State Regents Buy University School of Music

Purchase of Institution Announced by Chancellor E. A. Burnett Saturday Afternoon

Purchase of the University School of Music at Eleventh and R streets, by the University of Nebraska was announced by Chancellor E. A. Burnett of the state institution following a joint meeting of the board of regents and authorities of the School of Music Saturday. The purchase price was announced as $100,000, of which $10,000 will be paid in cash. The transfer is effective at once.

"The University of Nebraska has long been interested in the development of musical instruction for its students. The regents thought this an opportune time to take a forward step in this field," declared Chancellor Burnett in making the announcement. He also announced that no changes are contemplated in the faculty of the School of Music.

Details of the organization of the School of Music in the university were not worked out the Saturday meet, but it is expected it will be included as a department of the fine arts group.

Established in 1894.
"But $10,000 in cash is involved in the transaction, as it is felt that the earnings of the school of music will be sufficient to take care of the rest of the obligations as they come due," the chancellor said. "Some expenditures will be made in connecting the building with the university heating plant and in repairs."
The University School of Music was established in 1894 as a conservatory, by Willard Kimball, with the encouragement of university authorities. The three story brick building now used as quarters was erected in the summer of that year. According to George P. Kimball, secretary-treasurer of the School of Music, it continued as an affiliated institution with the state university until 1911 and since that time it has been entirely separate. In 1917 Willard Kimball sold his interests to C. O. Bruce and E. M. Avey, who in turn disposed of them to Adrian A. Newsens in 1918. Mr. Newsens has continued as director of the school since that time.

City Council Holds Session Last Evening

Move to Change City Clerk's Office Dies a Bornin'—Talk City Dumping Grounds

From Tuesday's Daily—
The session of the city council last evening was one that was quiet and devoid of more than passing interest, the solons having disposed of the gas franchise, took the advantage of coasting through on a quiet meeting.

Councilman Luschinsky of the judiciary committee asked further time on the preparation of the ordinance to regulate the traffic into a more modern rate schedule.

Councilman Bestor reported that in the complaint of Byron Golding that his committee had failed to find any underground sewage water from the city property flowing onto the property of Mr. Golding, but that the committee would recommend that spouting be placed on the city tool house and the water fed into the sewer.

Councilman C. A. Johnson asked that the fire and water committee have more time to look after the removal of the watering trough from its present location on Third street to a better location.

The parks and improvement committee reported that the furnace in the city hall had been fixed up, that the offices of the police judge had not yet been pepped. This committee also stated that the had taken up with the Continental Oil Co. the proposition of making their new station also a bus depot and while the company had received the matter favorably they could promise no definite action as the new station here will be one of their main oil distributing points. The Sinclair company had also looked with favor on helping out the bus situation.

Councilman Gabelman of the parks and improvement committee also reported that his committee had discussed the moving of the city clerk's office into the city weighmaster's office as the permanent headquarters. This led to much discussion of the matter and while almost all favored the move, it was found that the small amount allowed for rental was the result of a resolution passed some seven years ago to allow the clerk a small increase in salary by giving him a fee for rental, at that time the clerk in office having a place of business of his own and to whom the $10 was a much deserved raise in salary. Councilman Johnson, who was serving as mayor at the time of the adopting of the resolution explained its purpose and also pointed out that while under the present city clerk the arrangements would be all right at the city hall but a future clerk named from some of the business men would want his office in the place of business. The move was finally laid over, as none wished to deprive the clerk, the most difficult and exacting office in the city, of the salary.

Councilman Smith stated that he wished more time on the matters of changing the lights on Washington avenue back to overhead street lights, also that the lighting company had stated that on the petition of Carl Obischlager and others for lights that the company had stated they would install the same under the provisions of their contract with the city as to costs.

The city dump, which has in the years past been brought up for each year, was again brought up for discussion by Councilman Webb, stating that the Chamber of Commerce had discussed it at the last meeting. Just what could be done was not clear to any of the councilmen as there must be a place to throw the rubbish and refuse and the nearest solution was the suggestion that a road be built clear over to the main river and the stuff dumped into the Missouri river. On motion of Councilman Smith the matter was referred to the parks and improvement committee.

On motion the streets, alleys and bridges committee was authorized to secure gravel to be placed on Oak street on the way to the cemetery and also on the city's part of Livingston road, where the very light surfacing of gravel has worn off.

ATTEMPT BURGLARY
From Monday's Daily—
The store of F. H. Nichols at Louisville, one of the largest business houses of that place, was visited by burglars last night but who evidently were frightened away before accomplishing their purpose of looting the store.

The large heavy plate glass in the door of the store was broken so that it was possible to reach in and turn the lock of the door and gain entrance to the store room.

A check by Mr. Nichols and his force of clerks today failed to show anything being taken and it is thought that the parties who made the attempted burglary were frightened away before they could remove any of the stock.

Parties also did some damage at the oil station of John E. Schutz, where Mr. Schutz, to accommodate the late travelers had his air hose placed so that they can use it at any time. The party or parties not only used the hose but cut off a portion of the hose as well.
