

Control of House Forecast by Shouse

Says Revised Estimates of Election Results Indicate Majority—Details Claims

Washington, D. C., Oct. 19.—For the first time, J. M. Shouse, chairman of the democratic national executive committee, predicted today that the democrats will gain control of the house, the prize in the election two weeks hence.

In a formal statement, Shouse said he based his revised estimate of the forthcoming congressional election "on a dispassionate summary of the facts, allowing full consideration to over-optimism in some of our reports.

An overturn of 54 seats now held by republicans is necessary for the democrats to win control of the house, Shouse predicted a minimum gain of 60 seats and said he believes the total will be nearer 70.

Less hopeful of winning the senate, Shouse asserted that if the democrats win in three of five states now classed as doubtful they would have a majority of one in the next senate.

He classed the states of Illinois, Minnesota, South Dakota, Colorado and Wyoming as doubtful in the senate contests.

Lists Claims.

Shouse said his figures showed the democratic party would gain at least seven house members from New England, at least 15 in the group comprising New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland and West Virginia, together with all of the seats in the south lost in the last election.

"From the middle west," he continued, "extending from Ohio to Kansas our gains will be not far short of 30. This may seem excessive, but when it is realized that at present we have only three seats in Indiana, three in Ohio, six in Illinois, three in Kentucky, and six in Missouri, whereas we will have a majority of the delegations in most of these states this time, it will be seen that there is no exaggeration."

Regarding the senate, Shouse said there are too many states in which the issue is close to justify prediction of a democratic majority. He expressed confidence, however, that "we will make many gains in the senate."

Present Senate Makeup.

"The present complexion of the senate," he continued, "is 30 democrats, 56 republicans and one farmer-laborite. The most conservative estimate for the senate after March 4, 1931, according to our reports, give us 45 democrats, 50 republicans, including all their factions, and the one farmer-labor man, Shipstead (Minn.)."

"This takes no account of such states as Illinois, Minnesota, South Dakota, Colorado and Wyoming, in all of which states the outcome is doubtful and in several of which the nonpartisan observers, such as the correspondents of the great newspapers, give the democrats the best of the situation. If we win in three of these doubtful states we will have one more senator than the republicans."—World-Herald.

'Warmer' is Forecast for Middle West

Indian Summer Weather Is Expected to Prevail for Time—Frost Did Good.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 21.—Winter's first blast was due to end tonight in the middle west, its echoes lingering in Oklahoma and Texas and in states east of the Mississippi. Indian summer weather was forecast.

The Pacific slope was moderately warm today and the country east of the Rockies experienced intermittent sunshine and clouds with no further storm threat. Colorado had cool, fair weather, Wyoming rising temperatures and lingering snow flurries and Montana was warmer with more warmth predicted.

In place of temperatures which ran from a new seasonal low to two degrees at Max, S. D., to a high of 55 as far south as Oklahoma City, the wheat and corn states west of the Mississippi were promised a milder night tonight and maximum temperatures which might reach into the sixties. That was the interpretation put upon the laconic "slightly warmer" forecast for the Dakotas, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri, Iowa and Minnesota by the weather observers.

The freeze which gripped the middle west over the week-end and yesterday did more good than damage in most agricultural states, in the opinion of S. D. Flora, meteorologist, Topeka, Kas., he said it tended to conserve moisture already in the ground while the snow and sleet augmented it.

ANTI-LYNCH CONGRESS

Boston—The National Equal Rights League and Race Congress, with headquarters here, Thursday announced that a national negro anti-lynching congress would be held in Washington, Nov. 25. William Monroe Trotter, executive secretary, said the congress would offer a united protest to the National Government and the American people and adopt plans for self-protection.

BRINGS SUIT TO COLLECT $15,000 GAMBLING DEBT

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 21.—Depositions in a suit to collect a 15 thousand dollar gambling debt from E. R. Handlan, vice-president of the Handlan-Buck Manufacturing company here, were filed today in circuit court.

