Robbers Escape Pursuers After Holding Up Bank

Assistant Cashier and Patron of Henderson, Ia., Locked in Basement by Trio.

Three unmasked bandits held up the Farmers National bank at Henderson, Ia., about 30 miles southeast of Omaha, at 3:15 p. m. Friday, escaping with about a thousand dollars in silver and currency. The assistant cashier and a customer were locked in the basement of the bank building.

The speeding bandit car, estimated to be traveling at about 70 miles an hour, was traced eastward to Emerson and then through Red Oak, but east of the latter place further trace was lost.

John Rainbow, assistant cashier of the bank for the last three years, and Marion Wise, farmer near Henderson, were in the bank when the three holdup men entered. They were ordered to face the wall. Then Rainbow was ordered to open the safe and vault.

"They tried to lock us in the vault, but could not," Rainbow said. "Then they put us in the basement. We were able to tear out a basement window sash, and give the alarm, not more than five minutes after they imprisoned us."

About six hundred dollars of the loot was in currency and the rest in silver, according to the cashier. An exact check had not been completed early Friday night. Officers were told that not more than $1,100 or $1,200 is usually carried in the bank.

First Time Held Up.
A. F. Paul is president of the bank, capitalized at 25 thousand dollars. The bank had never been held up before. It was also Rainbow's first robbery experience.

All three of the robbers wore white shirts and straw hats, officers were told. Rainbow said that one was short, about 26 or 27 years old, and weighed about 140 pounds. This one was shaking, and apparently was inexperienced in robbery. Rainbow believes. A second was about 5 feet 9, and weighed about 175 pounds.

No description of the third bandit could be given, except that he was the largest of the three.

The bandit car was seen at the edge of Red Oak by Walter Clites, Emerson garage man, who was attracted, he said, because of its high speed. He told pursuing officers, who were about 10 minutes behind.

Rainbow went to the Henderson bank about three years ago from Council Bluffs.

Cashier on Vacation.
The robbery occurred during the first day of vacation of Charles Amick, cashier.

Rainbow said that had the robbery occurred on any other day, the loot might have been larger. Heavy demand for casing of checks of road crews had occurred recently, and a request for more money had been made, the additional cash being expected Saturday.

Wise and Rainbow were at one of the bank windows when the first bandit entered. Roughly shoving Wise to one side and showing his gun, the robber demanded of Rainbow "Stick 'em up or I'll put a hole in you." At this instant another bandit entered, taking Wise to a back room.

Tossed Gun Away.
The third man, heaviest of the three, then came behind the railing, found Rainbow's gun and threw it contemptuously on the floor, cleared out the currency and silver, and forced Rainbow to open safe and vault.

Once Rainbow looked at the heavy bandit. "Quit looking at me," he said, covering his face with his hand. "Turn around or I'll drill you."

When the vault door failed to lock this third man stepped behind the door and out of sight as the victims walked past to the basement door.

The men were put into the cellar through a trap door which could be fastened above.

The bandits were seen to enter their car by Mrs. Albert Pace, but she did not get the number. After escaping from the basement, Wise and Rainbow ran to a filling station nearby and gave the alarm.

Clearing House Planned by Live Stock Dealers

Orderly Marketing Process Is Considered a Good Solution for Problems

Chicago—Although backed by $6,250,000 of farm board funds, the newly organized cooperative, the National Live Stock Marketing Association, has devised a simple but practical method of aiding live stock men.

The producers, faced with a considerable surplus of lambs over last year and a reduction in price of over 50 per cent, are in need of organized marketing, according to Charles A. Ewing, president of the big live stock cooperative.

The simple solution of having the association act as a clearing house has been hit upon. Into the offices of the organization in Chicago will flow lists of producers, the number of lambs they have to dispose of, and the price they will be willing to accept. At the same time other lists of feeders who will take advantage of bargain prices will be received in response to the association's activities through the radio, newspaper publicity, correspondence and other channels.

The clearing house, which virtually amounts to a pool system, will be greatly facilitated through the completion of organization of the Intermountain Live Stock Marketing Association. This new cooperative group, covering the central range territory, will be a unit of the National Live Stock Marketing Association.

List of Officers
C. N. Arnett of Boxman, Mont., sheep breeder and rancher, was elected president of the Intermountain association at Denver, on Aug. 6. Field Bohart, Colorado Springs, Colo., was named vice-president, and Perry Williams, Granite Canyon, Wyo., treasurer. Other directors are Alex Healey, Worland, Wyo.; J. B. Grier, Las Animus, Colo.; H. W. Harvey, Salt Lake City; J. M. McFarlane, Salt Lake City; J. J. Lane, Rosewell, N. M., and Julian Terrett, Brandenburg, Mont. The members of this board represent 75,000 head of live stock.

The Intermountain Live Stock Credit Corporation was organized at the same time with C. N. Arnett, president; Field Bohart, vice-president; Alex Healey, Les Evans, Mar-quize N. M., and H. T. Bowen, Denver, directors.

Louis Vinke, Helena, Mont., was appointed secretary-manager of the Intermountain Live Stock Marketing Association and it is planned to offer a complete marketing service to its members.

The new group immediately prepared to aid the lamb situation. Its lists of ranchers who have lambs to sell will be largely distributed through the corn belt by the National Live Stock Marketing Association. And similar arrangements are expected to be made for the sale of cattle.

J. D. Harper, editor of the National Live Stock Producer, explained that the National Live Stock Marketing Association is only beginning to function. It was formed on May 14, and now has 16 cooperatives as members.

Associations Included
These members include the Western Cattle Marketing Association, the Texas Live Stock Marketing Association, the Chicago Producers Commission Association, the Cleveland Producers Cooperative Commission Association, the St. Louis Producers Live Stock Commission Association, the Kansas City Producers Commission Association, the Buffalo Producers Cooperative Commission Association, the Michigan Live Stock Exchange, the Indianapolis Producers Commission Association, the Cincinnati Producers Cooperative Commission Association, the Pittsburgh Producers Cooperative Commission Association, Sioux City Producers Commission Association, the Peoria Producers Commission Association, the Producers Commission Association, Springfield, Ill., and the Evansville Producers Commission Association, Evansville, Ind.

In addition to representatives of these member cooperatives, the board of directors includes L. J. Taber, Columbus, O.; Charles E. Hearty, Des Moines, Ia.; and F. E. Molin, Denver, representing large general farm organizations, the National Grange, the American Farm Bureau Federation and the American National Live Stock Association, respectively.

The great need of the live-stock men. He all of the 6,000,000 farm families of America, Mr. Ewing, Mr. Harper and Secretary P. O. Wilson agree, is orderly marketing. They point out that farmers readily understand that at a time when packers' coolers are filled, consumption is lowered, and business is more or less marketing time, dumping of live stock on the market injures all concerned and further depresses prices.

Through orderly processes, which can be controlled by cooperative manchinery such as the National Live Stock Marketing Association is establishing, these officers say, must come solution of the marketing problem.

A SERIOUS OFFENSE

Postmaster J. W. Holmes has received complaint that the mail box or receptacle used for the mail, belonging to one of the patrons in the south part of the city had been torn down by someone, the box being put up Thursday and was found torn down Friday morning. It may be stated that the destroying or tampering with the receptacle for U. S. mail is a very serious offense and is punishable by a fine of $1,000 or an imprisonment in the federal prison for three years. The person that has been interfering with the mail boxes would do well to stop it as they will be in difficulty with the federal government.
