They presented their sacred program at the Emmanuel and Ebenezer churches which was well rendered by these talented ladies. They have excellent harmony and their voices surely blend well. Our hearts were deeply touched by the excellent and inspiring selections and every one spoke very highly of the program as a whole. We must say that we can recommend these talented ladies to any community and be assured that all who hear them will speak with highest praise of their ability, training and presentation.

Enjoyed Fine Meeting.
The Order of Eastern Star met last Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Henry A. Tool where they enjoyed a very fine social afternoon and looked after some business of the order. Mrs. Tool was assistant hostess in the serving by Mesdames Oscar Zink and Harold Tool.

Celebrate Golden Wedding.
Mr. Henry Gakemeier and Miss Bertha Theaman were united in marriage on July 6th, 1880, and as a fitting expression of the fifty happy and prosperous years which has come to this couple, they again celebrated on last Sunday July 6th, 1930, very gratefully acknowledging the blessings which has come to them. The Rev. Wolters, a son-in-law of Arlington, delivered an address commemorating the life of this excellent couple and which was followed by a short talk by their pastor, the Rev. G. A. Zook.

In the evening, open house was held for reception of friends and congratulation and also a supper to relatives and friends which was presided over by their son, Wm. Gakemeier of Chicago, who was present and acted as toastmaster for the occasion. Those who spoke at the occasion were Mrs. Eleonora Swartz of Hemmingford, a daughter, Rev.

Wolters of Arlington, Rev. G. A. Zook, their pastor at Trinity Lutheran church, Conrad Baumgartner, Conrad Wehrman and Mrs. Rex Peters, all telling incidents of the fifty years of happy married life of this couple. The occasion was enlivened by the sparkling repartee of the well qualified toastmaster. Following the addresses, Mrs. Gakemeier responded with thanks for the good things which had been said but more so for the blessings which had come to them and to the giver of all good things. Heeding the words of the toastmaster, the couple were present and assisted in making the day one of the very best.

In the expression of the spirit of thankfulness, Mrs. Gakemeier could have said:
"We have lived our lives from year to year.
With forward faces and unreluctant souls.
Not hurrying to, nor turning from the goals
Nor mourning for the things which have disappeared
In the dim past, nor holding back in fear.
From what the future veils, but with whole
And happy hearts that pay their toll
To youth and age and travels on with cheer."
For such has been their lives and they are living exponents of the quiet life which seeks at all times to do something good for their fellowmen and refrain from doing any evil.

Pilgrims Visit Near Home
The Pilgrims had a very pleasant day last Sunday, which was spent with the M. E. church at Elmwood. We had the privilege of teaching a large and very interesting Bible class, which proved a blessing to all. After Sunday school we enjoyed a very fine service conducted by the pastor, interspersed with music rendered by a fine choir, where their beautiful pipe organ added greatly to the charm of the service. We shall go again.

In the evening a fine program was given under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. of Elmwood, at the Christian church, it being a union service of three churches. At the program, C. A. Sorensen delivered a very forceful address on law enforcement, which was well received. An interesting part of the program was the pageant entitled "A Patriotic Wedding," in which John Barievoren, the home destroyer, was given what was coming to him, when our sheriff, H. Reed, arrested him, put handcuffs on him and put him where he belongs—where he could do no mischief.

Two Mountains of the Bible
—Genesis 28
The Judgment Day: Retribution came quick. God was not far away. He could not interfere nor prevent Adam and Eve from breaking the law; they were free to choose their own conduct; life and death had been placed before them. The law was unmistakably clear—they understood it. And so, today, obedience to God must be a free will act, not imposed by fear or force.

Jehovah made his usual evening call. When formerly Adam and Eve had gone forth to meet him, now they could not be seen, hence God called: "Adam, where art thou?" and Adam, from his hiding place behind a tree answered, "I heard thy voice in the garden and I was afraid because I was naked, and hid myself." Sin brings shame and terror. Man cannot hide away from God. The prophet Hosea (10:8) sees Israel in the presence of God, their sins uncovered; they stare them in the face; in consternation they begin to cry out to the mountains "to cover us," and to the hills "to fall on us. Jesus quotes this passage. (Luke 23:34.)

Jehovah holds court, calls the guilty before Him; in questioning Adam he makes him confess his guilt. Adam tries to evade the direct question; tries to shift it onto the woman, but indirect, on God. God gave him the woman, the woman gave him the fruit. Eve saw by this time that it was useless to deny her guilt, but uses the last excuse, "The serpent beguiled me, and I did eat." Let us note here: (1) The record before us is the history of the first sin; (2) The first sin is also the specimen sin—all others are copies of it; (3) Besides this, the first sin is also the infectious sin. Let us now listen to the sentence of the guilty parties. The serpent receives 2 curses. Where the serpent before had feet, now God says: "Because thou hast done this, thou art cursed above all cattle, etc." No questioning here. The curse is still on the serpent, and will remain until the seed of the woman, Jesus Christ, shall bruise his head, which act took place on the cross of Calvary. This curse put this dethroned angel below all living creatures; hated, despised, destroyed wherever found, pointing to the time and place recorded in Matthew 25:10 and Rev. 20:10. This is also the first promise.

The next to be sentenced is the woman. Behold the changed conditions. Much pain, suffering and sorrow will be her lot; bound to the man and where they were before congenial companions, the man shall henceforth rule over her. The woman's sphere is here clearly stated—she is to be a mother, teacher of her household and companion for the man.

The last to be sentenced is the man. (1) God chides him of having listened to his wife; henceforth the ground is cursed because of it; (2)

In sorrow will he eat his daily bread, constantly in war with thorns and thistles and all kinds of weeds to fight; (3) He shall eat the herbs of the field, whereas in the garden he only had to reach out and eat of the trees. All his descendants labor and earn their livelihood by the sweat of their brow under this curse. (4) See how justice is tempered with mercy. That man might not eat of the tree of life and remain in this wretched condition, God drives him out of the garden (man did not care to leave his beautiful home) to till the ground (the blessings of labor) and a guard was placed at the gate to prevent his return.

They lost their beautiful home, the favor of God, peace of mind, the joy of companionship—the future holds only pain, sorrow, unprofitable labor for them. "The wages of sin is death." (Rom. 6:23).

The separation between God and man is complete by unfaithful man. Who can heal the breach? Who will volunteer and satisfy the demand of the law? Who will pay the ransom for man's soul? Who CAN pay this debt? We shall see.

To be continued next week.

European countries, it is reported, contemplate imposing a tax on American tourists. Bless their innocent hearts. Americans are so accustomed to being taxed that it wouldn't worry them a bit.

PERSIAN MINISTER ARRIVES

Washington—Equipped with a razor, tooth brush, and the few personal belongings that can be crammed into an overnight bag, Charles C. Hart, the newly appointed minister to Persia, has arrived at Teheran to assume his post.
Meanwhile, somewhere in the Persian desert, perhaps in the lair of a bandit chieftain, are the goods he shipped ahead while he made a tour of eastern Europe. They failed to survive the caravan trek to the Persian capital.
The minister notified the state department of his loss but he did not go into details in explaining he had

Oil in a Can is Like a Race Horse in a Stall

Lubricating Oil in a bottle or a can may look fine—so may a race horse in a stall. But put the horse on a track, make him run a half mile and he may prove all looks and nothing else. The same is true of Motor Oil!

Looks, Color and Extravagant Claims Mean Nothing at All

It is the test of actual performance that shows up poor horse—and poor oil. Mona Motor Oil does not break down under the most intense heat. Try a Crank case full.