Louis E. Goldsmith, described as the "greeter and mixer" of the Club Forest, a night club and gambling house near New Orleans, is seeking to recover the 15 thousand dollars Goldsmith claims he purchased from Manasse Garger, manager of the club, innocent of knowledge that it on a note signed by Handlan, which represented settlement of a gambling debt.

Urges Citizen Force to Combat Bandit Gangs

Forming of Citizen Bodies to Aid Officers in Emergencies Would Be Worthy Move

In the early days of western history, when lawlessness got beyond control of authorities, armed bands of men were organized and put fear of God into the hearts of horse-thieves and bandits by catching them and meting out the now famous brand of punishment to offenders.

Banks of every size have been plundered, stealing and holdups occur all around us, and participants make speedy exit with small percentage being brought to justice. The law enforcement of this and adjoining states seems to be helpless, in blocking and apprehending these desperadoes, whose numbers it is evident are growing each day.

Last week Deputy Sheriff W. R. Young in attempting to make an arrest single handed, was shot down and the man no doubt wanted elsewhere for a serious crime made good his escape. Why not? No one knew of it but the immediate few, until too late.

Hundreds of men in this community are anxious and willing to serve if called, as attested by the various posses that combed the hills steadily all day Monday and most of the night. Let's perfect an organization of vigilantes. A group of forty or fifty men notified by the telephone company could gather in such an emergency quickly. And its instant knowledge of the crime makes it effective.

Our fire department call system is right by virtue of the fact a few men on the spot in a few minutes is far better than hundreds arriving when it is too late. It would be of untold benefit to the officers, if members of this proposed vigilance committee as well as residents of the community and those living on main highways near, had the warning of the affair in time to be all eyes and ears.

In the event of a local holdup or major crime in the confines of our city under the present system, the participants can make their escape un-noticed and our efficient police and county officials are powerless for lack of information and leads. Private citizens are not paid for becoming targets for bandits bullets, but many private citizens would rejoice upon beholding a sample of these devils suspended from the limb of a convenient tree, so filled with holes he would not stop rain water.

HOOVER HAS DAY AT CAMP

Orange, Va.—President Hoover Sunday paid what may be his final visit this year to his Virginia mountain camp. The chief executive motored here Sunday morning from Washington to see Herbert Hoover, jr., who is ill, and expected to return to the capital early Monday. It may be the last time that Mr. Hoover will see his son before he is moved about Nov. 1 to Asheville, N. C. The chief executive intends to go to see the Navy-Princeton football game, and plans have been made to take his son to North Carolina the following week.

Alterations are being made to the home on Sunset mountain at Asheville which the son of the president will occupy and the family hopes these will be completed by Nov. 1, as the presidential lodge is not equipped for comfort in cold weather.

President Hoover was accompanied Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. Mark Sullivan of Washington, and Captain Boone, the white house physician. Mrs. Hoover arrived earlier in the week to be with her son.

PUMP AIR TO 150 ENTOMBED MINERS

Aix La Chapelle, Germany, Oct. 21.—With 60 known dead in the triple explosion in the Anna coal mine at Aldort Tuesday, air was being pumped underground Tuesday night in an effort to save the lives of 150 miners still entombed.

Large stores of dynamite exploded 70 feet beneath the surface, completely wrecking the mine shafts. Debris piled up at the opening of the mine, making escape difficult.

The dramatic feature of the tragedy was emphasized tonight when a group of workers, still trapped 1,000 feet below, were able to talk by telephone to those above ground and direct rescue.

Death Call Comes to General Weyler

Spaniard Remembered for Military Rule in Cuba Passes at Age of Ninety-Two

Madrid—Valeriano Weyler, ranking captain general of the Spanish army and chiefly remembered for his stern policies in Cuba just before the Spanish-American war, died Monday. He was ninety-two years old. Three times this year the aged veteran fought off attacks of illness, each thought to be his last. He held on despite all predictions until he fell from a horse last month weakened him.

