ROTARIANS MEET

The members of the Rotary club at the pleasure of enjoying the program arranged by the civic improvement committee with A. H. Durbury as the leader of the meeting.

The club members had the opportunity of hearing R. N. Perkins of Omaha, who spoke on the subject of the swimming pool in the community, he being engaged in the building and maintaining of these pools in a great many of the cities of the state. The address was very interesting and followed with a great deal of interest by all of the members of the club.

The new high school boys present at the club and who will be honorary members for the month of April were Delmar Rager, senior and David Robinson, junior. Mr. Robinson gave a very pleasing vocal number as his part of the program of the day.

H. A. Schneider, president of the Chamber of Commerce, was also in attendance, and extended to the members of the Rotary the greetings of this civic body.

DIRECTOR IN RESCUE WORK

Washington—Brother officers call him "Freddy," but "Stonewall," or "Old Hickory," would better describe the fifty-year-old marine, veteran of half a dozen campaigns who is directing rescue work in Managua. He is Col. Frederick Bradman, who is carrying on despite injuries received when a beam fell on him. His determination and courage in disaster are taken as a matter of course by his fellow officers.

"It's just like Freddy," they said of the indomitable, tough-figured "leatherneck" officer working so coolly in the midst of devastation and disaster. Since he took charge of the marines in Managua nearly a year ago he has won the approbation of government officials and of his command.

Colonel Bradman was made a second lieutenant Aug. 6, 1898. He was stationed in Haiti with the first brigade during the World war and has seen service in the Spanish-American war, Philippines, Cuba and Mexico.

SORENSEN WILL APPEAL

"The purpose of the suit was accomplished," said Attorney General Sorenson Monday, when asked about the $1 judgment given him by a jury in his suit for $100,000 damages against Richard F. Wood and nothing against KFAB broadcasting station. "I had been subject to many attacks over the radio, and the court because I believe the liability of broadcasting stations ought to be determined and settled as a matter of law in this state."

SECRETARY IS TO MARRY

Washington—A romance which began on the campus of Stanford university, alma mater of President and Mrs. Hoover, will take form next month, one of her two secretaries, Miss Ruth Fesler. Announcement of Miss Fesler's engagement to Robert Lockwood Lipman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lockwood Lipman of Berkeley, was made by her parents, Judge and Mrs. Bert Fesler of Duluth.

The wedding, to be a quiet affair with no attendants, is scheduled for about May 22, at the home of Miss Fesler's twin sister, Mrs. James A. Nyswander of Ann Arbor, whose husband is a University of Michigan faculty member.

INSURANCE AGAINST WARS

Washington—Universal peace was held Monday for Mrs. Sara Grace King Bronson Iselin, "Queen" of New Jersey, the chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, to be dependent upon worldwide acceptance of a plan to draft capital industry and man power in future war. "Until a more practical method of coping with oppression," he said in a statement, "there appears to be little hope for permanent world peace. However, there is always the possibility of continuing international conflicts to a minimum if the economic profits of warfare can be eliminated beforehand."

MUCH GRAIN ON SHIPS

Buffalo—Nearly six million bushels of grain remained in the twelve vessels of the winter storage fleet still unloaded in the Buffalo harbor, the Buffalo corn exchange reported. Unloading of the fleet has been hampered for several weeks by low water.

HEREDITY

Talent runs in families, says Arthur D. Howden-Smith, who has written the biographies of several famous Americans. He points to the Adams family, which has given the country two Presidents, one or two famous diplomats and the present Secretary of the Navy, as well as one great philosopher and several bankers. Another talented family is that of Roosevelt, with one President to its credit and three members now in public service, one as Governor of New York, another as Governor of Porto Rico and a third as Ambassador to Austria. The Bu Ponts of Delaware have an unbroken record of high ability both in business and statesmanship, as the Morgans have in banking through four generations. The first Cornelius Vanderbilt seems to have transmitted his driving energy and much of his engineering talent as well as his business ability to all of his eleven children and most of their descendants. The La Follette as a family have made a great start toward establishing a "dynasty."

