La Follette Can See No Prospect of Third Party

Senator Says That Bugaboo Will Not Be Met in 1932 Presidential Campaign.

Miami Beach—Senator LaFollette said a third party, which he called the bugaboo of nearly every presidential campaign, often is talked, but never develops into a serious branch of contention, and will not do so in 1932. Senator LaFollette is here with Mrs. LaFollette for a two weeks' vacation at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Stephenson. "Whatever outlet a so-called third party will find, it will not be in a presidential vote, but in election of representatives who find their constituencies agree with their thought and support their independent action in congress," the senator said. "Perhaps in the distant future, and everything points that way now, there will be gradual disintegration of the present parties. The voters are thinking independently of party lines. They are growing to think more so every year. But the machines will continue, perhaps because on feasible substitute has been found for their function.

"Independent or progressive voting," Senator LaFollette continued, "is a good indication that the country is alive and is thinking. It will be viewed seriously only by those politicians who fear defeat."

He asserted the recent meeting of independents in Washington was not a move to establish a new party, but merely to bring together experts and representatives for formation of a tangible basis on which to work for legislation at the next session of congress.

"The country needs definite, well-informed law-making bodies," he said, "and we merely were laying the foundation to obtain the advice and experience of men who should know."

Camp Fire Work Shown Before Woman's Club

Girls Under Direction of Guardians Stage Ceremonial at Library Monday Evening

From Tuesday's Daily—
The members of the Plattsmouth Woman's club last evening at their meeting at the public library auditorium had the pleasure of a demonstration of the work of the Camp Fire girls, the ceremonial being staged by the girls of the Aweont and Te He Ha camps. The young folks gave a very fine showing of their work and the awarding of the honors in the two camps was shown and the two guardians, Miss Alice Crabill and Miss Marjorie Shopp, are deserving of a great deal of credit for their care and interest in the work with the little folks.

The program was under the direction of the Community service department of the club and comprised the campfire work at this time, bringing to the members of the club and their guests a better and more intimate knowledge of the work of this splendid organization.

The ladies had as their school guests Miss Carlyne Thomas and Miss Lucille Albert.

The meeting was very largely attended and the greatest of interest was shown in the proceedings of the club.

LEADERSHIP TRAINING SCHOOL

The Cass County Ministers and Laymen League takes great pleasure in announcing that a Leadership Training School will be held in the county this spring. This will afford an unusual opportunity to those interested in Sunday school and other religious work. Heretofore these schools have been confined almost entirely to the large cities such as Lincoln, Hastings, etc.

The purpose of the school is to make us better and more capable workers in our churches, especially in the Sunday school.

The school will be held beginning Friday evening May 1st, and will continue for five evenings. (Sunday afternoon.)

The school will be held in Murdock which will give all in the west end of the county a splendid opportunity to attend.

The school is sponsored by the Cass County Ministers and Laymen League; is under the auspices of the State Council of Religious Education, and is supervised by the International Council of Religious Education.

Watch the papers for further information. (Next week: "Who's Who?" in the Cass County School of Leadership Training.)

FUNERAL OF MISS McNURLIN

From Wednesday's Daily—
The funeral services of the late Miss Dora McNurlin were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the First Presbyterian church, a large number of the old time friends and neighbors of the family being present to pay their last tributes to the departed lady.

The services were conducted by the Rev. H. G. McClusky, pastor of the church, who gave words of comfort to the bereaved relatives and paid tribute to the memory of the departed lady.

During the services a quartet gave two numbers, "Abide With Me," and "Jesus Savior Pilot Me," and Frank A. Clodt gave a solo number, "Wonderful Peace."

The interment was at the Horning cemetery south of this city where the parents of Miss McNurlin are at the last long rest.

HAS AUTO STOLEN

From Monday's Daily—
Miss Mathilde Soennichsen, on returning home yesterday afternoon from a short auto trip, left her automobile, a Dodge coach, parked in the street near the Soennichsen residence, intending later to run the car into the garage and sometime during the night some party or parties made away with the car. The car was not missed until this morning when Miss Soennichsen and father, H. M. Soennichsen were starting for the store. The matter was reported to the office of Sheriff Bert Reed and the authorities of the various nearby cities asked to keep a lookout for the missing car.

RECEIVES PROMOTION

The many friends in the city of Arley Griffin, who a few weeks ago re-enlisted in the U. S. navy, will be pleased to learn that Arley has received a promotion and is now rates as third class cook, a rank that brings with it an advancement in pay as well as a higher rating. He is back on the battleship Idaho, assigned to the Pacific fleet and on which boat he spent the greater part of his former enlistment of four years. Arley was here for a short time following his release from service in November to spend the holiday season with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Griffin as well as the old time friends in the city.

SMALL FIRE TUESDAY

A small fire occurred Tuesday afternoon at the garage in the Ebersole building on South Sixth street, which however, was put out before any damage was done to the building or contents. Workmen were engaged in working on an auto and trying to get it to start and suddenly the car backfired and with the result that the force of the explosion caused the gasoline line to come loose and a part of the gas caught fire. The fire department was called but the fire was checked before any damage was done.

Famous Indiana Cave is Opened to Public View

Marks Feature of Restoration of Pioneer Post of Spring Mill

Spring Mill, Ind.—What is said to be the third largest cave system in the United States has been chartered and opened to the public as one of the features of the village of Spring Mill which is being restored as it stood in 1816 by the Indiana Department of Conservation, of which Richard Lieber is director.

The undertaking goes much further than other restoration projects, in that it calls for not only the physical restoration of the town, but also the re-peopleing of the pioneer village and the reestablishing of its industries, Mr. Lieber said.

Visitors will meet men and women on the street clad in the costumes of pioneer days. They will hear the whir of the spindle and the clank of the loom in the restored industries. They may stay at the quaint tavern and sleep beneath coverlets of the design of another age or rest upon antique furniture. Upon the walls will be the crude maps the pioneers followed into the new world. Visitors may shop for primitive pottery or stroll through gardens of old-fashioned flowers.

"The department has collected all types of lighting devices prior to the advent of the oil lamp as part of the refurbishing," Mr. Lieber said.

"The clock exhibit, too, is most complete, having big and little ones with varied voices. China, pottery and glassware will be that of a design and craftsmanship popular in pioneer days. Coverlets and quilts represent the fabric and designs of other days. In no sense, however, will the appearance be that of a museum. All objects have been worked into the natural settings in a casual plan of furnishing that is historically accurate."

The tiny apothecary shop, post office, hattery and old mill have already been completed. Work will soon start on restoration of the spinning house, smithy, coopershop, cabinet factory, tannery, loom house, cord-wainer's shop and school. The tavern will be ready for occupancy by spring, those in charge announce.

An engineer has just penetrated the Donaldson, or Shownee Cave, which is a part of the pioneer location, to the extent of 3228 feet, part of the distance being by boat. He has pronounced this cave cut by running water in the soluble Mitchell limestone as one of the most interesting in the State. It is a young cave still in the formative stage.

The Spring Mill site and the portion of the cave to be opened to the public have become public-owned lands under administration of the conservation Department.

DISSOLUTION OF HOUSE OF KIDDER-PEABODY

New York.—Dissolution of the firm of Kidder, Peabody & Co., one of the oldest banking houses in the country, was announced. It will be succeeded by a new partnership under the same name.
