Grocer Norris Filed Illegally, Says Judge Goss

Supreme Court Justice Overrules Decision of Frank Marsh—Solves Tangle in Primary.

Lincoln, Neb., July 18.—George W. Norris of Broken Bow, grocer who filed in opposition to the present senator, was denied a place on the republican primary ballot tonight by Chief Justice Goss of the supreme court.

Justice Goss announced his decision immediately after an evening session of the hearing on an appeal from a ruling Thursday of Secretary of State Frank Marsh that the Broken Bow grocer's filing was legal, though not actually received in the office on the scheduled time.

Summarizing the case, Justice Goss held that Nebraska primary election laws regulating the filing of certificates of nomination were mandatory in defining the time limit in which certificates were to be placed in the hands of the secretary of state.

In the Norris case the filing, sent from Broken Bow by registered mail July 3, and then too late for delivery that day, the final for legal acceptances.

The next day being a holiday, the filing was not delivered until the following morning about 10 o'clock.

Says Law Mandatory. In announcing his ruling Judge Goss declared:

"The time for filing expired at midnight, July 3. This statute is mandatory, and no one is given authority to extend this time for filing of candidates.

"The peace and well being of the people required that there must be an end somewhere to the controversies arising over candidates."

Under the ruling of Marsh announced Thursday the name George W. Norris would have appeared twice on the ballot for the republican senatorial nomination, designated "McCook" and "Broken Bow." The secretary of state ruled that the filing received by mail at his office July 5, bearing postmarks of July 3 were legal notwithstanding the time limit expired at midnight July 3.

No. 2 May File as Independent. Had Grocer Norris supplemented his registered parcel with a special delivery stamp, attorneys pointed out during the hearing today, the filing would have been regularly delivered on the final day.

Supporters of the Broken Bow man tonight were unable to predict whether he might attempt to remain in the race by filing as an independent candidate after the primary election August 12. William Shuman, North Platte, counsel for the grocer, said he would "not hazard a guess, but that such a turn in events would not be illegal."

Justice Goss' decision, supplemented with his comment that he deplored "the injection of politics into the hearing," closes the matter permanently and leaves no avenue to appeal, it was stated.

Senator Not to Withdraw. After the court's ruling, John P. Robertson, secretary of Senator Norris, announced that the senator will "not withdraw from the race."

"He will run on the primary ballot," Robertson said. "Friends of the senator had indicated that he might withdraw and campaign for re-election as an independent in case of a decision in favor of the Broken Bow man's filing."

The court's ruling leaves the republican senatorial primary race a three-cornered affair between Senator Norris, State Treasurer W. M. Stebbins and Asah Read of Madison.

Justice Goss had declared a recess at 6 p. m. tonight, after hearing arguments from 2 p. m. in order to permit Charles E. Matson, counsel for Secretary of State Frank Marsh, to complete his argument.

At the start of the hearing today Justice Goss had overruled a motion for continuance of the hearing until a later date.

Written Opinion Later. Arrayed on both sides were Attorney General Sorenson, appearing privately as a "friend of the court," and John P. Breen of Omaha, for the senator, while Charles E. Matson appeared for the Broken Bow man.

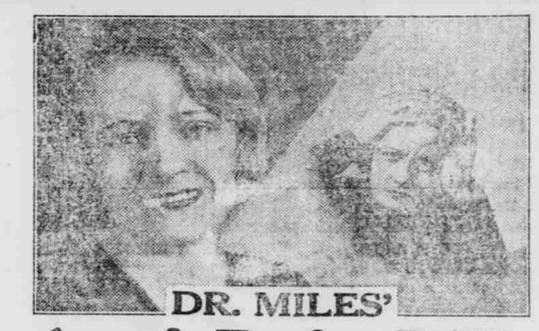

Goss indicated his verbal decision would be supplemented later with a written opinion on the case.

Asserts Friend of Norris. "Under ordinary circumstances," Sorenson said when the hearings opened, "I would be here as the secretary's counsel, but it seems that the opinion of my office in the matter, prepared after much research and study, was not satisfactory to him and so he selected private counsel to assist him."

"It will be charged, I know, that I am here in the interest of Senator Norris. That charge will not be altogether untrue. To his campaigns I have given time, energy and a little of my savings. But my reward has been great. It has brought me his friendship."

"No one claims," he concluded, "that the filing of this Norris No. 2 was made in good faith. The fact that the alleged filing was made the last day, the fact that the candidate is in hiding, and the fact that he used the exact name, together with the middle initial of the senator, indicates an intent to defraud the voters."

James H. Marsh of Omaha today filed his withdrawal as an opponent of the secretary of state. He did not supplement the affidavit with a

Nebraska to Lose One Seat in Congress

Plan Redistricting Since New Population Not Enough to Justify Six Representatives

Partial state census returns for 1930 confirm previous statements that Nebraska will lose one congressional seat when the reapportionment of congressional seats is made, according to dispatches from Washington. Nebraska's increase in population was not great enough to enable the state to retain the present six congressmen in the face of population gains in other states.

California, New York, Michigan, Texas and New Jersey made the largest proportional population gains. California is scheduled to be allotted nine new congressmen, giving that state 20.

New York will gain one new member, Michigan three, Texas two and New Jersey probably two more congressmen.

Missouri Loses 3 Missouri seems scheduled to be the heaviest loser. Three congressmen may be lost in that state. Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky and Mississippi will lose two congressmen each. Nebraska, Kansas, North Dakota will lose one congressman each. Other states in the same predicament are Alabama, Louisiana, Tennessee and Virginia in the south, and Maine, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Vermont in the east.

The next Nebraska legislature will have the task of redistricting the state into five congressional districts instead of six as at present.

Eliminate 4th District Under the five-district arrangement the first district will be considerably larger than at present, the Third and Sixth will be slightly enlarged and the Fifth will be made much bigger.

The plan most discussed among politicians calls for elimination of the present Fourth congressional district, making the present Fifth district the Fourth and the "Big Sixth" the Fifth district.
