Death Calls Long Time Democratic Party Leader

William D. Wheeler, Loved and Honored Resident of County Passes Away at Country Home

From Tuesday's Daily—
This morning at 4 o'clock at "Oakwood," the Wheeler country home near Rock Bluffs, William D. Wheeler, long time a loved and honored citizen of Cass county and eastern Nebraska, was called to the last long rest. The death of Mr. Wheeler came after an illness that has covered several years and which he has been gradually failing until the final summons came to still his long and useful life.

In the last thirty-five years there have been few men that has been as active in the political life of the county as was Mr. Wheeler, he with the ardor of his birthland in the south, being a strong supporter of the democratic party and in whose councils he long held a place of honor and by whom he had been honored with party leadership at many times. Mr. Wheeler was a friend from early days of the late William Jennings Bryan and was one of his close friends and supporters in his early political struggles and served loyally and enthusiastically in the cause of his loved leader.

William D. Wheeler was born January 20, 1857, in the state of Mississippi, coming when a youth of eighteen years to the central west and settling in Cass county, Nebraska, where he has since resided. It was here in the Cook family home near this city on November 3, 1878, that Mr. Wheeler and Miss Mary Cook were joined in the bonds of wedlock and for the more than fifty years of wedded life their's has been a home of happiness and love, whose threshold is entered now to take from the circle of love, the husband and father, leaving bereft the family of the one they love.

In the year 1897 Mr. Wheeler was elected to the office of sheriff of Cass county, and served with distinction in that office two terms and was then named by the democratic party as their candidate for county treasurer, being elected and re-elected to that office. Few have had the general confidence and esteem of friend and foe alike as Mr. Wheeler and his honesty and integrity won him hosts of friends in all parts of the county. On the retirement from county office Mr. Wheeler retired to the farm home that he and his wife had purchased in his declining years has lived peacefully amid the scenes that were so dear to him.

In 1912 Mr. Wheeler was elected as a delegate to the democratic national convention and took part in the convention at the national state and to enthusiastically support the principles that he believed so necessary to the national welfare.

Mr. Wheeler is survived by the widow, Mrs. Mary Wheeler, and five children, Mrs. Pearl Butterson, residing at home, William A. Wheeler of Murray, Percy J. Wheeler, of near the old home, Joseph C. Wheeler of Omaha and Mrs. Robert Patterson at home. There are also two grandchildren, Robert Wheeler and Shirley Jean Wheeler, to mourn the passing of this good man.

In the bereavement of death the family has the sympathy of the friends who can but feel the loss as one personal to themselves as well as to the family.

CITY HAS HOLIDAY

From Monday's Daily—
The anniversary of the 199th birthday anniversary of George Washington, first president, falling on Sunday this year, brought the holiday on Monday and accordingly today was the date set for the official observance.

Owing to the fact that the railroad shops are having an enforced vacation this week, the holiday was more general over the city, the banks being closed in honor of the first president and the offices at the court house were also largely closed. A few of the county officers being around the government building. The business houses of the city were operating as usual and the schools functioning as usual despite the holiday.

SUFFERING FROM FLU

From Monday's Daily—
G. A. Kvasnicka, history teacher in the Plattsmouth high school, was confined to his home today as the result of a very severe attack of the flu, from which he has been suffering for several days. Mr. Kvasnicka was not feeling well during the last of the week and his condition grew much worse Sunday and kept him confined to his bed for the greater part of the time, and while somewhat improved today he is still far from well.

RECOVER STOLEN CAR

From Tuesday's Daily—
Sheriff Bert Reed was called last evening by the sheriff at Holton, Kansas, informing him that the Hubmobile sedan of William T. Distell, of this city, which was stolen Sunday night here from near the St. Johns church, had been found at Holton. The message stated that the car had been abandoned at Holton and was apparently in good shape and not damaged by the joy ride of the car thieves. It was reported that the Distell car with three occupants had been seen south of this city about 9 o'clock Sunday night and which was doubtless the car thieves en route to Kansas.

