Crack Military Band Feature of Fall Festival

Annual Fun Fest Tonic to Depression—Weary to Be Held at So. Omaha August 1-8.

The circus coming to town creates no more excitement in the hearts of the city's children than is created in the ranks of South Omaha Legionnaires with the approach of the annual Fall Festival which will be held at South Omaha August 1 to 8 inclusive.

This annual festival is long looked forward to among the Legion members. It is the one major activity of the post during the year and is given to raise funds for the post welfare work.

This year promises to be one of the best shows so far presented and if the advance sale of tickets is any standard, it will be a record breaker for attendance.

On the grounds, with the main entrance at Twenty-fourth and P streets, will be found many attractive shows, rides and concessions of all kinds. Emil Stahmer, manager of the festival, has selected shows and rides which are aimed to furnish entertainment and amusement for both old and young.

"These shows are the cleanest shows I ever saw," said Mr. Stahmer in commenting on the festival. "I believe that the festival is going to be a healthy thing for this section of the city," he continued.

People are worrying a great deal about the present business depression and they need entertainment. We charge only 10 cents admission to the grounds and there is plenty of fun to be had once one gets inside the grounds. This year the committee is furnishing all the free entertainment possible. This is more than a mere Legion carnival—it's going to net as a tonic for depression-weary South Omahans," Stahmer concluded.

One of the features of the festival will be free band concerts by the crack American Legion band of Omaha post No. 1 who will play every night of the festival. Harry Rossiter is leader of this musical organization which attained national prominence at the Boston national American Legion convention last fall.
