Million Loss; 50 Injured in Mystery Blast

Sabotage Blamed for Wrecking of Los Angeles Trades Building—Think Gas in Structure

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 17.—Fifty garment workers were injured and property damaged one million dollars today in an explosion which police attributed to sabotage growing out of labor trouble.

The 11-story Garment-Capital building was shattered by a blast on the fifth floor, shortly after hundreds of men and women workers had entered the building.

Only two victims were seriously hurt, the others being sent home after emergency treatment. Forty-four persons were treated at the police receiving hospital for cuts from flying glass. Wounds of others, whose names were not taken, were dressed at the scene.

Fire flushed through the upper floors immediately after the blast, the shock of which caused damage to several buildings in the vicinity.

The building has been under police surveillance since a strike was declared by the International Garment Workers' union seven weeks ago.

Activities of communist leaders in the strike were reported to the congressional committee investigating communism here last week. Police reports at the time said communists had fomented the strike and then gone to work as strikebreakers.

Workers and police have clashed several times in the last month. Police chemists were seeking to analyze traces of a heavier than air gas found between the fifth and sixth floors. They said the gas was similar to T. N. T.

The blast occurred at 7:26 a. m., just as employees of the building's two score garment making firms filed in. Elevator shafts were twisted, inner concrete walls blasted and a sheet of flame engulfed the upper floors, flashing through broken windows.

Streets were showered with broken glass from buildings four blocks around and other nearby manufacturing buildings suffered large losses in damaged stocks, fixtures and equipment.

First investigations produced testimony that the blast occurred when Irving Chavin, Mexican youth, lighted a cigarette as he stepped off the elevator at the fifth floor. Hyman Schulman, Chavin's employer, who left the lift with him, simultaneously pulled a burglar alarm switch, as was his daily habit.

District attorney's detectives expressed belief that plotters cognizant of Schulman's daily act had filled the fifth and sixth floors with highly explosive gas, planning for its detonation by the switch spark. Sections of inoleum were said by police to have the order of T. N. T. Rex Welch, police chemist, said 24 hours would be required to determine this theory definitely.—World-Herald.

GRUESOME TALE OF KILLING

McCook—Gruesome details of the murder of Joe Hurza, forty-two, on Hurza's farm northwest of Hayes Center Oct. 2 were told by Frank Divis, farm hand, in an alleged confession here Tuesday to Deputy State Sheriff Bailey and Strong. The officers said Tuesday night they had checked up Divis' story and their findings bore out details of his confession.

Hurza, a bachelor in comfortable circumstances, lived in a small farm and owned only a team and wagon. Divis and he lived in the wagon and worked as a farm hand. Officers said the men were friends because of the fact that both were foreign born.

Bailey and Strong said Divis told them he made a pit to catch a coyote and covered it with sticks, brush and leaves. Divis said Hurza laughed at him saying no Hayes county coyotes could be trapped that way. Divis said the next day he found one of Hurza's hogs in the pit. A quarrel followed, and according to the story told the officers Divis shot Hurza and buried him in the pit.

SECURITIES STILL MISSING

New York—Search for several million dollars worth of securities of Metal and Mining Shares, Inc., failed Tuesday when the safe of Charles V. Bob, missing chairman of the company, was opened and found bare. Assistant Attorney General Washburn said he believed the securities might have been divided among three banks, one here, one in Boston, and one in New Jersey. He said his office lacked power to subpoena bank records outside this state.

Mr. Washburn, acting for the state bureau of securities began search for Mr. Bob several days ago to question him concerning transactions in the stock of Metal and Mining Shares, Inc., and Rainbow Luminous Products, Inc. Mr. Bob's friends have said he is resting in Chicago to avoid a nervous breakdown.

School Building Doing Nicely.

The work on the new school building which is now being constructed is getting along nicely, the brick work having been completed all last week with the exception of a portion of the chimney, but the rains of the latter part of the week somewhat interfered with the completion. This completes the brick work, and with the lathing begun it will not be long until the work will be so far along that the cold weather will in no way interfere with the construction. However, the work is being pushed and it is hoped that the building will be completed soon.

'Mike' Rozgall is Dying After Collapse in Gym

Fighter Suffers Hemorrhage Following Workout in Ring—Battler Since Early Teens

Mike Rozgall, 25, "darling" of South Omaha fight fans, is in St. Joseph's hospital, fighting for his life as a result of a brain hemorrhage suffered Friday afternoon following a workout at the Business Men's gymnasium. Rozgall is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Rozgall, 3525 U street.

A blow in some recent training bout or one taken in some ring battle during his long career in the ring is believed to have caused the hemorrhage.

Rozgall, who in spite of his youth has been battling about Omaha for the last 12 years, became ill and collapsed following a brisk workout at the gymnasium. While in the showers he was seized with convulsions and lapsed into unconsciousness. Attempts to revive him failed.

Had Been Complaining. According to his manager, Alvie Graves, the fighter had been complaining of a severe headache for the last three days. Thursday he felt so ill that he did not work out, Graves said. Friday afternoon he felt much better and decided to resume training.

Rozgall was training for a tentative battle with Joey Phalen. Rozgall began fighting at an age when his chums were still shooting marbles and playing tag. His first fights were at Fort Omaha during the war, boxing being permitted in the army posts at that time, but prohibited in the rest of the state.

"Darling of the Yards." Never a great fighter, Rozgall nevertheless spoiled the championship aspirations of many young fighters in this section. His long experience and his willingness to mix, no matter how rough the going, made him popular with the fans. His popularity with the fight followers in the vicinity of the stockyards won him the sobriquet, "darling of the stockyards."

Several years ago Rozgall fought Ace Hudkins in an Omaha ring when the "Nebraska Wildcat" was at the peak of his career, but was badly beaten.

An examination at the hospital revealed that Rozgall was suffering from a general hemorrhage of the brain.

His condition is critical, Dr. Earl Connolly announced.

A Mexican, who failed to kill himself when he leaped off a 100-foot bluff at Kansas City, got away from the police and tried it again. What a football player Knute Rockne missed in this one.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the Legislature of Nebraska by an act passed by a three-fifths vote of the members elected to each house has submitted to the electors of the state to be voted on at the general election to be held November 4, 1930, a proposal that Section 7 of Article XII of the Constitution of Nebraska be amended to read as follows:

"Every stockholder in a banking corporation or institution shall be individually responsible and liable to its creditors over and above the amount of stock by him held to an amount equal to his respective stock or shares so held, for all its liabilities accruing or existing while he remains such stockholder, and all banking corporations shall publish quarterly statements under oath of their assets and liabilities. The stockholders shall be become individually responsible for the liability hereby imposed, immediately after any such banking corporation, or banking institution shall be adjudged insolvent, and the receiver of said corporation or institution shall have full right and lawful authority, as such receiver, forthwith to proceed by action in court to collect such liabilities; and the provisions of Section 4, Article XII, of the Constitution of the State of Nebraska shall not be construed as applying to banking corporations or banking institutions."
