World's Task Called Removal of War Causes

Dr. Zimmerman Says Germany Is for Peace and International Cooperation

New York—Removing the causes of war and bitterness is the task now facing the world, said Dr. Alfred E. Zimmerman, Oxford professor and director of the School of International Affairs in General, speaking before the Foreign Policy Association here on Dec. 29. Much has been done, he said, in the first 19 years of peace to strengthen the cause of arbitration and peaceful settlement.

Dr. Zimmerman said that Germany had recognized the necessity for throwing herself wholeheartedly into the new system of peace and international cooperation, and that observers of her internal affairs should not permit the "sensational progress of the Hitler movement and its still more sensational methods" to obscure the "solid progress made by the German Republic in the last 11 years."

"The outstanding fact is," he said, "that the German people since the war have moved across from the column of reaction to the column of democracy, and rendering the four leading states of the world—all of them democracies—the United States, Great Britain, Germany and France."

"Leaving aside the United States, there is no genuine basis for cooperation between the three leading European democracies, together with the smaller states such as Holland, Switzerland, the Northern States and Czechoslovakia, who fully share the democratic ideal."

That the German people would acquire in this policy of cooperation with Great Britain and France was determined in 1915, Dr. Zimmerman said, when, he believed, Gustav Stresemann "made the choice for their own sake and for all."

"There are only two possible policies," he continued, "either to throw herself wholeheartedly into the new system of peace and international cooperation, relying on public opinion to bring about the necessary adjustments in the status quo, or to build up a new diplomatic combination directed against France and the Little Entente. By the acceptance of the Kellogg Pact, the German people have made their choice between these alternatives."

The imperative need for the preservation of the "triangle of the three great powers" was apparent to all close students of the situation, Dr. Zimmerman said.

Dr. Zimmerman referred to Germany's impatience with the slow progress made in the direction of disarmament and declared that this issue has been "settled by a good deal of confused thinking. The German people had shown, he said, by their support of the Stresemann policy that they realize "it is idle to hope for redress of their grievances by war."

Dr. Nathan and Dr. Niebuhr were in agreement that the basic reason for political difficulties today in Germany was "the serious economic situation resulting from the world-wide depression and the economic disturbances continually brought about by the reparations payments."

Dr. Niebuhr declared that the victory of Fascism and Communism had "very often been overestimated" and urged a spirit of international understanding in discussions of the German economic situation.

Dr. Niebuhr took a pessimistic view of the growth of Fascism and Communism in Germany and declared that it had greatly lessened the power and prestige of the parliamentary parties. This situation would grow more acute, he said, unless there was some abatement of the present economic distress and some readjustment in the reparations commitments.

Canada Can See a Saving
Montreal—A new process for burning pyrite ores makes it possible that sulphur in Canada on a commercial basis within a very short time, says the monthly letter of the Royal Bank of Canada.

"It is hoped," the letter says, "that by making use of a new process for burning Canadian pyrite ore, invented by Horace Freeman of Shawinigan Falls, Quebec, that the newsprint industries can advantageously discontinue annual purchases of more than four and one half million dollars worth of sulphur from abroad. In addition to direct savings to the newsprint and chemical industries, the total annual iron ore requirements of Toronto and Quebec."

RAP TAKEN AT PREMIER
London—David Lloyd George, the liberal leader, Friday turned his verbal artillery once more against the labor government charging that Ramsay MacDonald spent altogether too much time in the negotiations of the London naval conference which might well have been left to some other member of the ministry.

His latest onslaught, which set political observers to asking themselves how much longer the labor liberal combination could last, was in the form of a statement to the press in connection with a controversy between Lloyd George and Vernon Harcourt, lord privy seal, some of whose statistics in connection with government unemployment relief the liberal head has challenged.

STRIKERS TO BE EVICTED

Danville, Va.—Writs of possession requiring fourteen strikers' families to vacate mill-owned homes are expected to be served next Monday, Constable R. M. Foster said Monday night. The writs were granted Tuesday by Magistrate W. E. Griggs, at a hearing resulting from eviction proceedings taken by the management of the Riverside and Dan River mills, whose union employees are on strike.

Constable Foster said he expected to receive the writs by Friday, the day after Christmas, but that the serving of them probably would not be done until next week. No defense was offered against the eviction proceedings at the hearing Tuesday. Union leaders said the evicted families would be cared for in other strikers' homes.

"The recent attack upon you... of the republican national committee, clearly shows that... you and other insurgent republicans are not wanted in the G. O. P. by those that control the machine," Dr. Dewey said in his letter.

Dr. Dewey was formerly professor of philosophy at Columbia university. The league he heads seeks to form a new party. He declared the republican party stands for "rugged" individualism, while Norris stands for "social planning and social control" and places human rights above property rights.

