AGRICULTURE BOYS WIN IN STATE CONTESTS

Nehawka and community can well be proud of the showing made by the six Vocational Agricultural boys in the state agricultural contests at Lincoln last Friday and Saturday.

The livestock team composed of Wilmer Harshman, Robert Schlichtemeier and Malcolm Pollard, all first year students, won first among 35 other teams or 195 boys competing. Such a showing truly indicates that the boys have the true sheep ideal pretty well in mind. The same team took fifth in the state in judging horses. Those two classes of stock are the hardest to judge of any and clearly shows the training of the boys.

Willard Snef took fourth in the state forge contest which was very hard. Had he a little more experience in state contests, it is thought he would have placed runner-up.

In addition to the above, also, Robert Schlichtemeier took sixth in Future Farmers Speaking Contest. He also won tenth in sheep judging. Willard Snef took eighth in judging Ayrshires; Martin Jorgensen, seventh in judging Guernseys and Wilmer Harshman, fourth in judging horses. Howell St. Mohr took part in the egg grading contest but failed to place in the first ten places.

Of six contests entered, Mr. Dorr's teams placed first in one, fourth in another. None of the six entries had had experience in state contests before. The district contest had been the first they had engaged in. It was there at Mead that Mr. Dorr's team defeated Waverly in livestock judging, but Waverly came back to win first in the Lincoln contest.

With more contest experience, greater confidence, more training and more age, next year the boys should make an even better showing.

Mr. Dorr hopes to have more boys to work with next year and hopes to increase the enrollment of the Agricultural department.—Nehawka Enterprise.

WANT CEMENT RATE BOOST

The interstate commerce commission at Washington has decided that the freight rate of cement produced at the Ash Grove plant at Louisville, to Omaha, is too low and accordingly should be raised, dispatches from Washington state.

Acting on complaint of the Dewey Portland Cement Co. and various organizations in northwestern states, the commission examined rates from Iowa producing points to Missouri, Minnesota, Nebraska, South Dakota and Iowa destinations and from Rapid City, S. D., to various points as well as the rates from Louisville.

All of the rates except the Nebraska rates from Louisville were found to be fair. The Louisville rates were held to be preferential. Louisville is 22 miles from Omaha and the rate for cement is 7 1/2 cents per barrel of 94 pounds. This from 1/2 to 1 cent less than the interstate rate from corresponding points.

Holding that the rate should at least equal the lowest figure mentioned the commission would not enter an order at this time but "will leave to the state commission and the carriers the adjusting which was not will harmonize with interstate rates. "If such adjustments are not effected within a reasonable time," the commission said, "the interested parties may bring the matter to our further attention."

CONGRESS IS BLAMED FOR ADDED U. S. COSTS

Washington, April 30.—Congress was held responsible today by Chairman Wood of the house appropriations committee for a large part of the increase in government expenditures in recent years.

Replying to a statement by Senator Borah (rep., Idaho) saying a large share of the blame should be placed on the executive branch, Wood contended "the largest part of the increase aside from the war lies at the door of new legislation passed by congress authorizing or compelling such expenditure, in considerable degree in opposition to the executive."

Greenwood Store Has Visit from Gang of Thieves

White & Bucknell Hardware Store Is Looted of Goods From $300 to $500 in Value

The town of Greenwood, lying as it does on the D. L. D. highway, between Lincoln and Omaha and affording a place of easy escape, offers a fine target for the operation of burglars and sometime early Saturday morning the city was visited by a burglar or gang of them.

The place that suffered from the visitation was the White & Bucknell hardware store, one of the main stores and located on the north side of the main street of the town. This business house was visited by burglars a number of years ago and at that time they had gained entrance by smashing in a part of the woodwork of the door and reaching in turned the night lock, this time they removed the board that had been nailed over the previous hole and repeated the operation of opening the door and gained entrance to the building.

The amount of goods taken amounts to from $300 to $500 and embraces a large array of articles that are carried in a store of this kind including five shot guns, one rifle, three sets of plated table wear, five Big Ben delux alarm clocks, seven pairs of scissors, one Stepmeter alarm clock, four electric irons, one Coleman gas iron, six $1 knives and forty-three of the cheaper varieties, and other articles taken were hammers, pliers, a dozen pairs of gloves and eight boxes of shells for the shotguns that were taken as well as rifle shells. There were a number of smaller articles taken that had not been listed by the owners.

The only trace as to the time that the robbery might have taken place was the report of the night watchman that he had tried the door of the Bucknell store about 4 o'clock Saturday morning and at that time it was all right. A car was reported to have been parked some distance from the store on the D. L. D. highway and which may have been the car of the robbers who apparently escaped into either Lincoln or Omaha with their loot.

