

OMAHA WILL HAVE MAGNIFICENT RAILWAY
PASSENGER TERMINAL

A dream long existing in the minds of railroad executives and citizens of Omaha will be realized when a great railway terminal project is completed next year. For many years Omaha had two comparatively modern stations within a block of each other but unconnected. To go from one station to the other required the crossing of tracks by an overhead street viaduct. The inconvenience and delay have been costly and annoying to the traveling public. The new Union station, now under construction, will be connected with its neighbor, the Burlington, with a direct overhead viaduct. The general idea is conveyed in the accompanying picture. At the right is the Burlington station, at the left is the new Union station. Construction cost of the new station with its drives, connections and appearances will run to $4,200,000. The result when the construction is finished will be architectural beauty combined with maximum utility for railroads and patrons. The ramp idea will be employed in the automobile drives that will connect the track level of the new station with the Tenth street viaduct by means of which street cars, vehicles and pedestrians reach the stations area. Then Omaha railway terminals will match her importance as a railroad center. Omaha is fourth railroad center of the United States and the hub of ten trunk lines—Union Pacific; Northwestern; Burlington; Great Western; Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific; St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha; Rock Island; Missouri Pacific; Illinois Central and Wabash. Omaha has the general headquarters for the Union Pacific and western divisions of the Burlington and Northwestern. Eighty-five small trains arrive in and depart from Omaha daily. More than 1,572,000 express shipments are carried in and out of Omaha annually.

From Thursday's Daily—The condition of W. H. Seybert, one of the old time residents of this part of Cass county, continues very poorly, the patient having been in very serious condition for the past several months. 3 NEW CHURCH RULES PLANNED

Dallas, Tex., May 14.—Autonomous church governments for Korea, Brazil and Mexico and a permanent bishop for China were approved by the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, at the quadrennial general conference here Wednesday.

While the first three churches will set up as separate bodies, their relations to the mother church will be retained in what was characterized as a "mother and daughter" relation. This bond will extend to furnishing of funds by the mother church to an extent which may be as great as that now in effect.

The Brazil Methodist church will, perhaps, remain more closely associated with the South church than either of the other two autonomous groups, since those in Korea and Mexico will be formed of a unification of the northern and southern Episcopal church groups.

The church in Brazil will cooperate through a "general council" with the mother church.

Delegates from China said no separation from the American church body was desirable.

The committee on revisions concurred in the memorial of the Louisville conference to amend the marriage ceremony of the church by striking out the words "obey" and "serve."

The memorial will be submitted to the general conference.

Press Misstated His Views on Fort's Speech, Says; Cites Lobby Records in Refutation.

Washington, May 14.—F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, said in a statement Wednesday that he wished "to make it plain that it is not my view that the Volstead act authorized the manufacture of beer or home brew."

His statement said:
"Many of the headlines and news articles in the press referring to my testimony before the senate lobby committee on Tuesday, convey the impression that I said home brewing or the making of beer in the home was lawful under the Volstead act."
"I made no such statement and the record shows that I did not. I was questioned regarding a speech by Congressman Fort in the house of representatives in which he quoted from section 29 of the Volstead act."
"The penalties provided in this act against the manufacture of liquor without a permit shall not apply to a person for manufacturing non-intoxicating cider and fruit juices exclusively for use in his home."
"In view of the fact that my statements before the committee on this subject seem to have been misunderstood, it wish to make it plain that it is not my view that the Volstead act authorizes the manufacture of beer or home brew."
The official record of McBride's testimony, shows he was asked by Chairman Caraway of the lobby committee of Representative Fort had not made a speech in which "he rather wanted to upset the dry program didn't he?" the official record continues:
McBride: I think not.
Caraway: Well I was under the impression that he was for modification.
Probably Right.
McBride: No, he said that the law permitted the making of liquor in the home. It was his interpretation of the law as it is.
Later:
Caraway: You don't agree with his interpretation?
McBride: Well now, we think that was a very good speech that he made as a whole. That is his interpretation. I think probably he is right.
A little later:
Caraway: What I am coming to is this: I am interested in the Anti-Saloon league's attitude. Would you be satisfied with the interpretation of the act that would allow everyone to make liquor in his own home?
McBride: No, that I think there are certain phases to the law, I think under certain conditions liquor can be made in the home without being a violation.—Omaha Bee-News.

