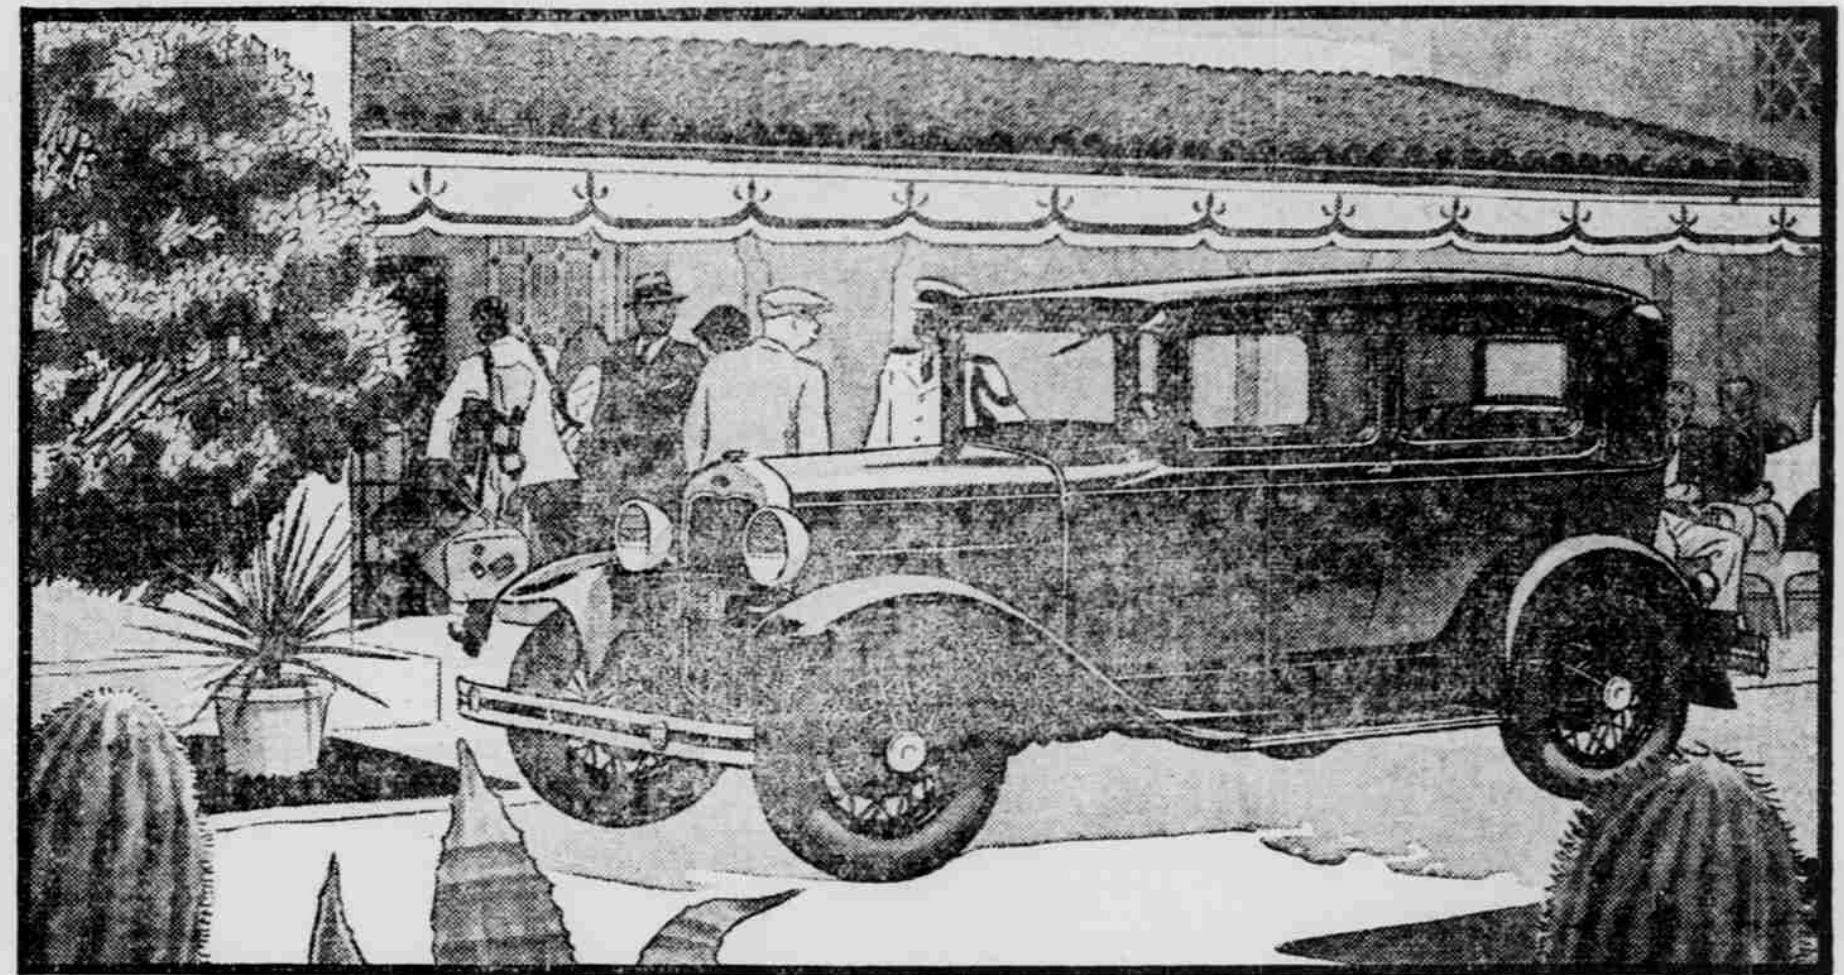

MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION The ministers of the Cass County Ministerial Association assembled in the First M. E. church at Plattsmouth to conduct their regular monthly meeting. Although the weather was somewhat inclement, yet the pastors from the various parts of the county were well represented and were well repaid for their time, effort and sacrifice.