Y.—The federal government pushed forward to rescue Augustine Courtland, the British scientist who is marooned somewhere on Greenland's ice cap, a third group at Oslo marked time pending the outcome of the other efforts. The first expedition, aboard the Icelandic patrol boat Odinn, was thought to be bearing the ice barrier at Angmagssalik where, if conditions are favorable, she will unload an airplane in which Sigward Jonsen will fly inland.

Three federal warrants, one against Quattrocchi and the others against persons said to have operated with him a huge Catskill mountain still seized several weeks ago were issued.

White Diamond lay in the Albany hospital Quattrocchi was arraigned before Supreme Court Justice E. Walter Bliss on the assault charge. It grew out of an attack on Joseph Cogliane Oct. 13, 1930. Quattrocchi, was sent back to the Greene county jail with permission to demur to the indictment by May 11. At the jail he joined Nick Fusco, George Hart and Harold Alton, held on open charges.

Federal agents here to investigate the reported beer racket told Attorney General Bennett, in charge of the state's investigation, there were fifty speakies in the town of Catskill and thirty-five in the village.

Reykjavik, Iceland—While two expeditions pushed forward to rescue Augustine Courtland, the British scientist who is marooned somewhere on Greenland's ice cap, a third group at Oslo marked time pending the outcome of the other efforts. If the Odinn cannot land at Angmagssalik because of field ice she may have to go on up to Tasiussak where better conditions have been reported. Great Presbyterian Church at Washington

Commission Report Progress on Project at National Capital—Some Features.

Philadelphia, April 29.—The project and financing for a great national Presbyterian church at Washington is "considerably advanced," said a national Presbyterian commission said in a report today.

The report is to be presented to the Presbyterian general assembly in Pittsburgh on June 1. Dr. Albert Joseph McCartney of Washington is chairman of the commission. Total prospective assets of the project at present were listed in the report as $1,457,000, including an anonymous gift of approximately 245 thousand dollars.

"No site has been selected, nor can be," the report stated, "until the trustees of the national church have in hand one million dollars, for by the terms of the contract with the Covenant church (Washington) the worshiping congregation must be consulted in the selection of a site."

"The general scheme contemplates that when the national church has been built in Washington it will constitute a magnificent mosaic of memorial emphasizing Presbyterian history, organization and achievement and perpetuating personalities that have made distinctive contributions in the way of Christian service."

"It is the interest of the assembly is the plan, already partially accomplished, to have memorial pews for all the moderators of the general assembly from John Witherspoon down. The first pew to be memorialized was taken by the daughters of the late Jackson; another donor designated 15 thousand dollars for the first 15 moderators of the general assembly."

The report said that shortly after the adjournment of the assembly last year the First Presbyterian church of Washington had united with the Church of the Covenant and became a third party in the contract with the trustees of the National Presbyterian Church, Inc.—World-Herald.

Extension Meeting Ends with Summary

Agricultural Agents and Government Men in Final Session Thursday Morning

Agricultural extension agents of the north central states Thursday closed their annual conference at the agricultural college with the summaries of the week. Director G. F. Munroe of North Dakota spoke for the home demonstration leaders. Director T. R. Bryant of Kentucky for the 4-H club leaders, Director R. K. Bliss of Iowa for the county agent leaders, and Director H. J. Emberton of Kansas for the directors.

George E. Farrell of Washington, in charge of all extension work in the district summarized the reports and discussed the future of extension work.

During the Thursday morning sessions both the 4-H club leaders and the county agent leaders considered the problems of reaching the older boys and girls with extension work.

In Kentucky, Carl Jones, formerly an assistant 4-H club leader in Nebraska is now in charge of what they call "Utopia" clubs. These organizations are open to boys and girls over nineteen. The plan is quite similar to 4-H clubs, except that each member undertakes a more extensive project and studies more about farm and home management.

In Minnesota the young people are urged to form partnerships with their parents or older people and to start with extensive projects which will gradually assume the proportions of an entire farm or home management undertaking.

Wisconsin 4-H club leaders have encouraged rural dramas as a sideline of 4-H club activities. The plan meets with the wide approval and the only dangerous feature of it is that people will try so hard to win contests they will forget the purpose, which is to develop ability to entertain themselves among the boys and girls.

Leaders of home demonstration work in the corn belt states should think more about features of their projects which lend themselves to news stories and attract public attention. George E. Farrell of the Washington extension office told these leaders Thursday morning.