Monday night General Weyler lay in an improvised chapel in the modest Madrid home where he died, surrounded by his children.

Shortly before his death, it was learned, the old warrior added a codicil to his will ordering that he be buried without state honors and with the most modest funeral possible. "In my time I have seen much of the world," he dictated, "and I know they are worth nothing."

Before the will was revealed officials had planned for a state funeral with the highest military honors. King Alfonso so ordered from Zamora, where he is visiting.

By tonight, however, the family appeared determined to carry out General Weyler's last wishes as far as possible. Unless the relatives yield it is believed that the captain general will be buried without pomp or ceremony Tuesday afternoon in the family plot at San Lorenzo cemetery, where lie his wife and a daughter.—State Journal.

REUNION OF A FAMILY SCATTERED IN 1920

Omaha—A scattered family will be reunited here soon because Mrs. Lloyd Haskins of Omaha would not give up in a ten year search for her daughter, now married and residing in Donna, Tex. Unable to support her two small children, a girl and a boy, after the death of their father in Oklahoma, Mrs. Haskins left them with relatives of her first husband at Hiawatha, Kas. From there the girl was sent to a Topeka, Kas., orphanage and then to a mission at Coffeyville, Kas., after which trace of her was lost. She recently married D. P. Rinehart of Donna, Tex. Through an attorney who knew her daughter, Mrs. Haskins learned that she was in the Texas town. She went there to visit her and elicited a promise from the girl to visit Omaha during the Christmas holidays. She has also brought her boy, now twelve, from a farm near Horton, Kas., and has placed him in school here.

NO DROUTH RELIEF HERE

About 55 percent of the counties in twenty-one states are classified as drouth relief counties. Nebraska does not have a single county in this area while two states, Arkansas and Virginia, have all counties certified as drouth counties, says the state and federal division of agricultural statistics.

A total of 1,016 out of 1,847 counties in twenty-one states have been certified as drouth counties for freight rate reduction. While most of the states within this drouth area are southern and eastern states, four of the cornbelt states, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Missouri are included. Southern states included in the area are Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and West Virginia. The eastern states are Maryland and Pennsylvania and the western states are New Mexico, Wyoming and Montana.

NO DANGER OF MEAT FAMINE

Chicago—E. S. Bayard of Pittsburgh, a farm editor, Monday told the Institute of American Meat Packers that despite the summer drouth that depleted feed there is no danger of a meat famine. Farmers have found other feeds than corn and are feeding livestock to maturity, thus avoiding the violent upset in market procedure feared when the drouth was at its height last summer, he said.

"The famous cattle ranges of western United States and Canada are passing," he added, "and range cattle are becoming a thing of the past, but this same grazing country is being turned into valuable grain growing land, and then the grain is being fed to the livestock in larger numbers than the ranges ever produced."

LEAVE PIN STAY IN LUNG

Lincoln, Oct. 20.—Miss Nora Douglas, 66, Tecumseh, has been released from the Lincoln General hospital, where physicians examined her and found a common pin lodged in her right lung.

The pin is giving her no pain and, unless complications arise, according to Dr. W. L. Curtis, will not be removed immediately.

Dr. Curtis said that Miss Douglas case is rare but parallel to that of J. F. Stoddard, Lincoln man, who was sent to Philadelphia last week for the removal of a nail from his bronchial tube. These two instances within a week were the only ones of which Dr. Curtis had heard of here in 18 years.

The equipment necessary for removal of the pin, Dr. Curtis added, is complicated and expensive.

POINT WON BY PUBLISHERS

Washington—The publishers of the Minneapolis Saturday Press gained a point Monday in their attack upon the Minnesota newspaper suppression law. Appearing from a permanent injunction forbidding further publication of the periodical, they were told by the supreme court that it would hear oral argument in their case and then decide whether it merits a review.