In Europe families like those would constitute the ruling class. But for every representative of a talented family in active public life here, we have a thousand who came up by their own unaided efforts, including such outstanding examples as Chief Justice Hughes, Alfred E. Smith and Herbert Hoover.

MARRIAGE

The action of the Federated Council of Churches of Christ in America in declaring that there is nothing incompatible with the Christian religion in birth control, brings out sharply the contrast between Protestant and Catholic teachings about marriage and its concomitants.

The Catholic church teaches that marriage is a sacrament and that to interfere with any of the natural consequences of marriage is against the will of God. Protestant sects uniformly deny that.

The Plymouth colonists, to whom almost all American Protestantism traces, had no minister at all for several years, but even after they had none they decided that the church had nothing to do with marriage, which was purely a civil contract and it was not until 60 years or so after the settlement of New England that any marriage was performed in the colony by a minister.

These two divergent points of view account for the differences of opinion in respect of divorce, also. If marriage is regarded as a civil contract it can be dissolved by the civil power; if it is a God-given sacrament only God can dissolve it. So long as there are two opposing opinions on the subject, held by such large numbers, birth control and divorce will be debatable subjects.

GRAFT

Whether there is any more graft and corruption on the part of politicians in the big cities, in proportion to population, than there is in many smaller communities, is a question to which nobody can give a satisfactory answer. It does not always take the same form, but it is curious how prosperous many rural sheriffs, supervisors and selectmen become.

Several cities which have abolished the old system of electing their administrative officials, employing a city manager instead, report that not only is the expense to the taxpayers much lower but that public money does not flow nearly so rapidly into private pockets.

This is a good time for taxpayers to be inquisitive about how their tax money is spent.

HARVESTER

Just one hundred years ago, in 1831, the first harvest machine was demonstrated by Cyrus Hall McCormick before a group of farmers of Rockledge County, Virginia.

McCormick's invention has been called the pivot on which the industrial revolution turned. By making possible the same farmer working in the farms to feed more people in the towns, it released labor from agriculture to work in the engineering industries.

Where it took three-quarters of the population, a century ago, to feed themselves and the other one-quarter, now all of the people can be fed by the labor of only one-tenth of their number.

The overproduction of agricultural commodities, from which the whole world is suffering today, is due to failure to control the agricultural machine's output. Many remedies are proposed. The one which seems most likely to cure the situation, if it can be applied, is the Farm Board's program of limitation of acreage in the staple crops.

Today, the more all of the farmers grow the less each of them makes. It is a curious paradox that there is more profit in less production.

FLYING

More air-miles of travel were paid for by the people of the United States in the past year than in any previous twelve-month. Business men and others are getting the habit of flying from city to city to save time. Between Washington and New York, for example, the fastest trains take five hours. The airplane does it in two. the Treasury, for instance, can leave the city at half past seven in the morning, he at the Treasury before ten, and if he is not detained can take a plane back at twelve, arriving at his office a little after two, with a lot of time left in the business day.

The combined rail-and-air routes between East and West are growing in popularity. The plane flies you as far as it can go in a day. Then you take the train for a night's sleep in a Pullman, pick up another plane in the morning for another day's flying.

It costs more to fly than to travel by rail, but the cost is coming down and the safety of flying is increasing.

FOUND GERMAN GOODWILL FUND

New York, April 5.—Establishment of a $1,000,000 fund for the promotion of good will between the United States and Germany, from a gift made by Gustav Oberlander, retired Reading (Pa.) manufacturer, was announced by the Carl Schurz Memorial Foundation, Inc., Sunday.

The money is to be distributed over a 25-year period.

Oberlander, a native of a Germany, specified that the money is to be given to American citizens who wish to study in Germany.

