During the storm which came on last Sunday, a week ago, the house of Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Peters was struck by lightning, tearing a hole in the roof and setting fire to the building, but a short time until all the town was out in the drenching rain and doing all possible to extinguish the fire which was making but slow progress on account of the torrent of rain which was falling. With the assistance of the hose, the fire ladders soon had the fire out. Better call them the water ladders for every mother's son was soaked to the skin in the rain which was falling. George Bucknell said that as he rushed out he did not take time to tie his shoe strings and as he got into the street he found six inches of water and was "all wet" in a minute. Sophas Peterson, said after the fire was out and a crowd was waiting for the rain to stop and were standing on the porch of Dr. Talcot, "Just as well go now, I cannot get any wetter," and away he went through the rain.

Steals Tire from Car.

On last Saturday Gus Strach and family were over to Harlock where they were doing some trading and also were visiting with their folks, and returning home rather late did not place their auto in the garage, and on the following morning when they were ready to attend church services, they went to get the car and found that one wheel and tire were gone. Not the one on the rear of the car, for that was locked but the thief had taken one from the car and left the car standing on the jack. Verily the thief is abroad in the land.

There is no slack business period for the merchant who advertises his goods the year 'round.

Greenwood in Need of Better Road Facilities

Section of Louisville Road Ungraveled or Paved Isolates West-ern City

The following timely article from the Louisville Courier deals with a very important problem in the country and that is the completion of a surfaced road from Plattsmouth to Greenwood as the road at present is graveled only as far as this city to the west line of Louisville precinct and the residents of the west section are forced to go to Ashland and over the South Bend road to reach the eastern portion of the county in bad weather.

"The people of Greenwood and Salt Creek precinct certainly play in hard luck. They have no way of getting to the county seat except by rail, and railroad facilities are not the best.

County Superintendent of Schools Miss Alpha Peterson, who has been asked why she planned eighth grade examinations, county spelling contests, etc., between the hours of 10 a. m. and 2 p. m., and she stated that the hours were set to enable Greenwood and Salt Creek precinct pupils to return home by train.

"This has been found necessary because in case the weather should be bad west end pupils would be unable to drive. This is the only town in all of Cass county where these conditions exist. The progressive people of Greenwood and Salt Creek precinct have repeatedly endeavored to put over a road graveling program to have the town line road graveled so that they might enjoy the same privileges other towns enjoy, but fortunately the Plattsmouth-Louisville-Greenwood highway separates a number of precincts and aside from Salt Creek and Greenwood precincts the other precincts bordering on this road have all obligated themselves for roads that they were more directly interested in and refuse to take on additional expense to pay for this much-needed highway running east and west through the county.

"From the fact that this highway would furnish a short route to the state capitol as well as enable the people of the west end of the county to reach the county seat there should be some way devised to have this road surfaced without further delay."

Cut in Expenses if Country is to Avoid Tax Boost

New Problems of Financing Declared to Be Facing Government; Balanced Budgets Needed.

Washington—New problems of financing the government and America's position in international banking were discussed by government officials before the national association of mutual savings banks. Undersecretary Mills of the treasury raised the question of whether some of the war taxes had not been repealed or modified too rapidly. He added there was no occasion for alarm unless it should appear that there is a real danger of a series of unbalanced budgets.

Mills advocated an adjustment of the revenue raising measures and predicted that government expenditures as a whole would not be materially reduced because of expansion demand by the people. His speech was read by Assistant Secretary Ballantine, the undersecretary being confined to his home by grip.

Mills said the situation would be one of concern were it not for abnormal conditions with expenditures swelled by emergency needs, and revenues depressed below the normal point.

"Insistence on a balanced budget," he said, "is the one means that I know of compelling a government to live within its income and of making the people realize that if they desire to expand the services of the government they must inevitably look to increased contribution in the form of taxes."

He urged that the tax system be adjusted so there would be no variation between government receipts and expenditures, and said the treasury was endeavoring to find the answer.

Grosvenor Jones, chief of the finance and investment division of the commerce department, told the 600 delegates there was a marked tendency to ascribe the delay in world economic recovery to the fact that "this country is lending an investing in foreign securities less freely" than before the 1929 stock market crash.

"Our critics forget," he said, "that many countries borrowed to the limit, when the borrowing countries as well as this country were prosperous and foreign issues could be easily placed with the American investing public."

In addition to the war debts and short-term investment abroad, he said, Americans had invested more than $15,000,000,000 in foreign securities.

Chairman McFadden, of the house banking committee, predicted recovery from the depression would be a "long, hard pull" and expressed the hope that it would not be necessary for the congress to increase taxes, but that it would reduce government expenses instead.—State Journal.

BORAH HOPES FOR ACTION

Washington—Senator Borah said that American business leaders seem to take kindly to his suggestion for an "unmanned" conference to discuss the legislative program due for consideration by congress next session. However, there appears to be little likelihood for harnessing the sentiment for the conference into definite action.

Senator Borah said it would be a mistake for anyone in Washington, most of any political leader, to direct the proposed conference or even participate in it. He wants the judgment of business and industrial leaders on the problems of taxation, railroad legislation, agricultural relief and other issues due for action in December.

Fall Will Renew Fight on Conviction

Reconsiders Acceptance of Verdict of Guilty in Bribery—To Ask Review.

Washington, May 21.—With revived hope, Albert B. Fall has decided to renew his long contest against his conviction of accepting a bribe while secretary of the interior in the Harding cabinet.

From his home at Three Rivers, N. M., Fall has instructed his attorneys here to apply to the supreme court for a review of the District of Columbia court of appeals decision affirming his bribery conviction and upholding a sentence of a year's imprisonment and a 100 thousand dollar fine.

Fall recently announced that because of illness and advanced age he would abandon his contest against conviction of receiving a 100 thousand dollar bribe from Edward L. Doheny, wealthy oil man. Doheny was acquitted of giving the money.

Frank J. Hogan one of Fall's counsel, in a formal statement said his client's reconsideration was due to the advice of his attorneys and to the importunities of his family and friends.

"Acting upon definite instructions just received from Mr. Fall," Hogan added, "counsel are engaged in preparing a petition to be filed with the supreme court next week."

Hogan said the matter of financing the appeal had not been discussed.—World-Herald.

RUSSIA SEEKS CONTRACT

Madrid—The possibility that Russian petroleum, gasoline and oil may dominate the Spanish market is seen in a contract being arranged between the Spanish government petroleum monopoly and the Russian company "Nafta." Details of the arrangement are still vague, but Indalecio Prieto, minister of the treasury, says he is negotiating with Nafta on a basis that the Russians sell gasoline in Spain at from 18 to 28 percent cheaper than anybody else.

This is Russia's first important business transaction under the new Spanish republic, but Prieto said "it does not mean increased possibilities for communist propaganda."

When PAIN Comes

WHAT many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which quickly neutralizes acids. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali neutralizes instantly many times as much harmful acid, and then the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.

Get the genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia, the kind physicians have prescribed for 50 years in