First Year Heifer Analysis of the feed costs show that the first year was more expensive than the second year and that the total cost in freshening by breeds was $118.26 for the Ayrshires, $117.66 for the Guernseys, $107.28 for the Jerseys and $122.42 for the Holsteins. At that time the Ayrshires weighed 1,003 pounds, the Guernseys 953 pounds, the Jerseys 837 pounds and the Holsteins 1,385 pounds.

Profit Is $16.08. With just ordinary animals, this would show an actual profit for the Holsteins of $16.08 per head and a loss for the other breeds of between $17 and $25. However, by selecting the heifers to be raised from only the best cows, very few would have to be culled and, due to their better dams, should raise the herd average and become profitable milk producers.

Heifers Prove Profitable in State of Iowa

Chances of Losses Are Small, Experiments Show; Four Dairy Breeds Are Used

That raising dairy heifers from the best cows in the herd should prove profitable in the corn belt and that the chance of loss is small at present prices is indicated by feeding experiments with 68 heifers of four dairy breeds that have just been announced by the Iowa experiment station.

All of the heifers were well fed and the report is made on 68 that freshened before they were three years old. They include 10 Ayrshires, 17 Guernseys, 16 Jerseys and 25 Holsteins.

Analysis of the feed costs show that the first year was more expensive than the second year and that the total cost in freshening by breeds was $118.26 for the Ayrshires, $117.66 for the Guernseys, $107.28 for the Jerseys and $122.42 for the Holsteins. At that time the Ayrshires weighed 1,003 pounds, the Guernseys 953 pounds, the Jerseys 837 pounds and the Holsteins 1,385 pounds.

Any good purebred dairy heifer is worth at freshening $150 for milk production but if it were necessary to cull her for beef, she would bring at 10 cents a pound, respectively, a total of $100.30 for the Ayrshires, $95.30 for the Guernseys, $83.70 for the Jerseys and $138.50 for the Holsteins.

With just ordinary animals, this would show an actual profit for the Holsteins of $16.08 per head and a loss for the other breeds of between $17 and $25. However, by selecting the heifers to be raised from only the best cows, very few would have to be culled and, due to their better dams, should raise the herd average and become profitable milk producers.

Labor costs are comparatively light with young stock and the valuable manure saved would pay these charges. The original cost of the heifers would be covered by the first calves produced and these young cows would be flush with milk and ready for a year's production.

'Beau Bandit' Brings Old West to Talking Screen

Thrilling Outdoor Adventure-Romance Features Rod La Rocque and Doris Kenyon. Radio Pictures' "Beau Bandit," the thrilling outdoor adventure-romance which features Rod La Rocque and Doris Kenyon will be shown at the Ritz theatre Friday and Saturday.

Few all-talking "westerns" have as many elements of entertainment as the Wallace Smith film of Montero, the Killer, and his colorful operations on the deserts of the southwest. Mitchell Lewis, Walter Long, George Duryea, Charles B. Middleton and Jim Donlon are seen and heard in rugged supporting roles.

Twelve world-champion cowboys, trick ropers, bull-doggers and bronco riders comprise the personnel of the "sheriff's posse," a group that furnishes much of the color and humor of the photoplay.

Rod La Rocque again demonstrates his Latin-American dialectic ability, while Doris Kenyon rides, and sings and plays "Just a Little Kiss," written especially for her by Harry Tierney, RKO composer.

Exterior scenes were photographed and recorded in the story's natural locale—the Mojave desert. Lambert Hillyer, the director, with a troupe of 100, spent several weeks in desert encampment during production.

New York, May 11.—Changing pilots by means of a rope ladder and a parachute, an effort will be made May 28 at Roosevelt field to break the endurance record held by the St. Louis Robin of 420 hours, Seth Low, president of Roosevelt field, said Sunday. As the first pilot jumps off in a parachute the relief pilot will get aboard by means of the ladder, keeping a continuous elevation and doing away with the gruelling one or two man practice.

BISHOP'S MAINTAIN POWER

Dallas, Tex.—The episcopal form of government in the Methodist Episcopal church, South, triumphed Tuesday when the quadrennial conference, in session here, voted down by a decisive majority the proposed new constitution. The document, representing four years of labor by a commission, and twenty-eight years of agitation in the church for a written body of laws, would have required a two-thirds majority for adoption.

The vote was 188 for and 205 against. Although prearranged by the large number of amendments which had been tacked on the bill representing the opposed views of many factions in the church, defeat of the constitution was immediately preceded by the declarations that the paper would radically change church law from an episcopal to a congregational form of government.

This charge was based on amendments curtailing the power of bishops and changing their term of office from life to a fixed number of years. Dr. F. J. Prettyman of Baltimore declared: "When you adopt the practice of electing your bishops you make of them not bishops, consecrated to a life of godly service, but merely presidents of a conference." Josephus Daniels, member of the North Carolina delegation was preparing charges Tuesday against Bishop James Cannon, Jr., for engaging in stock market activities, Daniels announced.
