

That One Place They always Miss

Perhaps your "pet peeve" is to get your car back after a "lubrication job" only to find that, as usual, they slighted "that one place" they always overlook. We don't blame you for getting "sore." Who wouldn't?

All we can say is—if you want a complete, scientific lubrication job here's the place. Besides a knowing hand, we get every place—including that one they usually miss. Try us!

Murray

Alfred Nickles has been painting the house of Mrs. J. W. Berger where Mr. and Mrs. Jack Douglas live. George Nickles was called to Omaha on last Saturday where he was looking after some business matters for a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Addleman and little daughter, Elvora, were visitors at the Old Settlers picnic at Springfield on last Friday. Ben Albin was having a foundation built on the farm which he recently acquired and will move his house onto the new place soon.

J. A. Scotten was building a series of hog houses at the home of Harry M. Knabe which will care for his large herd of sows and pigs. Mesdames Wm. Wehrlein and Victor Wehrlein were visiting with friends and also looking after some trading in Plattsmouth on last Thursday.

L. D. Hiatt of Plattsmouth was looking after some business matters and as well visiting with his many friends in Murray on last Monday afternoon. A. T. Hanson and the family and Miss Margaret Moore were visiting with friends in Plattsmouth on last Saturday and as well were doing some shopping while there.

The sons of Phillip Hild were shelling and delivering their corn to the farmers elevator the first part of this week but are waiting for a better price before selling it. George Nickles and the family returned home from a visit at Leigh where they were visiting for a number of days. George says we have better crops here than there.

W. G. Boedecker and the family and Miss Beulah Frans were enjoying a visit at the Frans family reunion on last Sunday which was held at Auburn, they driving down in their auto. It is reported that the trick mule which was with the rodeo and whose antics was pleasing to all who attended, while being moved to Sidney in a trailer which upset and killed the animal.

James Latta and Morgan Stewart were enjoying the afternoon last Sunday at the C. H. Boedecker, Jr. lodge near King Hill where they also fished some but did not need a dray to bring the fish home. L. J. Hallas and the family of Shelton who are taking a ten days vacation are spending a good portion of same in Plattsmouth and were also visiting with friends in Murray on last Monday afternoon.

Martin Sorer and the family were enjoying an afternoon on last Sunday at the review park, Omaha, where they enjoyed seeing the animals as well as the ball game and the elegant picnic dinner which they took along.

Dr. J. W. Brendel of Avoca, brother of J. F. Brendel and Mrs. W. L. Seybolt, accompanied by the good wife, departed early this week for the Ozark mountains in Missouri where they will spend a week in the wilds of that territory. Willard Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Lewis of Coleridge was a visitor in the vicinity of Murray, Nebraska and Union recently and reports that the weather has been very dry there and that the crops were greatly injured thereby.

the Horchars are seeking health writes that James Horchar is looking the best she ever seen him. They made the trip in two and a half days and enjoyed it very much.

Ethan Allen, who was at the hospital for some time is able to be home and which is very much appreciated last week and the family, also good news comes from the station where Walter is in the west which said that he was to leave the hospital on Tuesday of this week.

Mr. Aubrey Townsend closed the barber shop on last Monday and with a truck moved their household goods from Murdock to Murray. This is fine for they have been trying to get a place to live for some time and are now to be at home and ready for the school when it opens.

Both Boedecker and Wehrlein, east and west, were shipping hogs to St. Louis last week. Again Mr. Boedecker and Wehrlein, east, were shipping cattle to Chicago which were sent on Monday from Plattsmouth. The Murray Transfer Co., Frank Mrasek, delivering them to Plattsmouth.

Mr. Wilford Hoeschar of Gretna, Neb., accompanied by his sisters, Miss Nora and Irene, Miss Neta Lancaster and Mr. Dan Horchar left last week for Manitou, Colo., where they will join L. C. Hoeschar. Mr. Hoeschar and family will spend the winter in Manitou where they are hoping for a decided improvement in the health of James and Miss Nora.

E. G. Ruffner and wife were agreeably surprised on last Sunday when a number of their friends from Dunbar dropped in on them as they were returning from Henry Fields where they had been for Saturday and Sunday. There were in the party Messrs. and Mesdames Herman Eras, Martin Zimmermann, Mat Blaser and Emil Blaser and family, all old neighbors of the Ruffners of years ago.

Rodeo Draws Big Crowd. There was a large and very enthusiastic crowd in Murray on last Sunday with a good ball game besides with the Murray team the winners. One of the horses, which was a wild one, threw one of the riders, he striking on the ground on his head and sustained a concussion of the brain. The unfortunate man was taken to Nebraska City hospital. The rodeo moved to Sidney, Iowa, where they are to hold forth for the entire week.

Will Locate at Palmer. The Rev. Robert E. Hanson, who has been ministering at the Christian church of Murray for some time past, has accepted a call to the ministry of Palmer which he begins September 5th. He will conduct services at the Murray church on Aug. 30th. This will be the last service which he will conduct here. Let all come out and show that they appreciate the excellent work which he has done here.

Visiting In the West. Grandma Mrs. Kathryn Perry, who has been making her home at that Sunday at the C. H. Boedecker, Jr. lodge near King Hill where they also fished some but did not need a dray to bring the fish home. L. J. Hallas and the family of Shelton who are taking a ten days vacation are spending a good portion of same in Plattsmouth and were also visiting with friends in Murray on last Monday afternoon.