INDIANS SEEK SETTLEMENT

Washington—Tribal committees of the Winnebago Indians of Nebraska and Wisconsin are now deliberating on terms of a new jurisdictional bill which they hope to have enacted by the congress to cover more completely claims they were allowed to file under act of Dec. 17, 1928.

The legislation allowed three years for filing of the claims and contract was made with Ralph H. Case, Washington attorney, to prepare the suits. No claims have been filed yet, however, as further legislation was considered advisable. The divided tribe, after much correspondence between the two branches, reached an agreement to ask for the new jurisdictional bill. Announcement has yet been made of its terms.

Representative Howard, democrat, Nebraska, who was author of the original bill, probably will sponsor the second bill also.

POSTHUMOUS AWARD MADE

Mexico City—Col. Pablo Sidar, who died on Sunday night off Costa Rica while attempting to fly from Mexico to Argentina, is a brigadier general in death.

Preventative
Aid for Measles is Discussed

Mumps Can Also Be Prevented by Immunication With Infected Blood, Medicos Told.

Lincoln, May 14.—Doctors of Nebraska were told Wednesday that measles and mumps can be prevented by immunization of children with the blood of a child or an adult who has either disease, injecting it under the skin.

Recent epidemics of measles have strongly impressed him with the value of convalescent blood, blood serum and blood from patients who have previously had the disease, said Dr. E. V. Wiedman, child specialist of Lincoln.

Produce Mild Case.

"Blood drawn from the patient immediately after disappearance of the rash and injected into the person who is exposed to measles, not later than the fifth day will produce very mild measles with complications," he said. "This procedure deserves more consideration and more frequent use."

Dr. L. D. McGuire of Omaha differentiated in two classes of head injuries. One class includes those which should be rushed to the operating room, the other those which should be put to bed for a rest.

New Anesthesia.

Apprehension in connection with the operating room is entirely avoided where amytal is used in surgical operations, Dr. W. G. Arrasmith of Grand Island explained in an address on the anesthesia. It is new and is given into the vein, he said. The patient can be put to sleep in his room and awakened there after the operation, thereby having a loss of memory of all events. The patient goes to sleep with extreme ease. There is no struggling, suffocation or choking common in all inhalation anesthesia.

Dr. A. O. Fasser of Fremont spoke on abdominal injuries, and Dr. J. E. M. Thomson of Lincoln on fractures of the upper extremity.

Mrs. E. W. Rowen of Lincoln was elected president of the woman's auxiliary to the association. Other officers include: Mrs. Clyde Roeder, Omaha, vice president, and Mrs. Homer Davis of Genoa, treasurer. Directors are: Mrs. Lucien Stark, Norfolk, and Mrs. J. Mayhew, Lincoln.—Omaha Bee-News.

FOUL PLAY IS SUSPECTED

Hemingford—Officers here Friday were investigating the possibility that City Marshal Clifford Norris, forty of this city, may have been foul play. He disappeared a week ago and no trace of him has since been found.

County authorities at Alliance have joined in the hunt for the missing officer who for ten years has been associated with the police force here.

Following the marshal's disappearance last week a note addressed to his wife and eighteen year old son was found directing them to "look after things." Subsequent investigation disclosed a suit case of clean clothes belonging to Norris in the garage at his home.

Relatives of the missing man could advance no theories as to his whereabouts or as to what may have occasioned his disappearance.

HOUSE ACTION IS SOUGHT

Washington—The house wet group Wednesday decided to request all members to sign a petition demanding house consideration either of the LaGuardia bill for modification of the Volstead act or the Norton measure for repeal of the eighteenth amendment by referendum. The decision was made at a meeting attended by about fifteen members headed by their spokesman, Representative Linticum, of Maryland.

The LaGuardia bill would legalize 2.75 per cent beer. Both are before the house judiciary committee. In the absence of a favorable report by that committee, neither can be taken up for consideration in the house unless a majority of the members sign a petition to discharge the committee from further jurisdiction.