Only citizens working in the fields of public health, public welfare, students doing research and those interested in old age insurance, race relations, music, art or kindred subjects, who it is believed would profit by contacts in Germany, will share in the fund.

A board of trustees with Oberlander as chairman will control distribution of money.

Oberlander made but one reservation; that he be allowed to dictate investment of the principal during his lifetime.

Jacob Gould Schurmann is honorary president and Charles Nagel of St. Louis and Rudolph Erlboech are honorary vice presidents of the board.

LABOR RANKS STILL INTACT

Scarborough, England—Winding up a session of wild debate, which at one point threatened to end in physical combat, the independent labor party conference voted down a motion to break away from the national labor party. Its action was of negligible political importance, for the rift between the independents and the regulars already is wide, and some of the severest criticisms directed at the labor party government in the houses of commons comes from the independent left wingers.

NORMAN GUEST OF GRAYSON

Washington—Governor Norman, of the Bank of England, was the guest of Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, retired. Admiral Grayson said the governor, who arrived Saturday night, has an engagement to lunch with Secretary Mellon Tuesday. The governor, with treasury officials, declined to comment on the nature of his visit, one of numerous he had made to this country. Similarly, on the occasion of each other visit, nothing has been made known of the subjects of their discussion.

Dry Law Attacks and Counter Defense

Wet Organizations Renew Drive—Rallying Cry in Response by Defenders of Act

Washington—Two of the major organizations launched attacks against the dry law, while one of the leading dry groups assailed anti-prohibitionists and another rallied to the defense of the law. The Methodist Episcopal board of temperance openly hit out at the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, charging that "it systematically incites the poorly informed to resentment" against the government. The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment countered with a statement on Norway's "sober experiment," containing the statement that the prohibition amendment presented a situation similar in many respects to that in the United States.

F. Scott McBrider, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, who has just returned from a 5,000-mile trip thru ten southern states, issued a statement to the effect that "the solid south is as solid as ever for prohibition."

From the women's organization for national prohibition reform came an announcement of a two-day "demonstration" against the dry law in Washington, April 14 and 15, and a statement that since women were credited largely with having adopted prohibition, the feminine vote now could be organized for its repeal.

Mrs. Charles H. Sablin, chairman of the women's organization, said she expected 600 women from thirty-two states would attend and did in mapping out of plans to organize voters for anti-prohibition candidates in 1932. Mrs. Sablin said she was "confident the vast majority of women in this country have had enough of prohibition and are now ready to 'say it with halcyon'."

The Methodist board based its attack upon the financial statement of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment for January and February, declaring the reported expenditures of $102,281 to be "astounding and significant."

"It is financed," the board said, "by a few millionaires residing in four states, which are dominated by great cities having large segregated colonies of bewildered immigrants, cities notorious throughout the world for corruption in the administration of municipal affairs."—State Journal.

Belfast Forced by Tax Decline to Cut Expenses

Reductions in Ministries to Come First—School Salaries Involved

Belfast—Northern Ireland, like other parts of the British Isles, is feeling the effects of trade depression, and the Government has announced that in the present session of Parliament it intends to carry out drastic economies in public expenditures.

Viscount Craigavon, the Premier, admits that the financial outlook is unfavorable but claims that it will be possible for the state to pay its way without running into debt if the cost of social services is not allowed to expand further.

Northern Ireland is represented in the Parliament at Westminster and its taxes are imposed by that body.

When the cost of these services has been met out of the taxes paid in the area, the remainder, if any, goes to the British Exchequer. So far there has been a balance on the right side.

In 1922 the "Imperial Contribution" amounted to more than £6,000,000. Last year it fell to £159,000; and the probability is that in the financial year 1931-1932 it will be about £100,000.

Lord Craigavon, during the past winter and where they have had quite a winter for there has been much snow and cold weather all the time, arrived home last Friday and say that Cass county seems like real home to them.
