Suggestions for Canning

Two hours from the garden to the can, is the rule to follow in preparing fruits and vegetables for canning. After the jars are packed with boiling hot fruit juice or vegetables, they may be sealed completely before being put into the water bath for processing. If a pressure canner is used, they should also be sealed completely in processing after sealing, begin to count time after the water over the jars is really boiling. Keep water boiling slowly throughout the required period. Process ordinary fruits five minutes, peaches and pears from 20 to 25 minutes to three hours. More complete details regarding processing are included in extension circular 997 available at county agent's office.

Syrups for canning fruits may be made thin, medium, or thick, according to the amount of acid in the fruit. Sweet berries and acid fruits require a syrup made of one part sugar and three parts water. Slightly acid, require one part sugar and two parts water, and acid fruits equal parts of sugar and water. The sugar should be stirred into the boiling water. One cup of syrup should be enough for a quart jar.
