Arrest of Noted Gunman Brings Many Surmises

Capture of Fred Burke May Reveal Many Stories of Underworld of Many Cities

Chicago, March 26.—Will the arrest of Fred Burke near St. Joseph, Mo., Thursday, unleash a new Pandora's box of criminal secrets?

Chicago wondered Thursday night as a detective squad sped southward to claim him for this city—arrest him for a part in the St. Valentine day massacre, most spectacular page in Chicago's black record of gangland.

For though he was named by a coroner's jury as one of the killers, Chicago was confident that back of him lay some greater, more sinister force, such as "Al" Capone, long an enemy of the "Bugs" Moran gang, seven of whose members were mowed in the machine-gun slaying. Or the north side Genna brothers, acting to slay an enemy of the north side.

The new car found at Burke's farm hideout was traced Thursday night and brought what authorities regarded as new evidence that Burke still had Capone ties.

Next door to Ralph Capone's Cotton club by a man answering the description of Ted Newberry, the gangster who deserted "Bugs" Moran for a more profitable connection with Capone.

If Burke talks officers are confident they can bare gangland secrets that hitherto not even the most drastic measures have uncovered. If he reveals the links in his tangled history, they believe a new blow may be struck at gang ramifications.

Fred H. Burke, wife of the notorious gunman, was arrested in Kansas City Thursday night. Police questioned her in an effort to determine what she knew of Burke's criminal career.

A trivial family dispute resulted in the overnight transportation of Burke from the estate of a wealthy, respected resident in St. Joseph, Mich., to that of the most widely-sought and highest-priced criminal in recent history of the United States. Records totalling $101,000 are on his head.

Burke, under the alias of Fred Dane, had purchased a palatial home near St. Joseph late in the summer of 1929. On the evening of Dec. 14 he went to meet his common-law wife, Viola Brennenman. In a traffic dispute, Charles Skeryg, 24-year-old traffic officer, leaped to the running board of Burke's car to arrest him.

Slays Policeman. Without warning the gunman drew a revolver and fired three slugs into the policeman's body. Skelly fell to the ground, his body struck away through the gathering crowd, smashed his car against a pole, commanded another and then another until he reached Paw Paw, Mich., where the trail was lost.

Detectives found in the Burke home a concealed arsenal and $219,850 in bonds stolen from the Farmers and Merchants bank of Jefferson, Wis. Another squad took Viola Brennenman into custody. She broke down and confessed Fred Dane was Fred R. Burke.

Identify Death Bullets. While indignant Berrien county citizens and the insurance company that held a policy on the slain policeman's life posted rewards totalling $75,000, two machine guns, the heavy pieces of the seized arsenal, were rushed to Chicago.

Mal. Calvin Goddard, firearms expert working in co-operation with the Chicago and New York police departments, made tests and secretly revealed his findings to authorities of both cities.

Commissioner Grover Whalen of New York announced one of the machine guns had been used in the slaying of Frankie Uale and that Burke, when arrested, would be questioned for possible complicity in the one-way ride of Frank Marlowe.

Valentine Day Massacre. A coroner's jury in Chicago, basing its verdict on the same evidence, named Burke as master of the assassins who executed seven members of the "Bugs" Moran gang in a North Clark street garage on Feb. 14, 1929, seven months after the Uale killing.

Results of the ballistics tests were forwarded to Detroit and although they failed to aid police there in connecting Burke with the slaughter in March, 1927, of three gangsters—Frank Wright, Joseph Bloom and Ruben Cohen, he continued to be suspected of the crime.

Meanwhile reports picturing Burke as one of the most dangerous felons in crime annals were issued from three widely-separated cities and several other communities demanded his detention for grilling as a possible participant in bank robberies.

PAROLE FACTS ARE GIVEN

Springfield, Ill.—W. C. Jones, chairman of the Illinois board of pardons and paroles, has promised the legislative committee investigating Illinois prisons a digest of parole action taken in every convict's case in any of the state's penal institutions. He also put in the hands of Roger Little, chairman of the committee the data on all convicts the committee will hear on its return to Joliet Friday, thus affording full information of the record of the convicts with a full explanation of history and conduct in prison and action by the parole board.