140 Miles Paving in Road Program; Total $5,000,000

Engineer Roy Cochran to Ask Bids on Second Group of Projects March 20

From Tuesday's Daily—
Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 23.—Completion of the graveled cutoff between Clarks and Omaha, through David City and Wahoo, which will have approximately 20 miles as compared with the present Lincoln highway route through Columbus and Fremont, is included in the list of 34 projects on which the state highway department will call for bids March 20, it was announced by State Engineer Roy Cochran this morning.

The letting, representing an expenditure of approximately three million dollars, will include 90 miles of paving, 265 miles of gravel surfacing, and 53 miles of grading. Approximately two million dollars' worth of highway work also will be placed under contract next Friday. This week's letting, together with that scheduled for March 20, will place more than five million dollars' worth of road construction work under contract. Paving will total 140 miles.

Among the major paving projects included in the March letting will be the letting of approximately three million dollars for the Lincoln highway between Central City and Clarks. This will complete the paving of the highway between Grand Island and Omaha, with the exception of approximately 25 miles between Clarks and Columbus. It is not considered likely that this remaining gap will be filled in this summer.

An eight-mile gravel project east of Winslow will complete the graveled route from Norfolk to Sioux City and will provide an all-weather road between the two cities, which will save more than 15 miles as compared with the present route through West Point.

A nine-mile grading and graveling project west of Randolph will bring the scenic highway No. 20 from Sioux City west through Valentine, Crawford and Wyoming to the Lincoln highway between Central City and Clarks. Only that portion of the road between Crookston and Valentine and a few miles near Springview, will remain to be surfaced. It is probable that the entire highway will be surfaced before the end of the summer.

Pave Auburn Road.
An eight-mile paving project north and south of Auburn on No. 75 will complete the pavement from a point five miles south of Auburn to Omaha. Completion of this project will leave only about 35 miles unpaved between the Kansas line and Omaha.

Another paving project of particular importance to eastern Nebraska is that between Wahoo and the Platte river, near Yutan. This will provide a continuous paved road from Omaha to Wahoo. This particular highway bears the greater share of the heavy commercial traffic into Omaha from Saunders, Butler, Seward, Polk, York, Hamilton and Merrick counties.

The American Legion Auxiliary met on Friday afternoon at the Legion building in a short session as many of the members desired to attend the World Day of Prayer service at the M. E. church and an early adjournment was taken.

The Auxiliary received letters of appreciation from the St. John's school and from Miss Amelia Martens of the city grade schools for the donation that had been made for the school work.

It was voted also to give $10 to the prizes of the Daughters of the American Revolution that will be used in the construction of a living memorial to George Washington in trees and shrubs that will be planted this season and dedicated in February 1932.

The Auxiliary also voted $2.50 for the prizes of the Daughters of the American Revolution that will be used in the construction of a living memorial to George Washington in trees and shrubs that will be planted this season and dedicated in February 1932.

Mrs. George Conis Has a Close Call from Death Sunday

Overcome by Gas She Collapsed in Kitchen and Was Found Later by Family.

From Monday's Daily—
Sunday morning while Mrs. George Conis was engaged in preparing the laundry at the family apartments over the Palace Shining parlor, she was overcome by gas and for several hours her condition was very critical and it was after the noon hour when she was able to regain consciousness.

Mrs. Conis was working in the kitchen and it is thought that in some way one of the jets in the gas stove had become partly open and as the housewife was busy with the cooking she failed to notice it and the gas gradually leaked into the room from the partly open jet. Mrs. Conis noticed a slight odor but thought it was fumes from the hot cleaning room on the lower floor of the building and did not think much of the matter until a short time later when she became dizzy and had to walk to the front part of the house and open a window to secure fresh air.