Through Chief Justice Hughes, the nation's high tribunal announced it would reserve judgment on whether the case presents a controversy within its jurisdiction until counsel for the paper have had their say in court. The periodical was suppressed under a Minnesota law, enacted in 1925, which empowers one judge, sitting as a court of equity, to suppress any publication printing "malicious, scandalous, and defamatory matter."

The Journal will appreciate your telephoning news items to No. 6.

WILD LIFE WILL BE RESTORED AT NEBRASKA GAME PRESERVE

The first residents of the Wild Cat Hills Game Preserve in Scotts Bluff county will be received this fall. They will not thunder down the plains to their new place of abode, as the buffalo did nin the days of the great hunts, nor pick their way stealthily along the water courses as the elk did before rude settlers preempted their feeding grounds. They will come ingloriously in trucks from Wind Cave federal game preserve in the Black Hills where six head of yearling buffalo and six head of yearling elk have been purchased by the Nebraska Game Forestation and Parks Commission. These are the forerunners. They will be followed by deer and antelope. Then the peaceful representatives of the plains will be safely lodged in their new home.

Wild Cat Hills game preserve is 1,000 acres in extent. It is in the wild, pine-clad hills south of Gering, reached now by a graveled highway. No. 29. Fence has been put around 300 acres. The fence is eight feet high and exceedingly tight. It serves two purposes. It will keep the buffalo, elk, deer and antelope in, and it will keep destructive wild animals out. Marauding wolves and coyotes prey on young deer, elk and antelope. The young inside the fenced inclosure will be safe from attack.

The preserve will afford a natural haunt for the wild life within the inclosure. Three hundred acres will give sufficient room for the animals and yet enable visitors to see them to advantage. The purpose of the commission in acquiring the preserve is to keep representative specimens of animal life of the plains for posterity to see in a natural habitat. For this reason the preserve is an important reminder of the early life and character of the state.

The federal government has a game preserve near Valentine that contains large numbers of buffalo, elk, deer and antelope. But the inclosure is so large it is difficult to get a glimpse of the animals that keep to cover. The state, through the Game, Forestation and Parks Commission, has just well begun its work of preserving wild life, stocking Nebraska waters with game fish and protecting game against wanton destruction. The preserve in Wild Cat Hills is the largest undertaking but there are 27 reserves in the state, devoted to the protection of game.

A very remarkable work is being done by the Commission. The Wild Cat preserve was purchased with a legislative appropriation but the other projects were acquired either by gifts or bought with funds obtained by the commission from the sale of hunting and fishing licenses. In this way wooded lands are being created and extended; natural lakes are being created and preserved; native game and fish are being multiplied. Through these public activities the rainfall of the state and its fertility are being increased, beauty spots are saved or added to, and Nebraska youth from seven to seventy is supplied with outdoor pleasures that make happy boyhood.

THREE BANKERS INDICTED

Wahoo—Frank J. Kirschman, sr., W. H. Kirschman and Charles T. Podhasky, former clerk in the Wahoo banks of which the former were officers, were charged jointly Tuesday with embezzlement, abstraction, misapplication and making false entries, after indictments were returned by the grand jury.

Podhasky was arrested in Alliance Tuesday night and will be returned immediately to stand trial.

W. M. Kirschmann was arrested for the third time and is to go on trial in district court Nov. 7 on other charges. Frank J. Kirschman is serving a prison term at Lincoln.

The three are charged on twenty-two counts of abstraction, embezzlement and misapplication and eleven counts alleging false entries. The embezzlement charges involve a $27,700 deposit left in the Saunders County National bank by Frank J. Plak for the purpose of paying a farm mortgage against him. This money, the complaint sets out, was not applied to retire the mortgage, but transferred to the Nebraska State Savings bank, operated by the same officers in the same building as the national bank.

Here it was dissipated in various amounts during the latter part of March and the first of April, just prior to the closing of the institutions, until a balance of less than $200 remained. It is alleged.