A. Lewis of Coleridge was a visitor in the vicinity of Murray, Nebraska and Union recently and reports that the weather has been very dry there and that the crops were greatly injured thereby.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Boedecker, Jr., were enjoying a visit on last Sunday at Tabor, Iowa, where they went to visit at the home of a son of Mr. Boedecker whom he attended school with at Shattuck military academy at Fairbault, Minn. They enjoyed the visit nicely. W. S. Smith and the good wife were enjoying a visit at Auburn with some friends whom they knew at one many years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Hansel. Following the excellent dinner, they all attended the Frans family reunion which was held at the city park, Auburn.

build a garage and repair ship and later also will have constructed a residence and make a home there. This seems to be a very good place for a business of this kind and should provide a good business. Mr. Barrows was able to bring a good business to the Murray corner and we are certain he will be able to make a paying business there also.

Give Farewell Party. On Friday evening of last week the many friends of Dr. G. H. Gilmore and the family held a party at the Murray beach in honor of this excellent family who are to depart this week for a stay of some time in California. There were hundreds of the friends of this excellent couple and their son, John, who were desirous of paying honor to the friends who are departing for the west.

International Sunday School Lesson "The Gospel for All Men." Acts 11: 5-18. By L. Neitzel. The Gospel of Jesus Christ, was intended for all men, "the good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people." Luke 2:10. This was a hard lesson to learn of the narrow-minded Jew. But God's purpose to save the whole world must be carried out. God could not change His plans, but He could teach and instruct man, to conform to His plan.

The early church had her troubles, the same as she has today. The question of admitting converts from the Gentiles into the church, without observing the rite of circumcision, became a very pressing one; it had to be settled. The occasion that brought this question before the church was the conversion of an Italian by the name of Cornelius, with his whole family and a number of invited friends. A perusal of the tenth chapter of the Acts, relates the circumstances that raised the question.

The brethren, that had accompanied Peter to Caesaria, were astonished that the Holy Spirit was given to the Gentiles, upon simple faith in Jesus Christ. The fact of this revival at Caesaria was brought to Jerusalem and caused quite a commotion among Apostles and the brethren, and when Peter came to Jerusalem he was accosted by the leaders of the church but Peter was glad for the opportunity to relate the whole matter in an orderly way. The unusual must be expected, when working with God. Spiritual powers are different and do not depend on human rules or even expectations.

From His throne our Lord extends His immediate influence to every part of the world. Distance does not create any problem in His working. Caesaria and Joppo were thirty miles apart but both are dealt with simultaneously in working out the means whereby the household of Cornelius, the Roman Centurion, would receive the empowering of the Holy Spirit. Being in the midst of the Jews this official, who had charge of a hundred soldiers, heard about Jehovah and came to know Him as a personal God. There was a real communion in prayer and his very soul was helped as he practiced the teachings that were found in the Hebrew rolls. He soon learned that love to God required an expression in distribution of alms to those who were in need. This devout man God wanted to lead to the full knowledge of His Son Jesus Christ. God uses human instruments to carry out His purpose. Peter is selected to open the door of the Kingdom to the Gentiles, as he had opened the door to the Jews at Pentecost. For this purpose the Lord had given him the keys, and after this there was no more need of the Keys for Peter, they had served their purpose.

Let us observe here a few lessons that should be emulated by all workers: (1) Concentrate on the service, and come expecting great things from God, forgetting the affairs of the external and seek to receive the hearts desire. (2) The preaching of the word was accompanied by the power of the Holy Ghost. It was the simple story of Jesus Christ and His work for the redemption of the world. (3) The immediate result: All conditions were fulfilled, the audience in an expectant mood, in the proper spiritual attitude, the preacher filled with the Holy Spirit, the conversion of the whole assembly. Wonderful, but just as God would have it today. What man will do his part, God will do His part, there must be harmony and accord between the human and divine, then great things can be accomplished. A worked up revival does not bring the results as the prayed down revival.

God is no respecter of persons, nor race or color, where a heart yearns for God, there the Holy Spirit is ready to assist and finds a way to bring that soul into the light, even if He has to summon a preacher thirty miles away. Race prejudice is still a living issue. When this is resolved in accordance with the sublime teachings of Jesus Christ, and the experience of Peter at Caesaria, much will have been done to advance world peace. Nothing less than the full teachings of Jesus on this subject is sufficient for faith and practice. The whole subject of home and foreign missions is involved.

Murray Red Sox Win from C. B. Eagles

Hans Newman of This City Hurls Great Game and Hold Eagles in Closing Part of Game

The Murray Red Sox added another to their string of victories Sunday afternoon when they annexed the battle with the Council Bluffs Eagles by the score of 8 to 4. The battle was featured by the work of Hans Newman, regular shortstop, who was drafted as pitcher after the third inning and held the Eagles to no scores and two hits. Hopkins, who had pitched on last Thursday and faced another game this week, was started in the game but was forced to take it easy and as the result was nicker for three runs in the fourth inning.

Home runs were checked up by Clinkenberger, pitcher of the Eagles and John Svoboda and Cholcher of the Red Sox. In the opening inning the Red Sox started the scoring on two errors and two hits, one being a two bagger by Joe Krejci. Newman, Stone and Cholcher all registering while for the Eagles they were retired in one, two, three order, Hopkins striking out two of the Eagles.

The second inning saw the Eagles score on a triple by Newman and a safe hit by Frank, the last three batters being struck out by Hopkins. The third saw the visitors take the lead for a few moments when Clinkenberger opened the inning with a circuit drive and followed by Hahn who was out on a fly to Krejci in left field. Rautickus was safe on an error of Newman and scored when Spoto hit a triple and later scored when Frank tripled.

The Sox again took the lead in the last of the third inning, Stone hitting safely and followed by Cholcher who hit for a home run. In the fourth the Sox added to their lead by two runs, Hansener hitting and scored when John Svoboda pulled one for a home run. After the third the visitors were scoreless, unable to save the slants of Newman, while in the ninth inning Pierce scored for the Sox on the double of Stone.