Mrs. Conis later returned to the kitchen and was overcome very suddenly, the first intimation of the trouble being when she collapsed and fell to the floor of the kitchen, the two children, Catherine and John, playing in the front rooms of the home heard the fall and seeing the mother prone on the floor ran to the shining parlor where they secured Mrs. Conis and hastened to the kitchen and carried the wife to the bedroom and summoned medical aid. Dr. R. P. Westover arrived at the scene and at once pronounced the lady as suffering from gas and it was some time before she was able to be revived.

This morning Mrs. Conis was able to be around the house but is still quite weak from the effects of the ordeal that she has gone through.

Plattsmouth Masons Boost New Building

Need of New Structure at Masonic Home Leads to Local Lodge Doubling Its Quota

From Tuesday's Daily—
Past Master's night at Plattsmouth lodge No. 6, A. F. & A. M. of this city, has grown to be an event looked forward to with the greatest of interest by the members of the order and the annual event last evening was no exception to the rule, being a great outpouring of the members of the order and the expression of the spirit of care to the sick and ailing of the order in providing a greater and larger home for their care.

The lodge opened with the conferring of the M. M. degree and in which the Past Masters filed the various offices and conducted the work in the most impressive manner, this part of the session taking up a great deal of the evening. Deputy Grand Master John R. Tapster, of North Bend, was present and viewed the work of the past masters in receiving their new brother into the order.

Following the degree work there was presentation of a veteran medal to George W. Rhoden, who has for fifty-three years been a member of Plattsmouth lodge No. 6, and ranks as one of the veterans of the order. Several of the newer members also received special decorations that added to the interest of the evening.

The banquet hall was bright with the red, white and blue that symbolized the event of Washington's birthday a national figure in Masonry as well as in the general history of his country. On the table miniature cherry trees were used in the decorative plan of the evening.

Raymond C. Cook, past master, lent his delightful humor and wit to the role of toastmaster and in this position was well chosen in his introductions of the various speakers.

Leslie W. Niel spoke of the national Washington memorial that is planned to be dedicated in February 1932 on the 200th anniversary of the birth of the first president, giving a very clear outline of the great monument that Masonry is erecting on the banks of the Potomac river to the memory of Washington as the national leader and Mason.

With a beauty of language and flow of the grand lodge, this amount gave the principal address of the evening on "Washington, the Mason and Man," giving a wonderful word painting of the work of the great national leader in the order of which was a member and in his life as a man among men in the history of the nation that he had helped found.

H. A. Schneider then was called upon and told of the condition of the Nebraska Masonic Home here where there is a great need of additional room, of the projected building that would cost $200,000 to be used as living quarters for the aged and ailing of the order that could find there rest and comfort that they so much needed. This building is badly needed and it is the desire of the grand master that its erection be assured by individual donations rather than an assessment on the members of the grand lodge, this amount would be approximately $5 per capita and it was wished that this amount could be raised without the necessity of an assessment. Mr. Schneider on behalf of Plattsmouth lodge No. 6, presented to the deputy grand master, per capita that aggregated some $2,800 from the local lodge or more than double the quota that would be asked of the members. This sum represents the voluntary offering of the local Masonry and in all cases where the members have been approached they have pledged their part of the sum with the greatest enthusiasm.

Following the presentation by Mr. Schneider of the Home pledges, Deputy Grand Master Tapster gave a very fine address on Masonry, also expressing his appreciation of the interest shown in the work of the order in the Plattsmouth lodge. Mr. Tapster was followed with the greatest of interest by the members and presented a very fine exposition of the work of the order in the state of Nebraska.

Ludwig Hallas Purchases Bank at Shelton, Neb

Well Known Murray Banker Associated With Brother in Bank in West Part of State

From Wednesday's Daily—
Ludwig J. Hallas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hallas, of this city, who has for the past several years been engaged as cashier of the Murray State bank at Murray, is to engage in the banking business at Shelton, in the west part of the state, in the future.