Speaking of the standards of living on the farm, he said these standards will either lower in the next few years or there will be a desperate attempt on the part of the farm people to make things meet and make the farm produce a high standard of family life.

HOOVER HOST TO HERO

Washington—A slender, fair-haired school boy from Colorado shared the attention of President Hoover with the dark haired king of Siam, Bryan Untied, thirteen year old youngster whose heroism in the recent Colorado blizzard caused President Hoover to invite him to the white house for a visit of two days and a night, arrived at the white house for the ceremonial reception of the king and queen of Siam.

The royal couple had dinner with the president, a formal affair, but Bryan had lunch with him which was distinctly informal. The president called later on the king, but the ceremony was held on Wednesday night in the blue bedroom where thousands of distinguished visitors to the executive mansion have rested. No king has ever slept there, but Lindbergh has. To add to the busy day at the white house, Herbert Hoover, Jr., who has been recuperating from illness at Asheville, N. C., slipped quietly into the city early in the morning to be warmly greeted by his parents and tempestuously welcomed by his three small children.

Another sight seeing trip in addition to having luncheon with the president and his family.

House Would Quit Saturday Despite Budget Deadlock

Third Conference Report and Bryan Overtures Are Refused; Bryan Offered to Add $385,000.

Lincoln, Neb., May 1.—Having turned thumbs down on the report of its own conference committee on the budget bill and on Governor Bryan's overtures toward agreement, the house of representatives this afternoon greeted a proposal that it adjourn Saturday at 3 p. m. with a chorus of "ayes" that resounded throughout the capital.

Apparently resigned to the hopelessness of their predicament, members trudged through the halls and toward their hotel rooms singing "Oh, we're going home, we're going home."

The move to adjourn sine die originated in the senate a few minutes after the house voted 60 to 34 to reject the majority conference report which slashed 575 thousand dollars off the senate bill by eliminating several new buildings for state institutions.

Bryan Offered to Add $385,000.

Governor Bryan's proposal adding approximately 385 thousand dollars to his original budget, which was contained in a minority report filed by Emil Anderson of Minden, had also been rejected by a vote of 54 to 34.

Senators Reed, McGowan, Neuman, Frush and Lieutenant Governor McCallie held an informal conference outside the senate chamber and decided on immediate adjournment Saturday whether a bill is passed or not.

The house and senate committee on adjournment was hurriedly called together and after a brief session Saturday as the hour was rushed into the house before it adjourned for the day.

There still remained the possibility of a new report being brought in containing changes capable of bringing about an agreement, but generally the chances were considered remote. Chairman A. W. Sprick said he would attempt to bring in a new report Saturday. Other members of the house committee are Jones, Scottsbluff, and Rohlf, Omaha.

Fixing an informal adjournment will not forestall consideration of a new report. Both houses may continue their labors by merely stopping the clock when the hour arrives.—World-Herald.

Nebraska Educators Leave Study Legacies

Waite Left Whole Estate to Three Colleges for Research—Barber Prize Fund

Lincoln, Neb., April 29.—Wills of two University of Nebraska faculty members who died here last Saturday, filed for probate today, reveal bequests for the advancement of education. They are those of Dr. Herbart H. Waite, chairman of the department of bacteriology for the past 15 years, and of Prof. Grove E. Barber, professor emeritus of the department of romance languages.

Dr. Waite's will does not give the amount of his estate, which is left in trust, the income to be used for the benefit of his four children. When the last of these is dead, the estate is to be divided equally between the University of Michigan, Amherst college and the University of Nebraska. The sum left to Amherst shall be given to the governing board to be used for bacteriology and research in the general subject of biology. The sums left for the University of Nebraska and the University of Michigan are to be used for investigation and research in bacteriology.

Prof. Barber's will sets aside the sum of two thousand dollars, to be known as the Grove E. Barber classical prize fund. Three-quarters of the income of this fund is to be presented annually to some student of classic languages at the University of Nebraska. The remaining fourth is to be added to the principal, and if the fund is not exhausted after a year, a second prize may be given.

Seattle, Wash., April 29.—The government lost a suit testing censorship provisions of the 1930 tariff act today a federal court jury's verdict today declared Dr. Johannes Rutenberg's book, "The Sexual Life in Its Biological Significance," should not be barred from the country.

The jury, which took a copy of the book in the jury room during six hours' deliberation last night, decided it was not "obscene, immoral and of no technical value," as the government had charged.

The government sought to confiscate 121 volumes of the work shipped from Leipzig, Germany, to C. E. Mitgard of Seattle.