TEST HIGHWAY BODY

McNeel, contractor, for alleged losses on work stopped in Merrick county by the department in 1925.

COOLIDGES WANT NO

STUDENTS ARE DISCIPLINED

New Haven—Thirty undergraduates in Yale college Thursday were disciplined by Dean Clarence W. Mendell for participating in the disturbances last Thursday night, when hundreds of students clashed with police in the university section. Fourteen students, of whom twelve are seniors, were suspended from recitations for the rest of the college year and sixteen were denied dormitory privileges for next year. The student body will also have to pay for the damage done to police uniforms.

The recitation period is now only of two weeks' duration and then follow the final examination. To the twelve seniors who are suspended from recitations the sentence is serious. The windup of recitations gives the finishing touch to courses and seniors who depended upon passing the examination to obtain their diplomas in June make the most of the last weeks of class room work.

House and Unable to Tell Home —Friends Located.

From Thursday's Daily—Yesterday afternoon a lady, later identified as Mrs. J. J. Jacobson, residing west of Fort Crook, was found wandering around the court house here and unable to tell her name or where she had come from.

The condition of the lady was noticed by County Attorney W. G. Kieck and who on inquiry discovered the plight of the unfortunate lady and the fact that she was unable to reveal who she was or how she came to be here. The lady was attired in a house dress and apparently had started from home when stricken with the loss of her memory.

The condition of the lady was noticed by County Attorney W. G. Kieck and who on inquiry discovered the plight of the unfortunate lady and the fact that she was unable to reveal who she was or how she came to be here. The lady was attired in a house dress and apparently had started from home when stricken with the loss of her memory.

The lady had with her some letters or papers that indicated that she was a resident of near Fort Crook, and Deputy Sheriff Young taking the lady in his car, started for that place and finding a number of the residents in that locality in a car along the road inquired if they could identify the unfortunate woman which they did, stating that she was Mrs. J. J. Jacobson, living west of Fort Crook and they saw that she was returned to her home.

Just how Mrs. Jacobson came to be here she was unable to account for, apparently having been given a ride into this city by someone and as it proved was fortunate in not getting to some distant point before her plight was discovered.

MARRIED IN CALIFORNIA

A very beautiful wedding occurred on May 4th at Long Beach, California, of which the Long Beach Sun has the following:
"A winsome young bride whose marriage was solemnized yesterday afternoon at 1:30 in St. Luke's Episcopal church, the Rev. Perry G. M. Austin officiating, was Miss Florence Gould, who pledged her troth to Roy Chandler Tarrant, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Tarrant, of Sheridan, Wyo.

"The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, William C. Gould, wore a beautiful princess style gown of ivory satin, trimmed with lace and rhinestones and with effective long lace sleeves. Her veil, of embroidered tulle, was caught in back by rhinestones, and in front was held by a crown of orange blossoms and lace. She carried a shower bouquet of white Killarney roses, gardenias and lillies of the valley, and a single strand of pearls completed her costume.

"Attendants were Miss Verona Osborn, maid of honor; Miss Geraldine Thayer, Miss Lotus Penning and Miss Betty Thompson. Miss Osborn and Miss Thayer wore frocks of flowered chiffon, in green and orchid, respectively; Miss Penning wore eggshell chiffon and Miss Thompson was attractive in pale green. All wore small lace hats, and carried sweet peas in pastel shades, tied with large pink bows. Brothers of the bride took a prominent part in the ceremony, William A. Gould acting as best man, and in front were Frank, George and Thomas Gould.

"Soft candle light illuminated the church, which was banked in roses and ferns, and decorated with palms. Before the ceremony, Miss Ursuline Cadman, contralto, sang "At Dawning" (Cadman), accompanied on the organ by Robert M. Bolden. The wedding party entered on the strains of the march from "Lohegrin."

The groom is a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Walters of this city and the many friends of the family will be pleased to learn of the happy occasion. Mr. Tarrant is a graduate of the Oneonta military academy and a member of the Long Beach chapter of the DeMolay. He is also a writer of many popular songs, his latest, "I Have a Picture of You in My Heart," to be published soon by the Oliver Ditson Co., well known music house.