PAT MARR RECOVERS MILLION IN STOCKS. New York, March 26.—The Herald-Tribune said today that Pat Marr, whose spectacular oil operations brought him a fortune at 23, and a prison sentence shortly afterwards, had won a decision in the court of appeals at Albany involving more than a million dollars in stock.

Marr charged he was induced to exchange his stock in the Marr Oil corporation for shares in the Southern States corporation by misrepresentation on the part of his own agents, Arthur T. Rottenberg and Louis T. McFadden.

San Francisco—David Pinkes, salesman, was blamed by a coroner's jury for the shooting of a young woman known variously as Mrs. Florence Pinkes, the salesman's wife, and Florine Bennett. Only three witnesses appeared before the jury, two of them expressing fear Pinkes killed himself after his wife was shot last night. The forty-five year old salesman still is sought.

Kansas to Raise Tax on Trucks and Motorbuses

Railway Employees Join in the Circulating of Petitions for Strict Control

Topeka, Kan.—More strict and rigid truck and bus supervision and increases in the tax on carriers in Kansas will result from the passage of bills recently signed by Gov. Harry H. Woodring. The principal provisions of the measures concern a tax for the maintenance of the highways.

More than 50,000 Kansans signed petitions to the Legislature urging higher taxes and fees from trucks and buses for the use of highways. Most of these petitions were said to be signed by railroad men and their families or were presented by employees who observed the business of the railroads slipping because of the truck and bus competition, and the possibility that many jobs would be abolished because of the abandonment of train services.

Railroads without bus lines feel the motor bus should pay more taxes, while the two big railroads, which also own bus subsidiaries, do not want the taxes raised to a point where their bus lines will be unprofitable. As a result there were two groups of railroad lobbyists.

Some of the petitioners wanted to bar trucks and buses from the highways altogether, while others wanted them to run only at night. As signed by the Governor, the bill requires trucks operating within 25 miles of the home station to pay the special truck license fees, but not the gross ton mileage fee. This fee is one-half a mill per ton mile for every mile the truck or bus is operated within the State outside the 25-mile limit.

For buses it is figured at the weight of the bus plus 150 pounds for each available seat. For trucks it is figured at the weight of the truck plus 200 per cent of the rated capacity. The tax is to be paid whether the truck or bus is operated empty or loaded.

The weight limit was fixed at 23,000 pounds for any one vehicle. After July 1 all trucks must have pneumatic tires. The length was regulated to 35 feet for buses and 50 feet for trucks, under certain restrictions. Each vehicle is to be equipped with lights fore and aft, two separate sets of brakes and a mirror.

There is at present no speed limit on Kansas highways. The adopted bill provides that trucks weighing more than 7000 pounds shall not exceed 30 miles an hour, and that buses holding "certificates of convenience and necessity of licenses from the public service commission may operate at a rate of speed which is reasonable and is with proper regard for the conditions of the road, and is in conformity with the city ordinance of any city where operated, but in no case greater than 40 miles per hour."

D. A. R. PLACED ON RECORD. Crete—Reports of officers and committees were heard in Wednesday's program of the twenty-ninth annual state convention of Daughters of the American Revolution, in progress here. A banquet was scheduled at which N. A. Gains, Lincoln, was to be the principal speaker.

The session adopted five resolutions, among which was one in response to a request made by Mrs. C. S. Paine of Lincoln. It asked the governor and the state legislature for a special appropriation for removal of the state historical society library to new quarters in the capitol.

The delegation requested the Crete chapter to promote wild flower preservation, and resolved to plant a tree on the Doane college campus in appreciation of the hospitality shown the visitors.

One spoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia neutralizes instantly many times its volume in acid. It is harmless and tasteless and its action is quick. You will never rely on crude methods once you learn how quickly this method acts. Please let it show you—now. Be sure to get the genuine. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.
