GLASS DEFINES HIS STAND. Washington—Senator Glass, issued a statement Tuesday making clear that he did not intend that his resolution questioning the authority of the state department to pass upon the reparations bonds should be directed at the validity of these bonds.

"My resolution was not intended to question the validity or the propriety of the reparations loans," he said.

"I think the bankers had a perfect right to float that or any other loan in his country without reference to what the state department might think of it or do about it. In short, my contention is that the state department has no lawful authority in the premises and it should desist from an assumption of authority which amounts to a indefensible usurpation of power."

Oil in a Can is Like a Race Horse in a Stall

Lubricating Oil in a bottle or a can may look fine—so may a race horse in a stall. But put the horse on a track, make him run a half mile and he may prove all looks and nothing else. The same is true of Motor Oil!

Looks, Color and Extravagant Claims Mean Nothing at All

It is the test of actual performance that shows up poor horse—and poor oil. Mona Motor Oil does not break down under the most intense heat. Try a Crank case full.