Mr. Hallas with his brother, Adolph Hallas of Omaha, have purchased the majority of the stock of the bank at Shelton and on Monday L. J. Hallas and W. G. Boedecker, president of the Murray State bank, were at Shelton where Mr. Boedecker assisted in the checking up of the affairs of the bank and on Tuesday morning Mr. Hallas took charge of the bank as president of the new organization. C. J. Hornsby, of Shelton, who has been the cashier of the bank, will continue in his present capacity under Mr. Hallas.

Shelton is located twenty miles from Kearney and ten miles from Wood River, in a very fine country that should make an ideal location for the banking business.

"Lud" as he was so well known to the best of friends here and at Murray, has shown splendid ability in his banking work at Murray and with his experience under the careful training of Mr. Boedecker, should make a real institution of the Shelton bank.

The Hallas family are planning on moving from Murray in the next two weeks, disposing of their residence property to Harry Nelson and in the going of this excellent family, Murray will lose a splendid family, but they will take with them in the new home the best wishes of the old time friends.

Dr. Joseph E. Hall will be remembered by a great many in Cass county as he was for a number of years engaged in the practice of medicine at Weeping Water and was at one time a partner of Dr. J. B. Hungate in that city and also was engaged in the practice alone for some years. He has, however, for a great many years made his home in Indiana.

Local Library One of the Busy Spots in City

Rev. H. G. McClusky Gives Some Pertinent Facts as to This Important Local Institution

The Plattsmouth public library is one of the busiest places in our fair city. Step in any afternoon about four o'clock and watch those in charge work. Besides Miss Jones, the librarian, and Miss Leonard, assistant, it has been necessary to employ the services of two high school girls, Miss Madge Garnett, and Miss Petersen who render valued assistance.

The report of the month of January this year shows it to have been the busiest month in the history of the library. The largest daily circulation was 319 and the smallest, 95. There was an increase over December 1930, of 418, and in increase over January 1930 of 648. The total for the month was 4313. Books of fiction run six times that of non-fiction. It shows how people like to dwell in the ideals of the imagination, rather than the commonplaces of real life. There are twice the number of adult readers over children which shows that children do not comprise the main patrons of the library.

And yet speaking of the children, the library has become a mecca for our children. They have their section where their books are easily reached, and tables for their size. They have models, instructive to look at, pictures that thrill and inspire; and above all they find in Miss Jones and Miss Leonard, a motherly interest and tenderness that is of invaluable influence for them. On Friday afternoon each week, the story hour has become so attractive, that they nearly stand in line to get in and be able to listen. The grade teachers have proven adepts in the art of winning the affection of these children, through their skill in telling these stories. When you and your young they used to shoo us out of libraries lest we make a noise and disturb the deep study of the adult. But now they give children careful attention to direct their early seeking for truth.

There is one thing especially we can be grateful for, the library has no books in our library that we need fear to have our children read. Our librarian has always made it a careful effort to call all books so that only the good and the best find places on the shelves. Another thing should give us thanks for our librarians are the finest wagons in books. The other day she showed me a book that is priced $7.00 which she secured for $1.50. "Tales of the sword fish and the Tuna," by Zane Grey. You deep sea fishermen would like to read that.

Our Governor has tried to dispense with the State Library Board Commission. It would be a shame to abolish this most beneficial department of our state activity in library work. They supply books to rural communities that cannot have libraries at the state penitentiary with books or philosophy and psychology with fine wholesome reading books. One prisoner said, "If we fellows had these kind of books when we were young, we would not be here today." This commission gave Plattsmouth's library wonderful help in acquiring several years ago when we were struggling to a healthy start. To abolish such a commission would be like trying to live on bread and water, and wear calico dresses in order to increase our bank account. Surely Nebraska is not so poor that she must deny her children good books to read in order to save a wee bit of tax money. Surely we do not want to progress in that direction. May this commission be retained.

H. G. McCLUSKY.
