Topeka, Kansas, Leads Way to Smooth Riding

Asphalt Stripping, Originating There, Now Used in Many States

Topeka, Kan.—Asphalt stripping here has solved the problem of bumpy streets. J. F. Snyder, for 23 years Topeka street commissioner, was the originator of the idea, which has not only proved successful in Topeka, but has been adopted by other cities in practically every state.

About 14 years ago when the original brick pavement in many places was worn down, it was impossible to get bricks of the same size to repair it. Mr. Snyder worked over the problem until he discovered a certain asphalt mixture which would be not only flexible and sticky enough to adhere to the brick pavement, but would be hard and durable, and had several blocks of brick-paved streets stripped down the center with a layer of this mixture, about 1 1/2 inches thick. The strips are about 18 feet wide. Now, after 14 years of continuous heavy traffic, these streets are still among the best in the city, proving the practicability of the idea.

Stripping differs from resurfacing in that it does not extend as far as the curbing on either side of the street. For this reason property owners in Topeka have been saved thousands of dollars, since under the law resurfacing of streets is charged to property owners as in the case of new paving, which strip work comes out of the budget of the city department. The cost is estimated at less than 31 cents a yard for stripping 18 inches wide and 1 1/2 inches thick, a cost which is negligible in comparison with straight paving. The city has found that this is the only satisfactory means of taking rough streets and making them usable for motorcars.

Mr. Snyder found stripping as practical for use over asphalt streets which needed repairs as for brick streets. He installed all the machinery necessary for doing the strip work, and Topeka is now one of the few cities in the country that has a success of a strip asphalt plant. The plant consisted of first of two vats, with the mixing done by hand with iron paddles. The second vat was similar to a concrete mixer and was called the "coffee mill." This was replaced a few years ago by a much larger one, in which the asphalt is made out of sand, rock dust and charcoal.

Chat consists of flint rock ground very fine, after it has been melted to separate the zinc. Sand about as fine as cornmeal is used, but if the river sand is very coarse, it takes the place of chat. About 150 pounds of fine flint, as fine as flour, is used to a batch of 1000 pounds of the mix. The proportions used are 17 per cent of chat, 11 per cent of asphalt, and the balance of sand and lime dust, resulting in a very fine aggregate.

Heat is an important factor in the proper mixing and laying of the asphalt. It is heated to 300 degrees when it goes onto the street. It is heated to 350 degrees for one minute. The mixer must be cleaned periodically, else it burns out the iron.

Kansas has always felt an especial need for paved streets, because of the particularly adhesive quality of its mud. It was formerly customary to put adjustable straps on the backs of rubbers in order to hold them on in crossing the streets. Children's rubbers fastened in the back with buttons.

The first strip of asphalt pavement created a great sensation, attracting bicycles and wheelbarrows in large numbers to try out its smooth surface.

BOWLES GIVES UP OFFICE

Detroit—Charles Bowles stepped from the office of mayor of Detroit Tuesday yaffer losing, step by step, a long fight to retain the post to which he was elected last November on a reform ticket.

The swearing in Tuesday of Frank Murphy, thirty-seven years old, former judge of recorder's court, ended Bowles' nine months administration, and completed the movement to recall him from office, which was started July 8, in spite of numerous appeals of the mayor to the courts.

A bitter two weeks campaign resulted in the recall by a majority of 31,000 votes, but under Michigan law, Bowles continued in office and automatically became a candidate for re-election.

Amid the excitement caused by the assassination of Bowles radio critic, Jerry Buckley, the city went into another turbulent campaign in which the mayor faced three active opponents, and came out second best in the election of Sept. 9. Murphy running 12,000 votes ahead.

Bowles, a little known lawyer until six years ago, was supported last November by the Anti-Saloon league and similar organizations.

FARM INCOME IS BIGGER

Washington—An increase in the gross farm production income from $11,741,000,000 in 1928 to $11,851,000,000 for 1929 was reported Tuesday by the department of agriculture.

The gross income from livestock and livestock products for 1929 was estimated at $6,248,000,000 and that from crops at $5,603,000,000. As compared with 1928, the crop income declined $73,000,000 but the gross income from livestock products increased $133,000,000.

Department economists said the decrease in the crop income last year was largely due to declines in income from grains and cotton, which more than offset an increase of nearly $200,000,000 in the gross income from vegetables. In the livestock and livestock products group, wool was the only commodity to show a decrease.

Church Wedding Sunday Unites a Popular Couple

Miss Alma Lau and Arnold Hall Are Married by Rev. Hartman—To Reside East of Town.

A pretty church wedding took place Sunday afternoon at the Evangelical Lutheran church at Plattsmouth, when the pastor, Rev. Hartman, united the hearts of a popular couple.

The young couple were attended by Paul Metzger, of Westwood, who is attending the University of Nebraska, and Miss Clara Neumann, of near Leavitt. Both associates are cousins of the bride, Miss Alma Lau, who is a daughter of the late Mrs. J. H. Lau, and the groom, Arnold Hall, who is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hall.

After the ceremony, which was witnessed by a large number of relatives and friends, a reception for the bride and groom was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Lau, near Westwood, where a wedding dinner was also served to the families of the young couple. They then drove out to western Nebraska for a week's visit at the ranch home of the groom's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Metzger and family. Upon their return they will go to home-keeping at the old farm home of the groom's father, G. F. Hall, west of Louisville.

The young people are representatives of two of Cass county's oldest and most substantial families. They are highly esteemed by a large circle of friends and are entering upon their wedded life under the brightest auspices, attended by the heartiest good wishes of their large circle of friends.—Louisville Courier.
