Paul in Thessalonica and Berea.

Acts 17:1, 5-11. 1 Thes. 2:7-12

We marvel at the courage and perseverance of Paul, not disheartened by the treatment he suffered at Philippi. He presses on, his time is short, the field is large, thousands are daily passing into eternity, without a Savior. His orders are: "Go!" He passes through several cities without stopping, for reasons which are not disclosed. His first stopping place is Thessalonica, about one hundred miles from Philippi. This city, under its modern name, Salonica, became famous during the World war as a strategic post. This city with its seventy thousand inhabitants, had about thirty thousand Jews, also a synagogue. According to his custom Paul would bring his message of "good tidings" first to the Jews; on three Sabbaths he reasoned with them out of the scriptures, opening, alleging that Christ must needs have suffered, and risen again from the dead, and that this Jesus is Christ. There were ready and willing hearers, who accepted the Gospel.

Men and women consorted with Paul and Silas. But again jealousy asserts itself in the vicious ways; here the Jews hired market place bangers-on, to do their "dirty work" when the mob stormed the house of Jason, their friendly host, the apostles were "out." Poor Jason had to pay the penalty, for being kindly host, and he was bound over to see that peace was kept. We note with some satisfaction the testimony of the enemies of the apostles give them: "These that have turned the world upside down are come hither also." The gospel does disturb the prevailing order of things when that is wrong and sinful, but it is the one force that brings the world right side up. Sin had first turned the world the wrong side up, Christianity reverses the order. It became necessary for the apostles of righteousness to move on, but the world was still their field.

Onward goes the Gospel in its triumphant march, some fifty miles farther into heathen darkness, the Gospel-light is carried. Berea, has made for itself a name