"These are antagonistic philosophies," he wrote. "The republican party is a house divided against itself." He added the democratic party stands for the same principles as a new party former of liberal forces "could win the presidency by 1940," he declared.

Says 5-Day Week, Long-Term Loans Basis for Relief
Robinson Thinks Public Works Appropriation Is Inadequate—To Speed Up Program

Little Rock, Ark., Dec. 25.—The five-day week for labor may be the solution to the increasing substitution of machinery for hand labor, United States Senator Joe T. Robinson, senate democratic leader, believes.

In a statement upon his return home for the holidays Senator Robinson said today unemployment "seems to be increasing rather than diminishing," and "the substitution of machinery for hand labor is revolutionizing working conditions and throwing millions out of employment."

"Many circumstances," he continued, "indicate that mere temporary measures will be insufficient, although, of course, they must first be considered."

The 110 million dollar appropriation by congress for speeding up public works "appears inadequate," the senator continued, adding that "the voluntary funds available for Red Cross work must be supplemented by appropriations from the federal and state treasuries" for adequate relief through strikers' states.

"It has been difficult—almost impossible—to bring the true situation to the consciousness of those in authority who do not reside in the territory most vitally affected," he said. He announced that he intends to "join with others in pressing legislation authorizing long-term loans to the states for use in immediate construction of 'farm to market' roads, and to municipalities to enable them to carry on necessary public works," and asserted that these may provide a substantial relief.

Will Take Time
"There are many signs of general business improvement, but the recovery cannot be quickly made," he added.

"To restore the equilibrium between the labor supply and the demand for laborers, the industries of the United States may find it necessary to resort to the five-day week. Manifestly it is difficult for this to be brought about during an economic crisis like the present."

Senator Robinson said the establishment of reserves for unemployment has been proposed, but this could be made available only after the lapse of a considerable period, and "like the five-day proposal, is of permanent rather than temporary character."—World-Herald.

SAYS NORRIS MASQUERADER

Syracuse, N. Y.—Senator Norris has been "masquerading as a republican" and should not be rated as an affiliate of the party, Representative Hancock, republican, home for the Christmas holidays, declared here Thursday, in commenting on the controversy in Washington between the Nebraska senator and Robert H. Lucas, the executive director of the republican national committee.

"He was nominated by the democrats and elected by the democrats, but he could be made available only after the lapse of a considerable period, and "like the five-day proposal, is of permanent rather than temporary character."—World-Herald.

Norris Asked to Join in Forming of a New Party

Invitation by Dr. John Dewey to Sever Forever His Connection With the Republicans.

New York—An invitation to Senator George Norris of Nebraska to "sever forever" his connection with the republican party and help form a third party was extended Thursday by Dr. John Dewey, chairman of the league for independent political action.

"The recent attack upon you... of the republican national committee, clearly shows that... you and other insurgent republicans are not wanted in the G. O. P. by those that control the machine," Dr. Dewey said in his letter.

Dr. Dewey was formerly professor of philosophy at Columbia university. The league he heads seeks to form a new party. He declared the republican party stands for "rugged" individualism, while Norris stands for "social planning and social control" and places human rights above property rights.

"These are antagonistic philosophies," he wrote. "The republican party is a house divided against itself." He added the democratic party stands for the same principles as a new party former of liberal forces "could win the presidency by 1940," he declared.

Christmas Truce At Washington
Washington contrary to the signal flares which went up from opposing sides at the holiday approach, a truce prevailed over Christmas day in the republican party dispute. Twenty-four hours of silence settled down over Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the republican national committee, and his supporters. Likewise, no word came from Senator Norris, whose republicanism Lucas questioned, nor from the republican independents in the senate who have called for Lucas' resignation because of his opposition to Norris' re-election.

Already Senator Watson, the republican leader, and Representative Wood of Indiana, chairman of the republican congressional committee, have aligned themselves with Lucas. Watson said the "selection of officials for the national committee is one belonging to the president. If he wants to keep Lucas I will support him to the limit."

The president, although closely watching the flare of developments which sprang from Lucas' testimony before the campaign funds committee that he paid for campaign literature to be used against Norris, has said no word nor given any indication of his position.

A final burst of statements heralded the holiday. Two came from Lucas, one from Wood and one from Senator Howell, Norris' colleague. Lucas dictated his to the republican national committee from his Louisville home. He described as "millionaires" the assertion of Norris that the president was behind the anti-Norris move, and said he had no quarrel with the other republican independents who from time to time have opposed administration policies.

Wood said the president had nothing to do with his previous declaration from the white house steps, in which he joined Lucas in calling for party repudiation of Norris. Howell declared that Lucas step out of office.—State Journal.
